#ActualNews and Critical Optimism

We live in remarkable times and promising progress is happening every single day. But what drives the advancements and why is this progress so difficult to spot? Does statistical reality outshine our gloomy worldview and will humanity rise to solve the massive challenges before us?

Life in the near future, tech flyby

Artificial intelligence, biotechnology, virtual reality, 3D-printing, robotics, nanotechnology, etc. Technologies are ramping up and they all influence our lives. Which technologies are actually in question, what societal change can we expect and how do we brace ourselves?

Bio

Denis Rivin

(1984, DK) Associate partner at DareDisrupt, founder of public education platform Of Course Off Course and co-founder of bildung-oriented think tank Nordic Bildung.

Denis is rooted in cultural entrepreneurship and became futurist only half a decade ago. He is confident that our future is different, more exciting and better than most of us think, and seeks to accelerate the inevitable downfall of outdated institutions.
