WEDNESDAYS IN WADHAMS

7:30 p.m. at the Library

April 11 Jim Kinley and Mary Bell The People's Republic of China
"1.379 billion people...106,230 characters in their written language... one astounding trip"

April 25 Juleigh Walker The View from Down Under
Juleigh has made two trips to Indonesia to dive in the waters of the tiny island of Wakatobi. She'll share a bit of the local culture, how Wakatobi came to be, and the beauty of life in the deep.

May 2 Beverly Eichenlaub and Chris Jage Making MakeBoro - a Center for Arts + Innovation in Willsboro
Beverly Eichenlaub, president of the newly-formed Makers Guild, Inc., and Chris Jage, Land Protection Manager for the Adirondack Chapter of The Nature Conservancy, will describe how their organizations and the Town of Willsboro are collaborating to create a community makerspace while adding a new trailhead, parking area and expanded access to the trails of the Boquet Nature Preserve.

May 16 Colin Wells Memory Palaces, Oral Cultures, and the Earliest Writing
What do Stonehenge, Easter Island, and Chaco Canyon have in common with geometric designs on ancient Celtic jewelry? How do people in oral cultures hold everything in their heads? And what the heck is the Dwarfie Stane? Westport writer Colin Wells has given several talks at the Library based on his current book project, The Alphabet Revolution: How a Humble Writing System Changed Everything Forever. In this latest installment, he'll discuss an exciting new theory about oral culture and connect it to the earliest writing systems.

May 30 Ike Tyler, Deirdre Forcier, Chris Maron, and you What's Up in Westport and Wadhams
An informal panel discussion with Ike Tyler - Westport Town Supervisor, Deirdre Forcier - President of the Chamber of Commerce, and Chris Maron - Chairman of the Beautiful Westport Committee. Your questions, comments, and ideas will be welcomed.

Here's a sampling of our many new books. We're always eager to hear your requests and suggestions.
