

Allstream – Allstream didn't seem to have done very much for 855s but has the list of requests.

AT&T – AT&T has several resporgs. We've contacted and sent the requests to each of them. There were almost two thousand requests in total for the different parts of AT&T. The former SNET portion was actually the most responsive.

Bandwidth – Bandwidth was sent the requests but wasn't very responsive.

Bell Canada – Bell Canada wasn't sure they could take the requests and needs the customer to call their Customer Care Rep or Sales Rep to fill out additional proper paperwork so that they can then go after the number for the customer.

Birch Telecom – Birch Telecom bounced us around a little from person to person, but in the end they understood and were going to try for the numbers for their customers. They also have a couple resporgs so they might be a good choice depending on how restrictive any rationing is.

Broadview – Broadview Customer Service is willing to accept requests for 855s. But they're not really promoting it or set up for a volume and haven't had that many requests. They don't have a script or anything special for it but they also have multiple resporg IDs so they could do alright if there's much rationing.

Broadvox – Broadvox wants customers to contact them directly for the paperwork to be done before they can go for a number.

Cablevision – Cablevision has the list of requests and will put them in.

Cbeyond – Cbeyond was sent the list of requests but hasn't responded to any follow up calls or voicemail.

Cincinnati Bell – Cincinnati Bell will go after those 855 requests for the customers.

Covista – Covista will be adding our list to their list and will go after them all. They're a small regular phone company and have their own resporg so they could be very good choice.

Cox Telecom – Cox Telecom will look over the list and try to get the numbers for the customers.

First Communications – First Communications is taking requests directly, and because they have several resporgs, depending on how they do the rationing, they could be a good place to submit your requests, if you have an account with them. The top people there know what's going on and should do well.

FreedomVoice.com – FreedomVoice received the spreadsheet and will try to get them with their own resporg, even though most of their regular customers use another resporg.

Frontier – Frontier would only confirm that they have the list.

Global Crossing – Global Crossing seemed more focused on policy than the customer and would like their customers to contact them to fill out paperwork before they can go for numbers.

Grasshopper – Grasshopper is a voicemail service so I guess it makes sense that we've only been able to leave messages, trying to follow up on the list. With their own resporg I had thought they would be a good place to request numbers, especially with more reasonable terms than most enhanced voicemail services.

Integra Telecom – Integra will be contacting all 14 of the requests on their list before the drop.

Kall8 – Kall8 had quite a few requests. They were sent the requests and then resent the requests when they hadn't seen them. They are one of the places we recommended people to go to for 855 requests.
