Zocalo May Be Westside’s Portal to LA, But at What Cost?

Mark has been mowing of this cultural center at the entrance of Westwood Village for at least 30 years. This includes the late-night patrolling of the Farmers’ Market and the weekend enjoyment of the Village itself. This is a community that has been mowed into the fabric of the neighborhood over the years, even those who may not realize it.

Westwood residents are not aware of the planned changes to the Village. This is a community that has been mowed into the fabric of the neighborhood over the years, even those who may not realize it. As a Westwood resident, I think an Apple Megastore in the Dome would degrade the image of the community. Westwood is not the cultural destination that other moribund areas are.

I agree with LAURA JOHN INITIATES ARCHIVING THE VILLAGE. The proposal from Apple is still under consideration, and the community is told that the Dome will be restored to its original purpose. This is a community that has been mowed into the fabric of the neighborhood over the years, even those who may not realize it. As a Westwood resident, I think an Apple Megastore in the Dome would degrade the image of the community. Westwood is not the cultural destination that other moribund areas are.

The proposal from Apple is still under consideration, and the community is told that the Dome will be restored to its original purpose. This is a community that has been mowed into the fabric of the neighborhood over the years, even those who may not realize it. As a Westwood resident, I think an Apple Megastore in the Dome would degrade the image of the community. Westwood is not the cultural destination that other moribund areas are.