

Day in the Life of Anna

Anna started the day

when her cell phone alarm rang at 6:30 am.

She brushed her teeth, showered and dried her hair before getting her toddler Marissa up and dressed.

GOBY

L'ANGE™

BOARDING & BEYOND
We Love Your Dog!

Anna and Marissa dropped Star off at doggie daycare, where he ran off to play with his canine friends.

Care.com®
There for you™

Next, Anna kissed Marissa goodbye at childcare and headed to the coffeeshop in the first floor of her office building, where she skimmed the Denver Post while paying for her coffee.

THE DENVER POST

Heading up the stairs, Anna arrived at work to open up her computer and software. Before too long, the top salesman entered her office and leered at her while asking her to be his girlfriend.

Microsoft

Spotify

After he left, she fired up her music streaming app, put on headphones and tried to cope with employment contract that facilitated this ongoing workplace harassment.

Her workday finished, she stopped by the nursing home where her beloved father was staying after suffering a debilitating stroke. They talked about their day and Marissa's latest art project before Anna gave him a big goodbye.

FutureCare
HEALTH AND MANAGEMENT CORPORATION

She picked up Marissa and then Star – then her car wouldn't start. Anna decided they'd just call a ride-sharing service to get home to eat dinner and watch a little Sesame Street on TV before bed.

Every service or product marked in red requires forced arbitration in order to use it. Anna gave up her constitutional rights 14 times in this story without even needing to sign on the dotted line. Did you notice?