HOSPITAL PACKING LIST

Most people would agree that they packed far too much to take with them to hospital - you will likely find that you will need to take very little. This list was compiled by patients who are post-op and share all the essentials you need to take to make your stay more comfortable. What you need to take will vary for how long you will be staying and this varies from country to country.

CLOTHES
- Nightshirts
  These are preferable to PJs as you will have catheter and belly swelling. You will not want anything around your midriff area.
- Underwear
  Remember to pack big supportive panties/knickers to ‘hold’ your stomach when you are travelling home. Comfort is key!
- Socks & slippers
  Make sure you pack ones with a good grip so that you don’t slip.
- Loose clothes
  For the journey home you will need loose, comfortable clothes. Again, you will not want anything tight around your belly - or anything that is difficult to get in or out of as you will likely be swollen and find it difficult to stretch too much.
- Comfortable shoes
  Shoes with a soft sole for when you leave hospital are a great idea to pack as you will want to be as comfortable as possible. Slip-on shoes are ideal.

TOILETRIES
- Panty liners
  You may find you bleed a little post op and so panty liners for the journey home will make you feel more comfortable.
- Hairbrush
  A necessity if you have a shower at the hospital or just to freshen up and make you feel a bit better!
- Toothbrush & toothpaste
  Depending if you are staying the night, don’t forget to take your toothbrush and toothpaste!
- Baby wipes or a flannel
  Wipes or a flannel that someone can wet for you can help you freshen up if you are in the bed and unable to move to the bathroom yet.
- Deodorant
- Shower gel, shampoo & conditioner
- Moisturiser/skin care

COMFORT & ACTIVITIES
- Earplugs & an eye mask
  Rest and a good nights sleep is vital. Hospitals can be bright and noisy so ear plugs and a nice eye mask will make all the difference for you to get some peace, quiet and rest.
- Peppermint tea bags
  Some hospitals will have this as an option, but it’s a good idea to take your own. Peppermint relaxes the muscles along the intestinal tract and can help you to pass excess gas.
- Snacks and drinks
  Take some of your favourite drinks and snacks in case you do not enjoy the hospital food!
- Phone/tablet + charger
  Load up your devices in advance with things to watch and games to play to keep the boredom at bay. Make sure you take chargers!
- Books/crossword puzzles & pens
  Hospitals can be boring and so a good book and/or a crossword puzzle can be an enjoyable distraction.
- A pillow
  This is for the journey home - put the pillow between and you and the seat belt for extra comfort. It really helps!
- Lip balm
  You may find yourself dehydrated and get dry lips. Lip balm can help you be a bit more comfortable.

ESSENTIALS
- Medication
  Take any usual medications that you are prescribed. HRT, SSRIs etc. Make sure the medical staff looking after your care know what medication you have brought with you.
- Medical paperwork
  Pack any medical paperwork that the hospital have asked you to bring with you.
- Cash/payment
  A small amount of cash and/or a payment card can be helpful for any items or services you may need to purchase.

International Association for Premenstrual Disorders is a not-for-profit organization that aims to inspire hope and end suffering for those affected by Premenstrual Dysphoric Disorder (PMDD) and Premenstrual Exacerbation (PME) through peer support, education, research and advocacy. The IAPMD surgical menopause project is supported by a grant from The Patty Bisben Foundation for Women’s Sexual Health.
Hospitals can be boring and so a good book and/or a crossword puzzle can be an enjoyable distraction.

Nightshirts
These are preferable to PJs as you will have catheter and belly swelling. You will not want anything around your midriff area.

Packing List Notes

- Essentials
- Toiletries
- Comfort & Activities

Underwear
Remember to pack big supportive panties/knickers to ‘hold’ your stomach when you are travelling home. Comfort is key!

Socks & slippers
Make sure you pack ones with a good grip so that you don’t slip.

Earplugs & an eye mask
Rest and a good nights sleep is vital and hospitals can be bright and noisy. Ear plugs and a nice eye mask will make all the difference for you to get some peace, quiet and rest.

Peppermint tea bags
Some hospitals will have this as an option, but it’s a good idea to take your own. Peppermint relaxes the muscles along the intestinal tract and can help you to pass excess gas.

Snacks and drinks
Take some of your favourite drinks and snacks in case you do not enjoy the hospital food!

A pillow
This is for the journey home - put the pillow between and you and the seat belt for extra comfort. It really helps!

Lip balm
You may find yourself dehydrated and get dry lips. Lip balm can help you be a bit more comfortable.

Panty liners
You may find you bleed a little post op and so panty liners for the journey home will make you feel more comfortable.

A necessity if you have a shower at the hospital or just to freshen up and make you feel a bit better!

Medical paperwork
Pack any medical paperwork that the hospital have asked you to bring with you.

A small amount of cash and/or a payment card can be helpful for any items or services you may need to purchase.

This space is left blank for you to add your own notes and reminders.

International Association for Premenstrual Disorders is a not-for-profit organization that aims to inspire hope and end suffering for those affected by Premenstrual Dysphoric Disorder (PMDD) and Premenstrual Exacerbation (PME) through peer support, education, research and advocacy. The IAPMD surgical menopause project is supported by a grant from The Patty Brisben Foundation for Women’s Sexual Health.