ABOUT THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR:

Laura Heltz is an Army veteran who spent eight years on active duty. Just before leaving the service, Laura earned her Master of Science in Business Administration from Baker College. Laura has worked with veterans for more than a decade, and in 2015, she was inducted into the NYS Senate Veterans Hall of Fame. Laura has co-authored two books – The Pocket Idiot’s Guide to the ASVAB and The Complete Idiot's Guide to the ASVAB. Laura has served as VOC’s Executive Director for six years. In 2019, she won the RBJ Woman of Excellence award. Laura has been a Girl Scout Troop Leader for 10 years and lives in Victor with her husband, George, and twins, Thomas and Sarah.
Hope is a powerful thing. It inspires us to do the impossible and helps us carry on during difficult times. At Veterans Outreach Center, we have woven the concepts of hope and compassion into our culture and into the hearts of our veterans since 1973. And 2022 was no exception! In fact, it was a year marked by anticipation, aspiration, and accomplishments regarding our strategic advancements as well as the personal goals achieved by the veterans we serve.

This year, 559 veterans visited us for the first time filled with hope that they had found a place to begin their healing process. More than 1,400 returning veterans continued their journey toward self-sustainability, and 352 veterans from around the country found us online, contacted us, and were counseled on how to access services closer to home. Our dedicated staff made 9,446 personal connections with local veterans. This is VOC giving hope to our vets that they will be able to provide for themselves and their families once again.

Through our Morale Center, VOC provided a space where veterans could get their hair cut by licensed professionals, take a cooking class, do their laundry, utilize our fitness center, manage chronic pain through hydromassage, meet socially with peers, engage in therapeutic groups led by licensed mental health professionals, and so much more. These life-giving and hope-inspiring efforts are delivered at no cost to our vets ALL YEAR LONG. In addition to all of this, we provided shelter to more than 50 veterans while simultaneously undergoing a multi-million-dollar renovation to enhance and expand our Richards House facility. We helped hundreds of veterans find and keep meaningful employment; we offered legal services, financial coaching, emergency funds, bus passes, food, and clothing to those who served.

Giving hope has a ripple effect, extending far beyond the initial act of kindness. By creating an environment of hope, we contribute to a collective sense of optimism, resilience, and unity. It empowers individuals to become agents of change, working together to create a brighter future for themselves and others. We’d like to recognize everyone who generously gave their time, talent, or treasure during 2022 to help those who need it most.

From all of us at Veterans Outreach Center, thank you for your support of our organization and for helping us provide hope to the brave men and women who served our country.

Sincerely,

Laura A. Heltz

Curly, a U.S. Army veteran and former infantryman, knows firsthand the challenges that many veterans face when transitioning back to civilian life. After serving his country in deployments to Iraq, North and South Korea, and various other locations, Curly returned home to a harsh reality. The job market in Rochester offered few opportunities for someone with his specialized military qualifications, and he found himself on the brink of homelessness.

However, a glimmer of hope appeared in the form of the Veterans Outreach Center (VOC), a haven for veterans seeking support and guidance. Curly decided to take a leap of faith and turned to the VOC for help.

Upon arriving at Richards House, a supportive housing facility operated by the VOC, Curly discovered a wealth of programs and services tailored to his unique needs. With their unwavering dedication, VOC staff educated him about the available options and instilled a renewed sense of possibility within him.

“The programs and services [VOC] had available showed me what I could do and what options I had. Because at that point, I didn’t feel like I had options,” Curly said. The realization that he had a support system motivated him to persevere.

Driven by his passion for physical training and the belief that a strong mind and heart are essential for personal growth, Curly embraced the opportunity to pursue a degree in physical education and exercise science. With the support of the VOC’s programming, he enrolled in college and dedicated himself to his studies.

Today, Curly stands as a shining example of resilience and achievement. With the help of VOC, he has successfully rebuilt his life, finding stability and purpose in helping his fellow veterans who have experienced similar hardships. By training and guiding others, he pays forward the assistance and inspiration he received during his own journey of healing.

“It’s fulfilling because, especially with the physical training, I’m a big advocate of you can’t build a strong body with a weak mind and heart,” Curly said. “The same attributes you apply in here can be applied outside of here.”

Curly’s story serves as a testament to the transformative power of personal responsibility and the importance of seeking out available resources. He urges his fellow veterans to educate themselves and take advantage of the programs offered by organizations like VOC. With newfound hope and determination, veterans can overcome adversity and reclaim their lives.

As Curly’s journey continues, his dedication to supporting and uplifting his comrades remains unwavering. His story stands as a beacon of hope, proving that with the right support and mindset, any challenge can be overcome.
The generosity of our supporters ensures we are able to continue our important work. To see a complete list of donors, please visit vocroc.org/donor-list.

MISSION:

To serve veterans with compassion and advocate for all who have worn our nation’s uniform so they can RISE and live life to the fullest.

ORGANIZATIONAL VALUES:

Respect: We treat everyone with dignity and compassion, and we show appreciation for strengths as well as vulnerabilities.

Integrity: We are trust-worthy, honorable and professional. Taking ownership of our actions and communication is a top priority; we do this by conveying honesty and respect through tone, verbal and non-verbal interactions. We demonstrate fiscal responsibility with all resources.

Service: We recognize the great sacrifices that are made by all who have worn our nation’s uniform. We are committed to serving our veterans and their families with passion and deep appreciation.

Excellence: We are hard-working, innovative and creative; we strive for continuous improvement. Our goal is to consistently grow the quality and scope of our services, in order to better meet the needs of our veterans.
