Atacama Resources International Launches Pilot Project for its New Good2Drive/Fleet Safety Product

PLANTATION, FL--(Marketwired - Sep 26, 2017) - (OTC PINK: ACRL) Atacama Resources International is launching Good2Drive/Fleet, a mobile application that allows commercial fleet owners and operators to manage multiple drivers as they test their mental alertness before getting behind the wheel of a truck, bus or van. Good2Drive/Fleet uses a simple and fun 60-90 second image-matching test using a patented process based on scientific studies of mental abilities conducted at various West Coast hospitals and universities. A unique feature of Good2Drive/Fleet is the Dashboard, controlled by responsible fleet executives through any computer. As each driver takes the Good2Drive test, the results of the test are recorded on the Dashboard, along with a 'selfie' of the driver taken at random during the test.

Glenn Grant, CEO, reported, "Atacama Resources International is excited about the release of Good2Drive/Fleet for commercial applications. The Good2Drive test for driver alertness is now available for fleet drivers in even the largest fleets and can be monitored and controlled by responsible company managers from any computer." Grant continued, "The Good2Drive test has been proven to accurately identify cognitive impairment, whether caused by drinking, drugs, or drowsiness. The use of the daily test as part of the driver pre-check procedure at the start of the shift will help the fleet owner in promoting safe driving. The benefits, in terms of fewer accidents and its consequences, are obvious and that is why Good2Drive/Fleet will become an important tool in the commercial driving world."

The first commercial use of Good2Drive/Fleet will be by Calgary, Alberta-based Surepoint Group, a respected company providing high-quality instrumentation and electrical services in the oil and gas, construction, mining and power generation industries. With over 300 employees based throughout Western Canada and the US, the company is a natural for the first pilot project for Good2Drive/Fleet.

Trevor Muir, Surepoint Group's CEO, adds, "After hearing about Good2Drive/Fleet and how the company would benefit from the use of the Good2Drive app, we were eager to engage in the pilot project now underway in one of our branches in Northern BC. After getting familiar with how the company monitors and controls the results of the testing, we are scheduled to introduce Good2Drive/Fleet throughout the company. The 90-second test taken every day by each of our drivers is a small price to pay for the benefits that Surepoint Group will enjoy."
