

Hume Murray Community Foodies

Welcome to Hume Murray Community Foodies!

You have been sent this email because we have heard you are involved in community gardens/farmers markets/cooking programs or have a general interest in food security and local food production.

Since the screening of 'Food Inc.' at Wodonga Civic Centre in August 2010 a lot has happened on the sustainable food scene:

- The new The Market Times newsletter is distributed electronically and at the Hume Murray Farmers Markets every fortnight
- Community groups are now able to host a stall at the farmers market to promote their activities
  - An Albury-Wodonga Community Garden listing has been developed
- Many new partnerships have been made between FoodShare (program coordinating emergency food relief) and community kitchens

Early in 2011 we are planning to screen the food production documentary 'Fresh'. We are also organising a Saturday luncheon after the Hume Murray Farmers Market where you will be able to meet other community members passionate about local food security – so watch this space!

If you know of anyone who is interested in being added to this distribution list please email fhughes@gatewaycommunityhealth.org.au
