Visiting Iraqi Scholar Opportunity for the 2020 TARII Research Conference:

From Ancient to Modern: The Current State of Research on Iraq

The Academic Research Institute in Iraq (TARII) is pleased to announce visiting scholar opportunities for the first biennial TARII research conference in 2020. This conference will be a place to learn about the scope of research being conducted in and on Iraq by scholars from around the world. To provide for presentations of research by Iraqi scholars, TARII invites applications from citizens or residents of Iraq to present at the TARII Conference in any scholarly area – from ancient to modern Iraq.

The TARII Research Conference will take place on Friday, October 9, 2020

in Washington, D.C.

TARII is a consortium of universities, museums, and other scholarly institutions dedicated to furthering research in and on Iraq and to fostering mutual understanding and respect between American and Iraqi peoples.

Funding is being provided by the U.S. Embassy in Baghdad. It will include all travel expenses, accommodations, and a standard daily per diem. Visiting scholars will travel to Washington, D.C. for approximately one week during which they will present at the TARII Research Conference and enjoy several cultural experiences. They will also have the opportunity to attend group or one-on-one professional meetings in support of their career and research.

Applications, along with a CV, must be submitted in English and received by April 3, 2020. TARII encourages applicants from across Iraq with varied backgrounds. Multiple Visiting Scholars will be selected for the 2020 conference. The application form is available on the TARII website below.

Translation services will not be provided for this event.
