Our Legacy

We are the custodians of a living planet.

She is capable of sustaining life but we need to work with her. And we need to restore ecosystems to health.

We can do both as well as cool the planet when we dedicate our public investments to provide the economic tools needed to create locally adapted, regenerative food and water economies designed to sustain life.

Our children are counting on us.