Thank you for your very generous gift to Sharing DC!

Sharing DC is a strategic, donor-led funding process for generous residents of the District of Columbia. Sharing DC facilitates education and civic engagement around local issues and encourages more residents and businesses to “give where they live.” Individuals come together to learn first-hand about the challenges facing Washington’s most vulnerable residents and engage in a grant review process for investing in organizations that are working to make a difference in the lives of children and families in Washington, DC.

The focus area for the 2017 Sharing DC grant cycle was youth post-secondary success. The primary goal is to help District of Columbia youth access and be successful in post-secondary education and training, including traditional college and university credentials and industry recognized certifications.
