A NOTE FROM THE PUBLISHER

It gives me great pleasure to present the Pointed Leaf Press catalog for the fall of 2019. Since the company was founded in 2002, it has grown to become one of the top—and award-winning—publishers of illustrated books in the worlds of interior design, fashion, art, and photography. As a former art historian, and after over 35 years as a journalist, editor, and reporter, at such publications as the New York Times, as well as at numerous magazines such as New York, Esquire, Elle Decor, and House & Garden, I continue to be fascinated by the careers and accomplishments—as well as the intimate and powerful stories—of the talented people in the creative fields that are so influential and essential to the world in which we live. At Pointed Leaf Press, I work closely as a team with Frederico Farina, our creative director, and Kelly Koester, our managing editor, to ensure that each of our books is designed, produced, and edited to the highest standards. Each of our titles is individualistic and created to suit the needs and aspirations of its author—whether to feature, for today’s audiences, the work of top interior designers and architects, or to introduce the work of legendary photographers to a new generation. Collecting, one of my life-long passions, is also the focus of many of our titles, offering a glimpse into subjects that are both original and stimulating. I am particularly proud that many of our custom-designed books have not only been successful in the marketplace, but continue to serve as efficient marketing and branding tools for their authors. I hope you will visit us on our website, interact with us through social media, and continue to value the beautifully-designed illustrated book as one of the most vital and important cultural elements of our time.

ARTIFACT

The Art and Gardens of Jeff Mendoza

BY JEFF MENDOZA

Artifact presents the thoughtful and sophisticated landscape designs of Jeff Mendoza. A formally trained artist, his work often reflects the natural world—depicting botanical forms with earthly palettes. He noticed this connection and opened his eponymous firm, J. Mendoza Gardens in 1987. While plants became his medium, he approached the design of a garden in the same manner he would a drawing or painting—considering form, color, texture, scale, and the overall composition. Artifact is a portfolio of Mendoza's accomplished career tracing his various projects—whether a city terrace or a country yard—each is intellectually planned for their unique environment and spatial layout.

JEFF MENDOZA is an artist and plantsman who created J. Mendoza Gardens in 1987. His work has been widely published in numerous publications including House and Garden and Garden Design. His projects included both corporate and residential clients. Now retired, he lives in New York and Vieques, Puerto Rico.

MOHAMMAD, MY MOTHER & ME

BY BENOIT COHEN

Benoit Cohen, a French filmmaker living in New York learns that his mother Marie-France, is about to welcome Mohammad, an Afghan refugee, into her mansion in the center of Paris where she lives alone. Cohen can't help but worry about his mother who is opening her home to a stranger. He returns to France to encounter Mohammad. Between Cohen who had chosen to leave his hometown, and Mohammad who had no choice in his fate, an intense relationship is born under the gaze of Marie-France who completes this unlikely trio. In this singular narrative, the author describes with warmth and humor the exhilarating and circuitous path that defines what "to give" means in the complexity of the modern world.

Born in 1969, BENOIT COHEN is a French producer, filmmaker, and screenwriter. After studying filmmaking at NYU, he started his own production company, Shadows Films, produced several short films, and directed his first feature, Chameleone in 1996. Between 2000 and 2014, Cohen made five other feature films, a few documentaries and three TV series. His last movie, You'll Be a Man was a significant success at film festivals around the United States (selected for more than 60 festivals and won 40 awards).

In 2014, after moving to Brooklyn, Cohen drove a taxi cab around the five boroughs, for several months, to gain perspective for a screenplay about a French actress becoming a taxi driver in New York. He wrote Yellow Cab, a book about this experience, which was published in May 2017 by Pointed Leaf Press. Mohammad, My Mother & Me, is his second book to be published in the United States.

DAWN

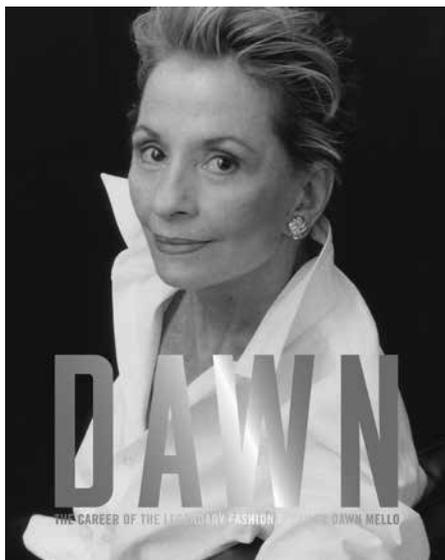

The Career of the Legendary Fashion Retailer Dawn Mello

BY JOHN A. TIFFANY

Pointed Leaf Press is proud to present the first monograph on Dawn Mello in a lavishly-illustrated book that spans her impressive career. In 1975, Mello was hired in partnership with then CEO, Ira Neimark, as Fashion Director and VP of Bergdorf Goodman. Together they turned the once dowdy department store into the retail center of luxury fashion. In the late 1980s, Mello left Bergdorf Goodman to revitalize the fading and nearly-bankrupt Gucci. While there, she hired Tom Ford as creative director and Richard Lambertson as design director. By the time she left, Gucci was back on top as a bonafide high-fashion brand. She has spent decades bringing other people's stories to life, silently in the background while others took their bow. She identified talent, pursued designers, and helped launch and nurture their careers. Michael Kors, Donna Karan, Giorgio Armani, Calvin Klein, Gian Franco Ferre, Azzedine Alaia, Claude Montana, Jean-Paul Gaultier, Christian Lacroix, Jo Malone—and the list goes on. Discover the amazing career of the formidable Dawn Mello.

JOHN A. TIFFANY grew up in California's Santa Ynez Valley and later graduated from Pepperdine University's International & Intercultural Affairs program. He speaks at museums, corporations, clubs, and universities and appears frequently on television, radio, and film, and is a frequent pundit in newspapers, magazines, and online including The Wall Street Journal, The New York Times, Women's Wear Daily, Town & Country, Harper's Bazaar, W, Elle Décor, and House Beautiful. He is the author of Eleanor Lambert: Still Here published by Pointed Leaf Press.

"A rare blend of grace, power and vision, Mello had an uncanny knack for spotting and nurturing design talent, reviving brands to fashion prominence and succeeding in a male-dominated retail industry."* —Women's Wear Daily

DRAWING FASHION

The Art of Kenneth Paul Block

BY SUSAN MULCAHY

FOREWORD BY YVES SAINT LAURENT

INTRODUCTION BY ISAAC MIZRAHI

Kenneth Paul Block was one of the most influential fashion illustrators of the 20th century. His first job was at the powerful Women's Wear Daily in the 1950s, an association that lasted over 30 years—and where Block witnessed and recorded one of the most important periods in fashion history—the postwar shift as the exclusive world of couture transformed into prêt-à-porter. Attending all the major fashion shows in Paris, London, and New York, Block was the first one on the scene, drawing the latest style-setting clothes from such venerable houses as Balenciaga, Chanel, and Saint Laurent. He also documented the up and coming designers of the time, including Marc Jacobs, Perry Ellis, and Halston. He was well known in society, sketching Gloria Vanderbilt and the Duchess of Windsor among others. He reported on sensational parties in Palm Beach and New York, attended by Babe Paley and Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, and created a unique archive of the era. Drawing Fashion: The Art of Kenneth Paul Block is the first monograph on the artist, and brings together a lifetime of drawings, watercolors, and observations. Fashion illustration disappeared from publications as photography took over, giving added emphasis to this book as an important historical document. Drawing Fashion, designed by Shahid & Company, captures a critical moment in time when fashion, art, and commerce coincided.

THE FRENCH RIBBON

The French Ribbon is a unique sourcebook celebrating France's deep-rooted tradition of ribbon-making—from the time when ribbons were an essential and often functional fashion accessory used to express individuality and style in everyday life, from weddings to times of mourning. Following the closure of one of the oldest factories in the industrial town of Saint-Etienne, France, an incredible cache of old salesmen's sample books, cards, and packaging surfaced to be photographed for posterity. Over 600 of these documents are now included—ribbons made from cotton, silk, satin, velvet, metallic threads, and innovative synthetic materials. The French Ribbon is a must-have book for every person interested in fashion, design, craft, art, and the history of textiles.

“A great deal of charm and variety. The printing is such good quality you can hazard a good guess at what is velvet, what is real silk, what is printed, and what brocaded.”

BE DAZZLED!

Norman Hartnell: Sixty Years of Glamour and Fashion

BY MICHAEL PICK

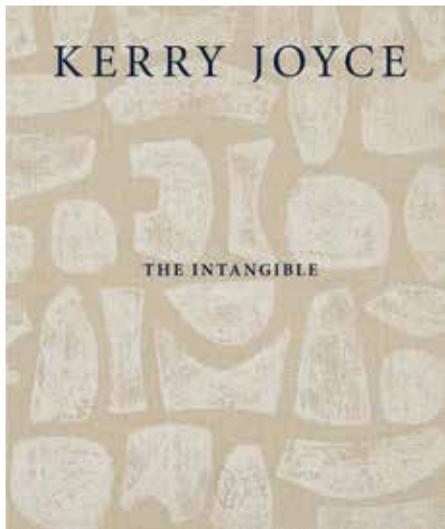

Norman Hartnell (1901–1979) was a unique British designer. By the mid-1930s, his meteoric rise to fame had made London a center of style that closely rivaled Paris. While Hartnell clients included members of the English upper class and the best-known stage and film actresses, it was his royal patronage that assured him a place in history. Hartnell's famous White Wardrobe, designed for Queen Elizabeth and photographed by Cecil Beaton, changed the image of royalty forever. The Queen's extraordinary Coronation dress, as well as the sublime wedding gown created for Princess Margaret, remains iconic to this day. Decades of achievement were rewarded with a knighthood in 1977, making Sir Norman Hartnell the first fashion designer to be so honored. In Be Dazzled! Norman Hartnell: Sixty Years of Glamour and Fashion, the only illustrated monograph on this couturier, royal enthusiasts and style connoisseurs can examine Hartnell's never-before published drawings, vintage photographs, fabric samples, and personal scrapbooks.

HOLIDAY HOUSE

Ten Years of Decorating for a Cure

BY IRIS DANKNER

FOREWORD BY CHRISTOPHER HYLAND

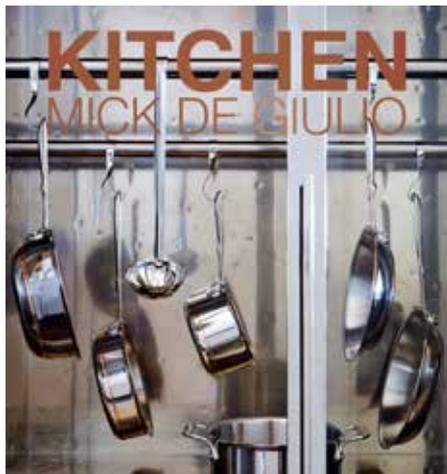

Published in conjunction with the tenth year of the New York-based showhouse Holiday House, this book highlights the best and brightest rooms created by some of the world's leading designers. Holiday House: Ten Years of Decorating for a Cure is a celebration of the union of design and philanthropy. The Holiday House Showhouse was founded by IRIS DANKNER to raise breast cancer awareness in the design industry. Iris is a 20-year breast cancer survivor, and has made it her mission to raise funds for breast cancer research and to support women who need help fighting this disease. In 2008, combining her two passions—her love of design and her efforts to help women in need—Iris created Holiday House, the first designer showhouse held in New York to benefit a breast cancer organization. In this lavish book, the magic and skill of interior designers come to life as empty rooms are transformed by a variety of interpretations. Recruiting top interior designers in the New York area, the showhouse was held in the Academy Mansion, an historic house on Manhattan's Upper East Side, and was a resounding success, with all proceeds donated to the quest to end the scourge of breast cancer. Since its inception, Holiday House has featured the foremost interior designers in the industry, received critical acclaim, been endorsed by some of the most celebrated global luxury brands, and has expanded to showhouses in the Hamptons on Long Island, Soho in downtown Manhattan and, in the Fall of 2017 in London, England.

“Reflecting on the past 10 years of showhouses, the book highlights the talents of top interior designers.”

BY BARBARA OSTROM
PREFACE BY MARIO BUATTA

Curtain Up!: Thirty Years of Spectacular Showhouse Rooms is a glossy compendium of interior designer Barbara Ostrom's extraordinary rooms that she has created in the past 30 years for the most prestigious showhouses in New York City, New Jersey, and the Hamptons. With a preface by Mario Buatta, the book highlights some of Barbara's most wildly imaginative and over-the-top rooms. It also displays her process from start to finish, where she often has to begin with a gutted, crumbling room. The results are whimsical and colorful, with details ranging from a crystal chandelier adorned with an umbrella, ten foot-high canopy beds, antique birdcages, Fu dogs, a 15th century knight in armor, Grecian gas lights, a hand-woven hammock from Jamaica, to ceilings painted with monkeys, parrots, squirrels, and butterflies. Ostrom's rooms are exuberant and uplifting—no wonder she's been dubbed 'Queen of the Showhouse.'

BARBARA OSTROM, A.S.I.D., is one of the nation's leading experts in the design of classical and architectural detailing, she regularly consults with builders of high-end residential and commercial installations. She has been participating in showhouses for over 30 years, culminating in over 75 rooms. The residential clients of Barbara Ostrom Associates have included President and Mrs. Richard Nixon, Michael Strahan, and Kimora Lee and Russell Simmons.

À LA CARTE

The Elements of an Elegant Home

BY SHERRILL CANET

For New York-based interior designer Sherrill Canet, the past is something to be recreated with relish and ambition. The decorator takes her cues from disparate periods, regions, and artifacts to craft an unmistakably refined aesthetic: eighteenth-century French and English antiques, chinoiserie, painted furniture, Art Deco, the glamour of the Gilded Age, and the mansions that once dotted the Gold Coast of Long Island, New York—a region Canet also calls home—are all incorporated. Illustrated with principal photography by Michel Arnaud, À La Carte brings together Canet's work and commentary to create an exclusive tutorial on decorating in a range of elegant styles, from Old World traditional to chic and tailored. Whether your library is a modern den or a gentleman's English country retreat, Canet's advice on choosing the room's essential elements is always keen—with comfort and function in mind.

Incorporating a love of antiques and fine detail into all of her projects, SHERRILL CANET creates gracious and comfortable settings that mix the old with the new, giving her clients' homes a classic and timeless appeal. Canet attended the Inchbald School of Design in London, and graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree in Economics from Fordham University. She has offices in Manhattan, Locust Valley, New York, and Palm Beach, Florida.

ITALY OF MY DREAMS

The Story of an American Designer's Real Life Passion for Italian Style

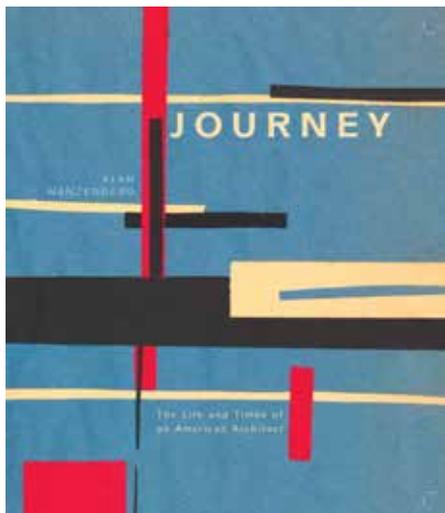

BY MATTHEW WHITE

Italy of My Dreams: The Story of an American Designer's Real Life Passion for Italian Style is the expansive culmination of what began as the childhood pursuit of "tiny bits of Eden" in Amarillo, Texas, and developed into a deep personal connection with the art and architecture of Italy. Full of theatrical, bold exteriors, and interiors adorned with classical flourishes, each featured project is a unique testament to the designer's appreciation of Italian design. Worn, reclaimed beams complement sweeping Venetian doors, lush rooftop gardens recall the Southern Italian countryside—these are modern spaces steeped in an historic sensibility, yet free of replication or pastiche. While the locations change—from California villas to a palazzo in New York—the designer's passion remains true, making Italy of My Dreams an intimate inspirational celebration of Italian style.

MATTHEW WHITE is an American interior designer whose work has been featured in nearly every American shelter magazine. In 2003 he joined forces with Frank Webb, launching the design firm White Webb, LLC. He serves on the board of Save Venice Inc., and the Historic Preservation Committee for the hamlet of Hillsdale, New York.

CLASS ACT

William Haines: Legendary
Hollywood Decorator

BY PETER SCHIFANDO AND
JEAN H. MATHISON

William Haines came to Hollywood after winning a new talent contest in 1922. He appeared in over twenty films as a leading man to famous stars, including Joan Crawford, Marion Davies, and Constance Bennett. As Haines' film career ended, his self-taught skills as a decorator flourished, and many of his costars became his first clients. Later in his career, he courted political figures like Walter and Lee Annenberg, and business leaders like Alfred and Betsy Bloomingdale. After Haines' death in 1973, his associate and heir-apparent, Ted Graber, took over the firm, and from 1981 to 1989 was in charge of one of its most important commissions, the decoration of the private residence at the White House for President Ronald Reagan and his wife, Nancy. Class Act William Haines: Legendary Hollywood Decorator is the first monograph of Haines' legendary 40-year design career, and offers a rare glimpse into the private lives of his Hollywood clientele. Over 300 photographs (both vintage and new), drawings, and personal mementos present a comprehensive view of his major design projects.

PETER SCHIFANDO, a longtime associate of Ted Graber's, and JEAN H. MATHISON, assistant to both Haines and Graber for 30 years, have opened their private collections to reveal Haines' fabulous interiors and furniture designs, including the famous Hostess and Elbow chair that are much copied today. This book is a primary source for decorators, furniture designers, and everyone interested in the unique career of one of the 20th century's most daring and creative personalities.

ULTRAMODERN

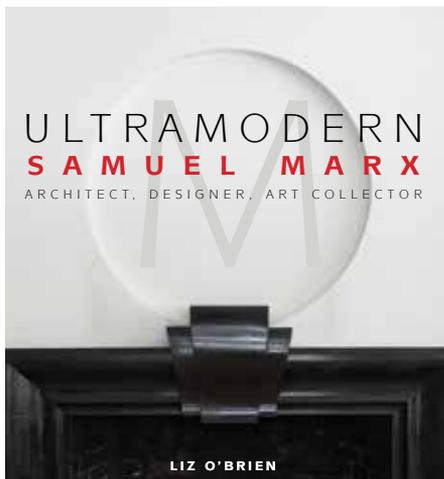

Samuel Marx: Architect, Designer,
Art Collector

BY LIZ O'BRIEN

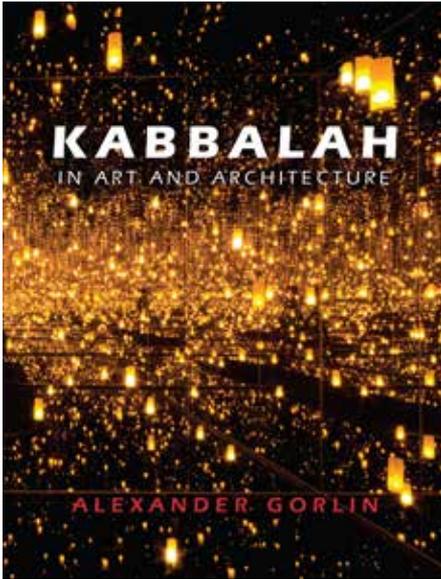

Although Samuel Abraham Marx was born at the end of the 19th century, he had the eye of a modernist—as an architect, furniture designer, connoisseur, and collector. His vision was neither ostentatious nor grandiose, but subtle and quietly magnificent. Ultramodern Samuel Marx: Architect, Designer, Art Collector is the first monograph on this lesser-known but increasingly influential American designer. In more than 200 photographs, Marx expert and decorative arts dealer Liz O'Brien reveals many of his undiscovered projects, including houses that have been razed despite preservationists protests, as well as his range of furniture designs. Throughout his career, Marx was sought after for his ability to integrate art in well-heeled interiors. The private art collections of many of his wealthy clients have, in the past 40 years, been dispersed to major museums, including the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the Museum of Modern Art in New York, and the Art Institute of Chicago.

LIZ O'BRIEN is a decorative-arts dealer specializing in modern design. Her interest in Marx began more than ten years ago when she first showed his furniture designs in her New York gallery, making some of his best pieces available to interior designers and collectors. O'Brien is now recognized as a leading Marx expert and has been instrumental in placing him as an important figure in the history of 20th-century architecture and design.

“Rooms designed by Samuel A. Marx have so satisfying a feeling of oneness that it’s frequently hard to say where the architecture ends and the furniture begins.”

Comprising ten chapters that each outline key concepts of the Kabbalah and its representations, both in historic diagrams and the modern built environment, Kabbalah in Art and Architecture puts forth an unparalleled and compelling reinterpretation of art and architecture through the lens of the Kabbalah and Jewish mysticism. JACK

Drawings and Paintings by Jack Ceglic
2009–2012

BY JACK CEGLIC

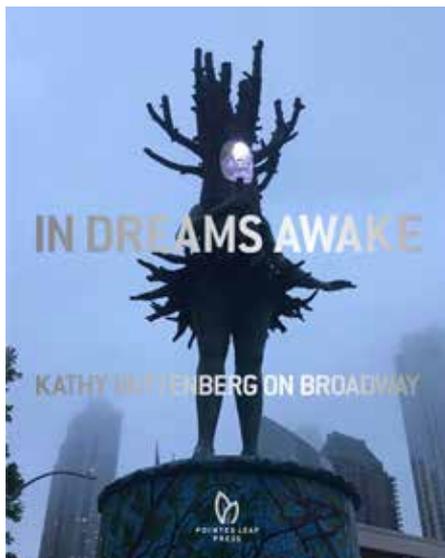

Pulling together a fine balance between light, vibrant color, and the personality of his models, Jack Ceglic captures his subjects in moments of what seem to be their purest truths. His candid and engaging portraits keep the viewer oscillating between wanting to know more about his subjects, and keeping a cool, introspective distance from them. While some of Jack's friends are well-known and some not, Jack likes to maintain a level of anonymity for all of his subjects. "One has to trust the eye, the brain, and the way you react to something," says the artist whose previous career includes being one of the creators of Dean & DeLuca, as well as being a designer of innovative residences, including his own home and studio in East Hampton, New York. "I want to secure a likeness that I believe I see." With a preface by Pulitzer-Prize winning poet Philip Schultz and an interview by actor and director Joe Mantello, Jack: Drawings and Paintings by Jack Ceglic, 2009-2012 comprises an insightful, evocative, and timeless oeuvre.

"Jack sees the innate integrity and beauty in what we think of as 'ordinary' and the astonishing complexity that is required in order to achieve simplicity."

IN DREAMS AWAKE

BY KATHY RUTTENBERG

On April 27, 2018, six large-scale sculptures were unveiled along New York's historic Broadway – from across from Lincoln Center, at 64th Street and extending up to 157th Street. The artist, Kathy Ruttenberg, most known for her fantastical mix of human, nature, and plant forms used in ceramics, watercolor, and sculpture, spent months planning, designing, and executing the works. From an armless mouse atop a squash-like pedestal, to an upside-down female Atlas, a woman caught in a contemplative moment while inside a snail's shell, and a deer-man and his tree-lady partner who walk in an embrace—these fairytale-like creatures are juxtaposed against New York's chaotic urban landscape. In Dreams Awake—also the name of the installation—tracks Ruttenberg's progress from concept to the final results. Sponsored by the Broadway Mall Association, the installation will be up through March 2019.

Artist KATHY RUTTENBERG has built a career spanning three decades. Her work, which has garnered both critical acclaim and awards, has been exhibited and collected worldwide—from the Tisch Children's Zoo in New York's Central Park to the Mamiraua Sustainable Development Reserve in Amazonas, Brazil.

“Ruttenberg explores the relationship between the natural worlds and humans through a feminist perspective and brings her world of fantastical dreams to life in a public setting.”—The Cut

GEORGIAN AND VICTORIAN BOARD GAMES: THE LIMAN COLLECTION

As the turn of the 18th and 19th century approached in Great Britain, more and more parents and teachers embraced a suggestion from the philosopher John Locke, that “learning might be made a play and recreation to children.” Georgian and Victorian Board Games: The Liman Collection beautifully demonstrates board games from the time. Showcasing 55 such games that were made for both instruction and delight, the book reflects on a trans-Atlantic market that flourished into and through the 19th century. Although games were often printed on linen or board instead of delicate paper, many fell apart thanks to enthusiastic use. But those that do survive open a window onto the time period in which they were created, reflecting its social and moral priorities as well as nearly every educational subject. Georgian and Victorian Board Games: The Liman Collection enables us to follow the course of the Industrial Revolution and the expansion of the British Empire alongside changing attitudes toward childhood and education—shining a light on a corner of children’s culture and the adults that created it.

“Printed in an oversize format, which allows you to appreciate the impressive details that fill these boards—but best of all, the book has five gatefolds that open out to reveal five games.”

A LIFE OF THINGS

BY DANIEL ROZENSZTROCH

A Life of Things presents the eccentric world of Daniel Rozensztroch and his innumerable collections of everyday things, which encompass the worlds of art, antiques, found objects, and everything in between. Collected over years of traveling the world, the obsessive collections of objects range from the ordinary to the sublime, and include hundreds of toothbrushes, glass globes for lacemaking, sailor iconography, vases from the Jin dynasty, tin frames, Christmas ornaments, and Japanese folk art. Photographed in their settings in his apartments in Paris and Nice, France, the book allows for a fascinating look into the two homes as cabinets of curiosities. As Rozensztroch explains, “A collection can be three or 300 objects and the subject of this book is how I see them as being related to each other and how I live with them and appreciate them every day.”

DANIEL ROZENSZTROCH has been a longtime consultant to the magazine Marie-Claire Maison and is the creative director of Merci in Paris, France. He is also the co-author of a series of titles in the Style Series published by Clarkson N. Potter, as well as a number of books on the subject of everyday things that include Wire and Kitchen Ceramics (Abbeville Press); Glass (Harry N. Abrams); and Herring: A Love Story and Spoon (Pointed Leaf Press).

“Today, Rozensztroch’s Paris loft overflows with thousands of artworks, antiques and flea-market finds from around the world. But most of these “treasures” are utilitarian objects, humble everyday things like spoons, metal strainers and wire hangers that chez lui are given a second life.”

CONNECTIONS

Moroccan Carpets/Design/Art/Architecture

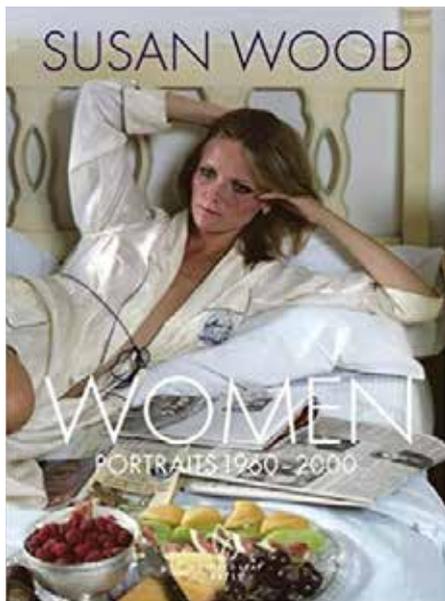

BY FRANÇOISE DORGET

Françoise Dorget, a well-known personality on the Paris design scene has travelled all over the world. One place in particular—Morocco—captured her heart and she returned time and time again. Over the years, she amassed a collection of hundreds of Moroccan rugs from several regions all over the country. In Connections: Moroccan Carpets/Design/Art/Architecture, Dorget's vast collection is on full-display. Using her extensive knowledge of design and art, Dorget pairs each carpet with a work of art, architecture, or one of memorable photographs she has taken on her travels—creating a personal, cultural, and meaningful link between the two images. The book includes information on each region's design and weaving process and some of the images are of works by such designers and architects as Philippe Starck, Isamu Noguchi, Ettore Sottsass, and Eileen Gray. Connections links cultures from all over the globe bringing them together into a cohesive and intellectually stimulating compilation.

FRANÇOISE DORGET has deeply influenced the world of interior design, placing the talents of artisans and authentic handicrafts from the four corners of the earth at the heart of her work. In 1974, she and a friend founded the first Etamine shop, specializing in fabric and interior design, and in 1992, she opened Françoise Dorget Compagnie, a specialized consulting firm to major interior design companies in France, England, and Japan. In 1995, the first Caravane shop opened in the heart of Paris' Marais district. This space expressed creativity through exhibitions devoted to rare handicrafts, 20th century textiles, photography, and Moroccan rugs as well as the work of contemporary artists and designers. Dorget has written for publications such as L'Express, Marie-Claire Maison, and AD France. She divides her time between Paris, Tangiers, and India. Connections: Moroccan Carpets/Design/Art/Architecture, is her first book.

PARIS AVANT QU'IL NE SOIT TROP TARD BEFORE IT IS TOO LATE

BY THOMAS MICHAEL GUNTHER

Paris, Before It Is Too Late is a curated selection of 60 vintage photographs by the French photographer André Ostier. Spanning the career of Ostier from his days in Paris during World War II through the 1960s and 1970s, these striking images capture the City of Light through his eyes, and instill a certain sense of nostalgia. The famous fashion photographer known for his work with the couturier Christian Dior sought to document a fleeting Old Paris by capturing its people, buildings, and the special moments of the city he so admired. Part of the book is a replica of an album Ostier put together himself, Paris, avant qu'il ne soit trop tard, but the book also includes a specially curated selection of rare and haunting images he took during the war.

The insatiable visual curiosity of the Paris photographer André Ostier (1906–1994) led him to capture a wealth of images during his lifetime. Known for his portraits of artists and writers, Ostier also chronicled the fancy-dress balls of the glamorous 1950s and 1960s. In this work, THOMAS MICHAEL GUNTHER, the Paris-based historian of photography, takes a close look at the passion and conviction that characterize André Ostier's views of the City of Light.

HOTEL CHELSEA

PHOTOGRAPHS BY VICTORIA COHEN

Notorious as a refuge for the eccentric, the eclectic, and the creative, the Hotel Chelsea has been home to some of the great and unconventional writers, musicians, artists, and actors of the past century, including Bob Dylan, Janis Joplin, Charles Bukowski, and Allen Ginsberg, to name just a few. When the hotel was sold and closed for full renovations in August 2011, American photographer Victoria Cohen was invited to capture and document the essence of the building's original interior before it's imminent demise. Cohen's photographs of these hallways, lobbies, and rooms, once beaming with life and vision, now bare and aged, illuminate a bohemian era that once was, speaking untold truths of a lost time. Fascinating and bittersweet, Hotel Chelsea casts the historic landmark through the lens of the twenty-first century, exhibiting it as it has never been seen before, and will never be seen again.

VICTORIA COHEN is a New York-based photographer. Self-taught, Cohen shoots mostly in the large format 4 x 5 medium. Her work ranges from landscapes to portraiture, with an emphasis on the connection between the human condition and environments.

"An evocative coffee-table book...which treats the oddly painted rooms' quirky mix of old and new furniture, worn carpeting and garish bedspreads as something like sacred relics."

FRIDA KAHLO

Photography of Myself and Others

BY VICENTE WOLF

Few personalities have so fully captured the public's imagination with the power of Mexican artist Frida Kahlo. Through Wolf's stunning collection, we are offered a fresh and captivating look into the private life of the iconic artist, her exuberant husband, and their influential inner circle, which included French surrealist André Breton, Mexican artist José Miguel Covarrubias, and Russian revolutionary Leon Trotsky. These photographs—several of which Kahlo hand-inscribed with dedications, self-deprecating marks, and traces of lipstick—pose fascinating questions about an artist who was both the consummate architect of her own image and a beguiling and willing photographic subject. Frida Kahlo: Photographs of Myself and Others invites readers to experience the couple's world as an insider, and to take part in the rich narrative these two stunning artists wove throughout their life together. Enhanced by historical notes and quotes from Frida's diary, the book also features a complete facsimile of the couple's family album.

VICENTE WOLF is a world-renowned interior designer, a collector of vintage photographs, and a celebrated photographer. His collection brings together portraits of Kahlo by such luminaries as Manuel Alvarez Bravo, Tina Modotti, Julien Levy, Carl van Vechten, and Lucienne Bloch as well as candid snapshots of Frida and Diego at work and at home.

ONCE UPON A PILLOW

A Story of Home, Design, and Exquisite Textiles

BY REBECCA VIZARD
FOREWORD BY NEWELL TURNER

Once Upon a Pillow features a stunning collection of pillows and accessories designed by Rebecca Vizard. Celebrated for her innovative use of rare antique textiles—from the embroidered metallic threads of ecclesiastical vestments to Venetian Fortuny fabrics and Central Asian suzani—her designs present a perfect balance of art and material culture. A favorite of designers and a discerning public, her pillows and accessories adorn some of America’s finest homes. An early childhood fascination with textiles eventually led her to create pillows from her growing personal collection of rare textiles and, when Neiman Marcus placed its first order in 1999, B VIZ Design was officially launched. While her collecting forays frequently take her abroad, she returns to her Louisiana roots and its rich history and tradition of decorative arts for inspiration. In addition to Vizard’s home, rooms in a range of styles and periods by such top-flight designers as Gerrie Bremermann, Barry Dixon, Suzanne Kasler, and Matthew Patrick Smyth are included to illustrate embroidery, appliqué, tapestry, needlepoint, Fortuny, damask, brocade, as well as suzani and ethnic pillows. A selection of accessories from lighting to gifts, and an annotated textile glossary are included.

Early in her career, while working on interior design projects from New York to New Orleans, REBECCA VIZARD noticed a void in the pillow market. Discovering a niche for antique textiles, Vizard focused on designing these one-of-a-kind pillows for clients, and in the process employed many local seamstresses. Soon her pillows sold to Neiman Marcus and other exclusive stores. Her pillows frequently grace the covers of national publications, such as House Beautiful, Veranda, Elle Decor, Traditional Home, and Architectural Digest.

MAKING MARKS

Sue Timney and the Design of Timney-Fowler

BY SUE TIMNEY
FOREWORD BY SIR PAUL SMITH

To say that British designer SUE TIMNEY'S work is eclectic is as obvious as calling the sky blue: Eclecticism is her signature. Perhaps it is her peripatetic childhood that has given her a global vision. Born in Libya, her father's military career took her to Germany and Newcastle, England, and she cites influences and interests as diverse as the Japanese filmmaker Kurosawa, the Beatniks, and African tribal art. Featuring 25 years-worth of captivating photographs and some never before published drawings, textile designs, and personal artworks, Making Marks is a journey through a fascinating life—from a career launched in Japan, to the opening of the first Timney-Fowler shop in London's hip Portobello area, through to her successful career as an interior designer. A retrospective to support the book opened at the Fashion & Textile Museum in London in 2010.

THE BALD MERMAID

A Memoir

BY SHEILA BRIDGES

The inspiring memoir of interior designer Sheila Bridges, The Bald Mermaid: A Memoir comprises engaging and deeply personal vignettes that explore questions of identity, femininity, race, success, and what it really means to have it all. After receiving degrees from two prestigious universities, Bridges became very successful in her career as an interior designer, creating homes for high-profile clients, and even hosting her own television show. But when she lost her hair due to alopecia, she lost it all: This is her story of coming to terms with what success and happiness mean to her, realizing the cost of independence, and understanding what it means to stay true to herself in the face of judgment, criticism, and expectation from family, friends, lovers, and strangers. Beautifully illustrated with personal photographs and images of Bridges' interior designs, The Bald Mermaid is a delightfully candid, insightful, and often-humorous narrative of Bridges' ups and downs, and how she ultimately found balance and peace in her multi-layered life.

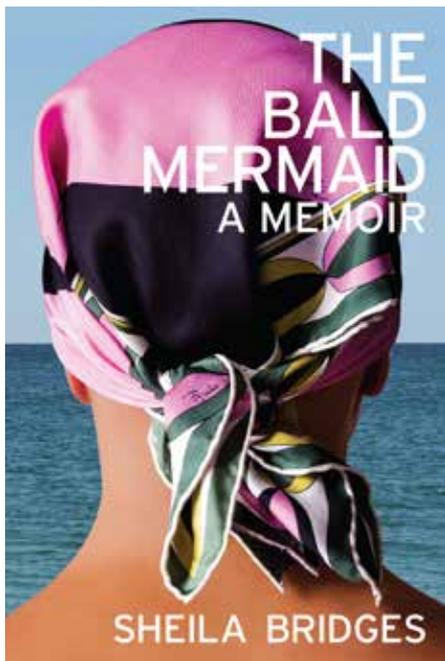

SHEILA BRIDGES, named "America's Best Interior Designer" by CNN and Time, founded her own interior design firm in New York in 1994. She has been a regular contributor on NBC's Today Show, hosted her own cable network television show, appeared on Oprah, and has been profiled in numerous national and international publications. She lives and works in Harlem, New York, and relaxes at her weekend home in the Hudson Valley, in upstate New York. The Bald Mermaid: A Memoir is her second book.

BOMBOOZLED HOW THE U.S. GOVERNMENT MISLED ITSELF AND ITS PEOPLE INTO BELIEVING THEY COULD SURVIVE A NUCLEAR ATTACK

BOMBOOZLED

How the U.S. Government Misled Itself and Its People into Believing They Could Survive a Nuclear Attack

BY SUSAN ROY

Bomboozled: How the U.S. Government Misled Itself and Its People into Believing They Could Survive a Nuclear Attack lays bare the buried truths of America's family fallout shelter obsession. Author Susan Roy charts the panic-fueled evolution of the shelter from a well-stocked basement pantry to a full-fledged (and often completely decorated) home addition, revealing through extensive archival photography, nuclear-era memorabilia, and previously unpublished media, a government and a people in the grip of self-delusion. Fastidiously researched and sharply written, Bomboozled captures the absurdity and uncertainty of a culture that knew no better than to trust its government's message.

SUSAN ROY is a writer and editor on architecture, design, and cultural history. The founding managing editor of Allure magazine, she has also held senior editorial positions at This Old House, SELF, Good Housekeeping and Avenue. She holds a master's degree in architectural history from Columbia University; Bomboozled is loosely based on the subject of her master's thesis, "The Family Fallout Shelter During the Cold War."

"Susan Roy pairs illustrations with incisive commentary to reveal just how deluded we used to be about prepping for the all-too-thinkable nuclear attack."

TALKING HEADS

The Vent Haven Portraits

BY MATTHEW ROLSTON

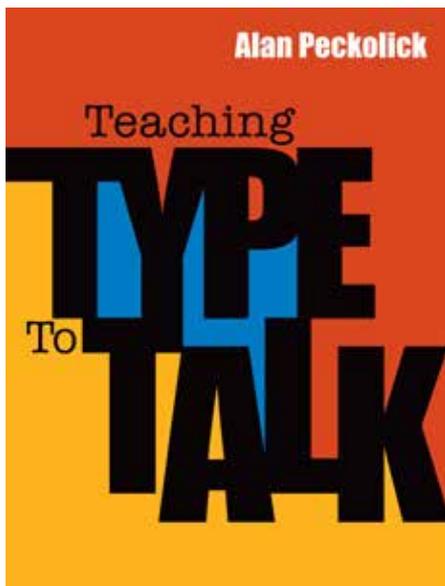

Influential American celebrity photographer and creative director Matthew Rolston turns his eye for portraiture to a new cast of characters with the launch of Talking Heads, The Vent Haven Portraits. Using techniques he has honed over decades of celebrity portraiture, and marking his first foray into the world of fine arts, Rolston has captured the inherent humanity of a never-before-seen collection of unique entertainment figures: ventriloquism dummies. Unearthed from the tiny Vent Haven Museum in Fort Mitchell, Kentucky, Rolston uses a rigorously simplistic photographic style to bring out the power in the faces of these figures through a series of 100 portraits, or “headshots.”

MATTHEW ROLSTON painstakingly selected the faces he was most drawn to and, in particular, those that conveyed a sense of character through pronounced aging, exaggerated features, and ornately painted faces, drawing the eye directly to the face and to the bizarre human quality of each dummy. Breathing life into these inanimate figures, Rolston channels their sustained energetic presences that are at once commanding, totemic, and unnervingly familiar.

TEACHING TYPE TO TALK

BY ALAN PECKOLICK
WITH ESSAYS BY IVAN CHERMAYEFF,
GEORGE LOIS, JAN V. WHITE, AND INA SALTZ

Accompanying the revolutionary spirit taking hold of American culture in the mid-1960s and 1970s, American graphic designer Alan Peckolick heralded a movement in graphic design known as expressive typography. Along with his mentor and icon, Herb Lubalin, Peckolick called for a new caliber of design: Dreaming up and hand-drawing letterforms that had never existed before, with type, which once played an exclusively supporting role to the graphic image now taking center stage. Calling for conceptual typography over a standardized format, Peckolick gave letterforms a presence on the page, and also an attitude: His designs talk back, and always speak up. Teaching Type to Talk is the first-ever compendium to span the typographer's career. Peckolick's work is equal parts witty, shrewd, and impeccable, and is accompanied by original anecdotes as insightful and tongue-in-cheek as his designs.

ALAN PECKOLICK was an internationally acclaimed graphic designer and artist. His projects included logo designs, posters, packaging, annual reports, corporate identity, and annual reports for a wide range of organizations, such as New York University, Revlon, General Motors, and AT&T. His designs earned him over 500 design awards worldwide, including six gold medals from the Art Directors Club of New York.

“DIALOG”

What Makes a Great Design Partnership

BY KEN CARBONE & LESLIE SMOLAN
FOREWORD BY MASSIMO VIGNELLI
PREFACE BY STEVEN HELLER

Presented as a conversation between two trusted design partners, “Dialog”: What Makes a Great Design Partnership explores over three decades of work from one of the world’s most accomplished design firms, the Carbone Smolan Agency. Written by design journalist Raul Barreneche and lushly illustrated with a wide array of materials, including exclusive images and sketches from the studio’s archives, the book showcases 35 of their projects for international brands, such as Christie’s and W Hotels, and cultural icons, such as Paris’ Louvre Museum and The Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

“Dialog” brings you behind the scenes of the prestigious agency’s most celebrated projects, and reveals the collaborative ethos that has resulted in a stunning array of designs for a world-class clientele.

ABOUT POINTED LEAF PRESS

Pointed Leaf Press was founded in 2002 by Suzanne Slesin. As a publisher of high quality, photography-driven monographs on personalities (some well-known, some undiscovered) from the worlds of design, architecture, and fashion, we have made it our goal to create books that stand out, both for their unique content and matchless design quality.

A book from Pointed Leaf Press is a book like none other. They are visual biographies that envelop and expound – open any of our titles and become immersed in a world re-created on page in extraordinary depth and detail. Intensely researched and illuminated by new photography, each monograph instantly establishes itself as the subject's authoritative source-book. Informative and always visually engaging, Pointed Leaf Press books are direct links to the ideas, processes, and stories of the designers you love. Each book is a wonderful gift and a great addition to a personal library.
