

Patrick Byam

Short Biography

Patrick Byam is currently the Manager of Strategic Business Initiatives within the Business Innovation Office at the Ontario Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care.

Patrick is a highly curious, collaborative, and innovative Ivy League educated professional with over ten years of experience in the healthcare sector. As a passionate champion of healthcare advancement, Patrick has spent his career building positive change in healthcare delivery in Canada, the United States, Africa, and the Caribbean. Currently, Patrick leads a team within the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care that applies design-thinking and user-centered approaches to find innovative solutions to complex systems issues. Patrick holds a Master of Public Health from Yale University, and a Master of Health Administration from the University of Ottawa.