INTRODUCTION

It is customary when a new book is born into the world for its "Next Friend" to indulge in a few words explanatory—an effort to excuse if he cannot justify its appearance. This is my present task. This book had its being on this wise: Just on his way to the hospital in August, 1901, the author was notified by our beloved and now lamented Dr. McClintock that he was chairman of a committee of ten to report to the coming Synod on a matter of Presbyterian History. Lying on his back, bedewing his pillow with tears while our martyr McKinley was dying, the chairman penciled a report which was unanimously approved by the committee, presented to Synod, and adopted. By it a committee consisting of the Stated Clerk and a minister and elder from each Presbytery were to secure and utilize the material for our work in the state from the earliest time till 1900. The theory was that the Stated Clerks would jump at the chance of pouring their well selected materials into the hands of the chairman, who would send out a book full of information and edification. Rev. J. W. Hubbard was made chairman.

Scores of geniuses have invented the perpetual motion—in each instance faultless in every respect but one, it would not go. Such was our machine-made history. One Stated Clerk, Brother Nicholas of Iowa, sent me valuable material. Two others sent me interesting items. Weary of trying to make "bricks without straw," we turned to the General Assembly Minutes of 1837 to 1900 for light. All material facts were before us. Then came a vision of hard work. What plan should we adopt best to serve the church? To have selected a hundred of our best churches and most successful ministers might have insured a readable book. The story of the 200 churches dead, and of their worn out pastors would not have been cheerful reading. We determined to tell briefly the story of all. We found enrolled, between 1837 and 1900, 750 churches and 1200 ministers. The 750 churches had shrunk to 416 by 1900. The 334 were not all dead. Many had changed names.

Having been chosen to write "The History of the Presbyterian Church in Iowa, from 1837 to 1900," we have attempted to tell briefly the story of every work and worker. We found, after sifting, twelve hundred ministers who had rendered service. Our plan was formed deliberately, with the purpose of giving the most information in the most convenient form about every interest or person.

We have attempted a dictionary of our Churches and our ministers, in order that the reader could in a few glances see what each of the 750 churches, living or dead, had accomplished; and as readily see what each of the 1200 ministers who have toiled and triumphed or toiled and fallen had tried to do for the cause. As The New School record for a time was presented only once in three years, full credit is not done their churches or ministers. Again we are unable to give full credit to many brethren who labored without the bounds of their Presbyteries, and appear merely as unknown Stated Supplies.

Our Statistical tables tell the story of every church, living or dead, of its every addition and every dollar raised; and largely what the ministers have done.

Our Historical section will give enough to show what each church in its place did for the Master; and in connection with its pastorates rekindle the memories of vanished years.

Our Biographical section will trace a minister from the school to his life work—often from the cradle to the grave. Between lines the reader will often see the man he knew and admired and loved.

Our Colleges will present themselves to the eyes of parents and children who will consider, and weigh and choose.

Our Picture Gallery of 112 pages will have a greeting for old and young alike. It will not lose its value as the years go by.

We have treated the most wonderful 63 years in history. An age of miracles in the physical world, it has been no less an age of miracles in the religious world.

Our territory starting with a few hundred has passed the two million mark.

Our one little church had grown to 416 with 42,977 members.

Let us glance at the Religious Statistics of the state in 1905.

The Cumberland flock has already been folded with ours. All interested parties are hoping and expecting the United Presbyterians to be with us soon.

It seems wonderful that 682,799 of our 2,200,000 should be reckoned as church members. This is explained by the fact that the Catholic and some other churches count all their baptized children. We have about one-fifteenth of the entire membership in our church, and presumably about one hundred and fifty-five thousand in our congregations.

We fear that in distribution of space some brethren may feel themselves not fairly dealt with. In a book covering so wide a range with 750 churches and 1200 ministers space is precious. Yet some may feel surprised to see how small they look in so large a crowd. It does seem strange for one of the masters to settle down and hold a church 20, 30, 40, years, and fill only a few lines, while another sheds light on half a dozen states and a half score of churches, and fills a half page. But remember, dear Brother in thy feathered nest, thou hast had thy good things in this life. Let the wandering stars shine.

A few words about our task. It was a sin of ignorance that took us into it. Early words of encouragement led us on. Then it became a labor of love. Apparent indifference discouraged and delayed the work. We never received a hundred subscriptions. Ill health at one time led us to get the pledge of a valued friend to take up the work if it fell from our hands. Finally we determined to publish even if we had to bear one-half the expense ourselves. We ought to pay for our luxuries.

We trust that among our 377 ministers, 1468 elders, and 45426 members there may be found interest enough, and means enough, to take a considerable portion of an edition of 800. You will believe me when I say that this book has cost four thousand hours of labor. Not infrequently, with aid of the gray head and nimble fingers across the study table, have twenty hours of labor been crowded into a day. It is a family secret that the gray head and nimble fingers have made the work possible.

Possibly, some may find that we have omitted their well-earned titles. If so, we beg pardon. Will try to do better in the next edition. With varying names we have wrestled hard now and then to keep some man from becoming two. How many times we have condensed two into one we cannot tell. Dates will get mixed; figures will sometimes lie.

In looking back, we find that we commenced our task with two qualifications: 1. leisure. 2. Love for the church and the men whose story we were to recount. Thanks to the friends who have waited so patiently. We trust they will find the work a convenient book of reference, long after the hand that wrote has lost its cunning.

Had we known at the outset the seriousness of the task offered the Synod would have been looking elsewhere for its History. But the pleasures of walking and talking with two generations of Christian workers, entering into their sorrows and their joys, their defeats and their victories, of seeing our church grow from the handful to the 44,000; and then the hope of enabling the church that is and the church that is to be to see more clearly the things we saw—these have paid for the years of strenuous labor. And could I have known years ago what a privilege this was to be, and had I been permitted to choose the final labor in which I should serve the church for which I began pulpit service on my 29th birthday, I would have asked the privilege of writing The History of the Presbyterian Church in Iowa, and subscribing its Introduction.

Yours for the Cause,

JOSEPH WELTON HUBBARD.

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN IOWA

Part I. Its Founding, its Presbyteries and Synods.

In our early geographies "The Great American Desert" was as real as "The Sahara." If memory serves aright, that desert commenced between the great rivers and reached well out toward the Rocky Mountains. It is a fact at least, that the impression of early settlers was that a considerable strip along the Mississippi was fertile and that beyond that the land was worthless.

This is the desert that doth blossom as the rose. Iowa, the multi-voweled, the Red Man's home and his legacy, is the land of our story.

This Geographical Jewel, three hundred miles by two hundred miles in extent, set between the two great rivers, its western border nearly midway between Portland, Maine, and Portland, Orgeon, was the hunting ground of the savage till the coming of a sturdier race. Our God had kept the land for the "sifted seed" that should develop into a Nation of power and freedom, and a Church of intelligence and spiritual power.

In 1776 a new-born Nation astonished the world. Three millions of freemen stood before the world, at the close of a long and bitter struggle, as a Nation with a right to be. But, with independence achieved, their prospects were not bright. Small in numbers, nationally and personally bankrupt, geographically with narrow boundaries, what could be expected? Canada, lately wrested by the Mother Country from France, shut us in on the north; Spain, the great Discoverer and Colonizer, bounded us on the south and west; the French, by right of discovery and occupancy, held the entire upper Mississippi Valley, the wonders of which were to astound the centuries.

Those little states had before them the question that has troubled many in our day—the question of expansion. It became a burning question, a necessity and a duty. Our Church, whose birth as a completed organization bears the same date as the completed nation, had forced upon it the duty of expansion. And Nation and Church have moved forward in the discharge of the duty. Both have expa nd

The Spaniard faded out from Florida. Napoleon had bought the Lower Mississippi region from Spain. In good time the Mississippi Valley was bought from Napoleon at a ridiculously small price. It was a good bargain for both parties. The territory was everything to us. The money was worth more than the land to the Meteor of Sovereigns, the Majestic Prisoner of St. Helena.

Later on, "That man of blood and iron, Marcus Whitman," saved for us our own Oregon, at a time when a United States Senator publicly declared, "I would not give a pinch of snuff for all that lies beyond the Rocky Mountains." He evidently placed a high value on his snuff.

Then came our trouble with Mexico; and, by a liberal purchase, we completed our broad belt to the Pacific. Later we bought Alaska for about the price of a season's catch of salmon—not to speak of seals and gold. And so we made a field for Sheldon Jackson and his lieutenants to plant the gospel of civilization and of Christianity under the midnight sun.

Our Church has worthily kept pace with the Country; and gospel privileges have traveled with the hardy pioneers.

In 1837 our General Assembly, after years of strife, not creditable to either party, "excinded" a considerable part of the Church, and inaugurated the lamentable breach which took thirty-three years to heal. For a generation the unbrotherly struggle between brethren of the same name and faith went on. It is at the outset of this bitter struggle that our history begins.

Settlers from the older states, seeking broader farms, had moved westward, and brought the Church with them. Iowa was especially favored in the character of its pioneers. Dubuque had been a French Post, and the Roman Catholic Church was there, of course. As a rule, people seeking new homes follow isothermal lines. So our early settlers came from New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, with a sprinkling from Virginia and Kentucky. And through these states had flowed the tides from abroad. Either directly or indirectly the Scotch and the Irish had come. Among them not a few of those who had the misfortune to be born out of their native country, and were, therefore, called Scotch-Irish. That mixture leavened the early population. The Presbyterian Church for them was a necessity. In 1834 it was first made lawful for white men to settle in our territory. The liberty was eagerly used; and by hundreds the pioneers began to stake their claims and build their cabins. They naturally first entered along our southern border.

The story of the peripatetic life of our state is worthy of note. In 1803 it was not in the United States, but was a French possession. At the Louisiana Purchase, 1803, it became a part of the Indiana Territory.

In 1804 it was in Iowa Territory. In 1812 it was in Missouri Territory. In 1834 it was in Michigan Territory. In 1836-8 it was in Wisconsin Territory. In 1838 it was Iowa Territory. In 1846 it became a state.

Story of the Old School, 1837-'70

THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

In response to petition, the Presbyterian Church of West Point was organized June 24, 1837, by Revs. Samuel Wilson and Launcelot G. Bell, representatives of the Presbytery of Schuyler, Illinois, lying across the river. Of the eleven who were organized into the church we have the names of but ten: Alexander H. Walker, Isabella Walker, Ambrose Stone, William Patterson, Eleanor Patterson, David Walker, Nancy Walker, Cyrus Poage, Mary Poage, Malinda Taylor. The elders chosen were Alexander H. Walker, Cyrus Poage and William Patterson. This Church was followed by Round Prairie (Kossuth), with thirteen members, August 14, 1839, and Mount Pleasant in 1840, with six members. By the fall of 1840 Burlington, Fort Madison, Davenport, Iowa City, Spring Creek and Rockingham had been added to the roll, making nine.

THE FIRST PRESBYTERY—IOWA

In the fall of 1840 these nine churches were set off from Schuyler Presbytery, and the Presbytery of Iowa was formed. The Presbytery met as directed, at Bloomington (Muscatine) and organized, November 6, 1840.

Roll: L. G. Bell, who preached the opening sermon; Michael Hummer, first Moderator; John Mark Fulton, Enoch Mead.

Received by Certificate: John Stocker and Salmon Cowles. Churches enrolled, nine, as before named.

THE FIRST SYNOD -IOWA

In 1851 to pave the way for a new Synod the Synod of Illinois divided the Presbytery, making three: Iowa, Cedar, Des Moines. In 1852 the General Assembly created The Synod of Iowa.

This Synod met and organized at Muscatine, October 14, 1852, Father Bell, Moderator.

ROLL OF SYNOD.

[In our history we omit the records and statistics of all the outside Presbyteries.]

1856.

The Presbytery of Council Bluffs was formed of the western half of Des Moines.

1857.

The Assembly divided the Synod. Iowa was left with Presbyteries of Cedar, Dubuque, St. Paul and Sioux City. Iowa Southern Synod consisted of the Presbyteries of Iowa, Des Moines, Council Bluffs.

1858.

The Presbytery of Nebraska (later Omaha) was added to Synod of Iowa South.

1859.

The Presbytery of Iowa was divided by the creation of the Presbytery of Fairfield. The Presbyteries remained till the reunion in 1870: Iowa, Fairfield, Des Moines, Missouri River, and Colorado.

1860.

The Presbytery of St. Paul was absorbed by the new Synod of St. Paul. The Presbytery of Toledo was organized. Six years later its name was changed to Vinton.

1865.

The Presbytery of Sioux City became Fort Dodge.

The Presbytery of Frankville was organized. So at the reunion of 1870, the Synod North consisted of these Presbyteries: Cedar, Dubuque, Fort Dodge, Frankville, Vinton.

Story of the New School, 1838-'70

With the zeal born of the troublous times, the New School were little behind the Old. They worked largely under a Union Board, along with the Congregationalists. That American Home Missionary Society had proved a source of irritation before the division of the Church, and sometimes troubled its best friends in the New School fold.

Fort Madison Church was organized by Rev. Jas. A. Clark in the employ of the A. H. M. Society.

November 25, 1838, a church was organized in Burlington. In 1843 it passed into the Congregational fold, and enjoyed the life long ministrations of Dr. William Salter.

1840.

The Church of Yellow Springs was organized September 12, by Rev. J. A. Carnahan.

1840-41.

The Churches of Keosauqua, Troy, Bloomington, (Muscatine) were organized.

1842.

Toolsboro Church was organized by Rev. Wm. Rankin.

FIRST PRESBYTERY

April 12, 1842, met at Yellow Springs (now Kossuth) a number of Ministers and Elders in sympathy with the New School party, and organized the Presbytery of Des Moines. The next year they were connected with the Synod of Illinois. At the organization there were present: Ministers: W. W. Woods, Wm. C. Rankin, Chas. R. Fisk, James A. Clark. Elders: A. C. H. White, Samuel Fullenweider, Samuel Lucas. Rev. A. L. Rankin was received from the Presbytery of Cincinnati.

Preparatory to the creation of a Synod, the Synod of Illinois divided the Presbytery of Des Moines, making the Presbyteries of Des Moines, Iowa City and Keokuk.

1853. FIRST SYNOD

The General Assembly having created the Synod of Iowa, it was duly organized at Yellow Springs (Kossuth) September 1, 1853. Sermon by Rev. W. W. Woods.

ROLL.

PRESBYTERY OF DES MOINES. Ministers: Thompson Bird, John C. Ewing, Asa Martin. Absent: Jas. H. Shields.

PRESBYTERY OF KEOKUK. Ministers: S. K. Sneed, Wm. H. Williams, Gamaliel C. Beaman, James M. Phillips, Edmund D. Holt. Absent: Glen Wood, Moses G. Cass. Elder: Thomas Blair from Church of Yellow Springs.

The Presbytery of Dubuque was organized in 1855, Cedar Valley in 1857. In 1859 Chariton was constituted from the Western territory of Keokuk. The Presbytery of Kansas appears for the single year, 1859.

1865.

The Presbytery of Cedar Rapids was formed; and that of Cedar Valley was merged into that of Dubuque.

1867.

The Presbytery of Omaha was organized, consisting of Churches bordering along the Missouri River, and extending indefinitely westward.

1870.

At the reunion the Presbyteries of Synod were Cedar Rapids, Chariton, Des Moines, Dubuque, Iowa City, Keokuk, and Omaha.

Reunion Period

From the two Old School and the one New School Synods were formed the two Synods—Iowa North and Iowa South.

The dividing line is the south line of the counties of Clinton, Jones, Greene, Carroll, Crawford, Monona.

IOWA NORTH.

The Synod was organized at Cedar Rapids, July 5, 1870. The field was divided into four Presbyteries: Cedar Rapids, Dubuque, Fort Dodge and Waterloo, easily located from the names of their principal cities.

IOWA SOUTH.

This was organized at Des Moines July 13, 1870. The Presbyteries were Iowa, Iowa City, Des Moines and Missouri River.

1872-4.

The Presbytery of Missouri River was so divided as to form three: Council Bluffs, Omaha and Nebraska. The last two in 1874 were set off to the Synod of Nebraska.

STATE WIDE SYNOD

In 1881 the General Assembly adopted the idea of Synods bounded by state lines, the act to take effect January 2, 1882. The new Synod was organized at Des Moines, October 19, 1882, Rev. Samuel Storrs Howe as Convener. Rev. A. S. Marshall was chosen Moderator, Rev. D. S. Tappan, Stated Clerk, and Rev. H. G. Rice, Permanent Clerk.

The Presbyteries remained as before: Cedar Rapids, Council Bluffs, Des Moines, Dubuque, Fort Dodge, Iowa, Iowa City and Waterloo.

The Synod was made a delegate body. Ratio of representation, a minister and elder for every four ministers. Ratio changed later to one for every six.

In 1890 the Presbytery of Sioux City was set off from Fort Dodge; and in 1891 the Presbytery of Corning was set off from Council Bluffs. The Synodical Map in Souvenir shows the boundaries of Presbyteries. For the years 1903-4 we had the honor of carrying the Presbytery of Porto Rico on our roll; an honor given us in recognition of the valuable service rendered by our own Dr. J. Milton Greene, in the establishment of our work in Porto Rico.

Part II. Story of the Pioneers

This naturally follows the story of Presbyteries and Synods. Fully and fitly told it should be of thrilling interest. Scores of noble lives were put into the early work of our Church, many of which would make an excellent chapter, and some of which would make a noble volume.

It was our hope to secure worthy tributes for these from a number of the Fathers who are still with us; and we had liberal promises from several. But we find that when it comes to sitting down in cold blood (and that cooled by age) to tell the story of early days and vanished companions, the spirit may be willing, but the flesh is weak. Time and strength fail. Especially did we look to our Synodical Missionaries for help.

Our unquenchable Dr. Alexander K. Baird took full notes from the Old Assembly Minutes, and was ready to put his characteristic contribution into shape when he was called on to go to the mountains and enter a winter's campaign for the Master.

Dr. T. S. Bailey has, with painful yet loving labor, paid his tribute to a large number of the men he knew. Dr. W. J. Harsha, several years ago, gave us "The Story of Iowa" so well told as to furnish information for volumes, and inspiration for every reader. Dr. F. A. Shearer, in his autobiography, gives valuable light. Dr. J. M. McElroy, in his late tribute to "The Men of the Past," has done good service for us all. For our use Dr. George D. Stewart has contributed his "Reminiscences of Iowa." As the story is typical of what scores of others, if living, might have furnished, and for the sake of his tributes to the fathers and brethren, we insert it here:

Reminiscences of Iowa

By REV. GEORGE D. STEWART, D. D., of Fort Madison, Iowa

Of my fifty-five years of ministerial life, forty-five have been spent in Iowa, with the deduction of six and one-half years, during which I was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Omaha, Nebraska; a part of that time was in connection with the Presbytery of Council Bluffs, Synod of Iowa.

In the spring of 1859, whilst pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Bath, New York, my health failed, and I resigned my charge and returned to my home near Philadelphia, to recruit.

On the 22d of October, 1859, I left Philadelphia for Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, where former parishioners of mine at Bath, the Whiting family, well known in the annals of Mt. Pleasant, were residing.

My first Sunday, I preached in the Mt. Pleasant Church, which was a large new brick structure, the best Presbyterian Church building, I remember, at that time in Iowa. Rev. Timothy Stearns, a former pastor, was still residing there, and he and the pastor, Rev. Mr. McClelland, gave me a cordial welcome to the West. The next Sunday I preached for the Winfield Church. They had no church building, and service was held Sunday morning at a school house, across the creek, about three miles from the town.

The next Sunday I was advised to spend at West Point, the first organized Presbyterian Church in Iowa. My friends equipped me with a pony and saddle bags, and in this itinerant style I entered West Point, which, with other points, was to be the scene of my labors for the next four and one-half years, fording the Skunk River on my way thither. There was no church building. There had been one at an earlier date, but it became unsafe and was taken down. The people worshiped in a brick building, erected for a court house, and which, on the removal of the county seat to Fort Madison, had been given to the Presbyterians of the Synod of Iowa (O. S.), for a college, which, after a struggle of a few years, was now defunct. Our first service was held on a week-day night. A few tallow candles served to make the darkness visible, but the prospect did not seem very cheering. The next Sunday I preached at West Point to a good congregation; and in the afternoon to a few people in the Sharon Church, nine miles distant, situated where La Crew now is. The building stood then alone on the prairie, a few scattering farm houses only in sight. After spending about a month in traveling and preaching, at the invitation of the West Point and Sharon Churches, I returned to West Point and made it my home and center of my mission circuit. I returned to West Point about the close of December and engaged to preach six months to these churches, expecting to return East in the spring. Besides preaching in the morning at West Point, I had sent an appointment for the afternoon at Pilot Grove, ten miles northwest, where there were a few Presbyterians to be cared for. Sunday was January 1, 1860, and when I mounted my horse after dinner to ride these ten miles over the prairie, the thermometer registered twelve degrees below zero. I found a goodly little bunch of people assembled, several of them Quakers, among whom I found lasting friends; and I ministered to them and to the Presbyterian families for four and one-half years, once a month. After my removal to Burlington I was called back there, riding forty miles on horse back, to hold a communion service, and seven young men were received into communion. Among these were the Rev. Dr. Adam W. Ringland, his two brothers and two uncles. We had received a number into the church previously. After I had preached my first Sunday at West Point, my arrangement required that I should hold service the next Sunday in Sharon congregation. It had been decided that it was inexpedient to try to meet in the church building, which was so far east from the bulk of the people. The first appointment was made for the Wilkinson school house, about a mile north of where Sharon church now stands. I continued services there till the following summer. The school house soon became too strait for our congregation, and when the fine weather came the women and children occupied the inside of the school house and the men placed boards outside for seats and occupied them. It was soon seen that we must have a more proper meeting place. The first thing was to buy suitable ground for a church and burial ground. After much canvassing on the subject of a location, the corner of the township line road, which ran north by the Wilkinson school house, was deemed most central; and Dr. Todd, a Kentuckian, who owned a large farm, including the southwest corner of this intersection, very kindly sold us four acres of that corner for $100.00, and thither, during the summer, the Sharon church building was removed, two and three-fourths miles from where La Crew now is. It was a very considerable task, which was done voluntarily by the congregation, and two of the elders, William Robertson and James B. Pease, superintended the work. We had now a church and church yard for burial, and there Sharon church and cemetery remain, the church replaced by a new one and the cemetery enlarged and beautified at the great expense of $85,000, by the generosity of the Seeley family, who were brought into the church during my labors there. They endowed the cemetery with a large and valuable farm, and erected on it suitable and attractive buildings and appliances, and water power for the irrigation of the cemetery. They surrounded the cemetery with an iron fence, with a New Hampshire granite foundation. This cemetery contains the precious dust of the first generation of Sharon church people, the early settlers of that prairie.

Quite a number of our people lived in the vicinity of Primrose, a small village four and one-half miles southeast of Sharon church. There we held service in the M. E. church on the same day as the Sharon appointment, at three o'clock. Samuel Davis, a venerable and excellent elder of the Sharon church, resided there, and in his house the minister always found a warm welcome. Many were added to the church there in due time, and a church was organized and a church building erected afterwards. While living at Fort Madison, I officiated at the dedication of the building. The third appointment that day was at Dover, six miles east of Primrose. In short days and bad roads it kept the preacher moving pretty lively to fill these appointments on time. But he usually was able to do this by economy of time and a good horse. The school house was generally full to the extreme limit when the minister arrived there at nightfall. The Bonnells, Dickeys, Hoovers, Walkers and Linns were early members of the church, and in due time others came in.

To return to West Point, one Sunday morning early in January, 1860, the minister was unusually lonely and discouraged. He felt that if any good was done the Lord must do it, and in that spirit he preached the "Confession of Jesus Christ." An interest seemed to awaken at once. Several remained after service to speak to the minister of their duty and desire; and extra services for that week were appointed. In all, twenty-two or twenty-three persons were added to the church at that time, among them Mr. Adolph Salmon, born a Hebrew in Hamburg, Germany, afterwards Treasurer and President of the Board of Trustees of the church, a great help and comfort to the pastor, with his wife, who was reared in the Lutheran Church. He died during my residence there, calmly and hopefully in the Christian faith. In addition there were other men and women received who became a great help to the church. The congregations were large, both from town and country, and were enthusiastic, and it was demanded that we should build a church. The congregation had long owned an inside lot, and the adjoining corner lot also was secured. The pastor obtained an acceptable plan, and during 1861 and 1862 the present buil ing was erected. By the liberality of the people it was paid for on completion, without even asking a collection on the day of dedication. It is still in good condition and is one of the best country church buildings in Iowa. The people have since secured a handsome and commodious manse and paid for it also.

Once a month the minister preached at Franklin, a town six miles distant, at three p. m., in a stone church erected and given for the use of the people by John Berger, an elder of the Evangelical St. Peter's Church. Even hymn books were provided by him. He had the happiness afterwards of seeing two of his sons active and successful ministers of the gospel. On the 4th day of March, 1861, the day of President Lincoln's inauguration, a series of services began at Sharon church. The Rev. J. B. McBride, then of Bentonsport, now of Princeton, Iowa, assisted me very efficiently and acceptably. From the first a deep interest was awakened and there were many conversions, especially of adults. At the close of the meeting thirty-three united with the church. Sixteen of these were men. There were sixteen adult baptisms. The work was very striking and encouraging and laid the foundation for the extensive growth of a vigorous country congregation.

The four and one-half years spent in itinerant work in the northwest part of Lee County had been very happy years. The people had welcomed the minister very cordially and had cheered on his work. They became warm personal friends of the pastor's and continued such during life, and he has since, from time to time, been called to perform the last sad duty for many of them as they were laid to rest. But the work of riding so many miles over the prairie to six different appointments, and many occasional appointments, and the long distance necessary in pastoral visitations, in all sorts of weather and all kinds of roads, had been a severe one. And the Lord seemed to open the way to a proper change and an equally important work. The field had widened so that two ministers or more have occupied the same field ever since. So after these years, we separated in friendship and with mutual regrets, and with warm regards which continue to this day in children and children's children.

In the spring of 1864, I was called to supply the First Presbyterian Church, of Burlington, Iowa, and deemed it my duty to accept this call. The church had passed through a somewhat chequered and not very successful history, with very brief pastorates. It had been divided once, and a church built for the new congregation, which after a time had been sold to the Roman Catholics. On account of differences of opinion about the Civil War, the church was now much distracted, and some long-time and honored members had gone elsewhere. It seemed very desirable to build up our church in this growing and important city. It was with this feeling that I entered upon the work there, determined to preach only the gospel of Jesus Christ, and to take no part in any divisive measures. The Lord blessed the work, and we were soon called upon to enlarge the church building. A spirit of harmony took the place of division. The salary was increased from $800.00 to $1500.00 a year.

In the pastor's first year at Burlington, on the 4th day of October, 1864, he was married at Fort Madison, Iowa, by the Rev. R. H. Kennard, to Miss Emily Stewart Walker, eldest daughter of Dr. J. C. Walker, an elder of the church of Fort Madison, who, with his wife, Mrs. Martha Stewart Walker, were charter members of the church in Fort Madison in 1838, and devoted adherents all life long. Two children were born here, our only son, George B. Stewart, and our eldest daughter, Helen Walker Stewart, who died in her sixth year at Omaha.

The parting with the church at Burlington was a sore trial. We had bought our cottage and set up our home there. We gained a large circle of devoted friends. Many have passed away in the faith, and many remain to this day, who have ever been, with their children, a joy and comfort in our lives, most highly prized by ourselves and by our children.

The pastor established an afternoon service, once in two weeks, at a union church building at Spring Creek, six miles from Burlington. A large congregation gathered there from the surrounding country, and the church, which had been in abeyance for some years, was resuscitated. Two elders were elected, and a number of members were added.

After six and a half years of happy and successful work, I was called to be pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Omaha, Nebraska. That church had just passed through a time of great trial. Two-thirds of the membership had gone out under the former pastor and formed a new independent church. Only fifty members were left in the First church. They had a handsome new church building, but with a debt of $10,000.00 pressing on it. The few churches in Nebraska were attached to the Presbytery of Council Bluffs, Iowa. Many of the leading men in the Synod deemed it my duty to accept the unanimous call of this imperilled church. Dr. Cyrus Dickson, an honored secretary of our board of home missions, was of this opinion. So, in obedience to the voice of duty, as it seemed, I accepted this call. I have never ceased to wonder at the courage which led me to undertake this work.

To add to the difficulties, the panic of 1873 came on, and then the grasshopper scourge; and a consequence of this scourge was a famine in a large part of the state. The people of the eastern and central states freely responded to the published needs of the starving people. At one time during the winter forty thousand rations were issued regularly every day from Omaha, under the supervision of a lieutenant of the U. S. army, with the aid of a corps of assistants. People left their homesteads and went back to the East. The city of Omaha was too poor to light its street lamps. But in 1877 the dark clouds passed away and prosperity returned to the state and city. After striving for six and a half years as pastor, and having seen the membership trebled, I had the pleasure of seeing a great religious interest awakened in the winter of 1876, during union services. The $10,000.00 debt was carried and so the church was saved.

The circumstances of the city of Omaha, as a frontier town, made pastoral and charitable work among the very poor and destitute more necessary than in any other place I have ever known. Mrs. Stewart and myself gave much of our time, energy, interest and means to this work. But one of our great rewards was the large number of valued and life-long friends we gained, through whose friendship the lines of our life had been widened and many joys added, which we would not willingly have gone without, even if their cultivation involved much self-denial and privation.

In the autumn of 1873 I was sent as a commissioner from the Presbytery of Omaha to the Synod of Iowa, at Iowa City, to ask the Synod to divide the Presbytery of Omaha into three Presbyteries, and to concur in asking the General Assembly, at its next meeting, to form these into the Synod of Nebraska. These requests were granted; and in the autumn of 1874 the first Synod of Nebraska met at Omaha. I was elected chairman of the committee on missions, and acted in that capacity until I left the Synod, during the formative period of our churches. In a meeting at Omaha of the superintendents of missions, the committees of missions of the Synod of Iowa, and of the congregational association of Nebraska, formed the league of comity in Home Missions, under which both bodies subsequently acted in the formation of their churches in Nebraska.

In the spring of 1877 I received and accepted a unanimous call to be Pastor of the Union Presbyterian Church at Fort Madison, Iowa, in the region where I had previously spent eleven years in ministerial work. In April, 1877, I removed with my family to Fort Madison, where in due time I was installed Pastor, a relationship which continued with unbroken harmony until it ceased January 1st, 1904. The congregation, in town and country, grew and increased, until it was felt we must arise and build. Poor and rich liberally responded in subscriptions; and voluntary gifts, large and small, came in from here and elsewhere, until it seemed safe to begin. Some were afraid that a large and onerous debt would be incurred, as had been done once before in the building of their church. That debt had long pressed heavily, until at the union of the old and new school churches in 1858, when the Union Church of Fort Madison was formed, and payment of this debt was assumed by Dr. J. C. Walker and paid by himself. So now the pastor, in faith that the amount necessary to complete the church without debt would be raised, and in order to put this obstacle of fear of debt out of the way, assumed the responsibility of finishing the church without debt, out of his own narrow means, if necessary, provided the congregation agreed to give him the choice of the architect and the plan. This was done in a congregational meeting and a building committee appointed, of which the pastor was chairman.

The pastor secured a plan from Mr. L. B. Valk, a distinguished church architect of New York City, who was afterwards the architect of the First Presbyterian Church of Burlington. The plan was unanimously adopted by the congregation and authority given to the committee to build. The cornerstone was laid in June, 1884, the Rev. Dr. McClintock and others assisting the pastor. The church was finished and dedicated by September 1st, 1885, the pastor conducting service, assisted by other of his brethren. A large sum remained to be raised to clear the church from debt. But the congregation responded nobly and the whole sum was raised and the church dedicated free from debt. Five thousand dollars was given by two trustees. The ladies afterwards paid $2000.00 for a pipe organ. All were happy. The congregation was satisfied with their beautiful modern church, with its many handsome memorial windows, with its conveniences for the Sunday school and the other uses of the church, and happy that it was theirs, free from debt, and that all had been done so harmoniously. The work of the church went on with a new impetus. The Sunday school and prayer meeting increased greatly. The ladies assumed the cost of carrying on the music of the church. Seasons of religious interest arose, from time to time, in which many were added to the church, forty at one time, and lesser numbers at others. As the long time elders passed away, others were raised up, and the pastor always had a wise and excellent body of advisers and helpers. The pastor labored on until he entered his eightieth year, and then the Presbytery, at his request, dissolved the pastoral relation and placed his name on the honorably retired list. This pastorate was not alone of the congregation of the Union Church, but of the city of Fort Madison and of the surrounding country, on both sides of the Mississippi River, where much pastoral work was done. The pastor performed more than three hundred and fifty marriage ceremonies and attended more than a thousand funerals, with visitations of the sick. As his services were desired, he freely gave them in all surroundings and circumstances. On the last Sunday of his pastorate, twenty, several of them among the business men of the city with their wives, with some of the young people, entered into the communion of the church.

In April, 1904, a new pastor, Rev. Harry C. Rogers, a young and active minister, was unanimously called and soon entered upon his work, with great acceptance. To add to the brightness of the outlook, a lady of the congregation, long an active and devoted worker in many ways, gave a suitable and valuable manse ready for the use of the pastor and his family. As we look back on the old and homely church, small membership, since more than doubled, the beautiful modern church and organ, the large and interested congregation, the fine Sabbath school and the throng of young people in the Endeavor Society, the gifts of the church to benevolence and the gifts of the Ladies' Missionary Society, and think of the many who have died full of hope and cheer, and the aged, who are still living, who look forward with confidence to the glorious salvation of the Lord, we lift up our anthem of joy and cry aloud, "What hath God wrought?" G. D. J.

Others might have told the story of greater sacrifices and smaller returns. But all would have told the story of a thorny pathway, with satisfaction and joy at the end.

Yet, as our purpose is to tell in brief the story of thirteen hundred ministers, and seven hundred and fifty churches we must draw sparingly on our wealth of material.

The majority, with all their zeal and success, or patient, unrequited toil, will have but the few lines of facts and figures—a pittance of a tribute worthily earned. In speaking of these pioneers we bear in mind that they were assisted and followed by men of the same Apostolic zeal and courage. The material for self-sacrifice and martyrdom still dwells in the Church.

And here, after promising a chapter on "The Pioneers," and after having it well under way, we are constrained to abandon the plan, and treat our entire list of ministers in alphabetical order. We regret the brevity enforced by the size and plan of our book. The early and later pioneers will have all possible consideration; and our endeavor will be to treat all with fairness. No one can be afforded much space; and many may grieve to see how small they look in so large a crowd. We hope, however, that all may comfort themselves with the thought that to be numbered with so noble an army, and to have shared in so glorious a work, is worth all the hardships they have endured.

So, reserving the personal tributes of Harsha and Stewart and McElroy and Bailey for their proper subjects, we close this chapter with the "Heart to Heart Letter" of Dr. Bailey:

A Heart to Heart Letter

I am asked for a heart to heart communication for our Iowa Presbyterian History. There arises before me in imagination a grand and noble company of ministers, elders and laymen all over our beautiful state, who have made our growth and prosperity as a church possible by their constant, consistent, and united efforts, each standing in his place steadfastly, making our ranks strong and our progress sure. I cannot enumerate these faithful ministers and must not discriminate where, almost without exception, they were all so good and true.

During my sixteen years of service as Synodical Superintendent of Home Missions, I came into close touch with these men and women (for the wives of our Home Missionaries are full sharers in the trials and triumphs of the grand work to which their husbands consecrate themselves), in the midst of the battle for Truth and Righteousness. I am persuaded that no state or country has now or has had a more uniformly earnest, faithful and self-sacrificing set of missionary workers than Iowa.

True, there are some men who were at pivotal, strategic points in the development of the work, who by reason of their location and spirit played a larger part than others who were just as true on more quiet fields.

In the earliest times there were Bells, Beamans, McElroys, Speeses, Masons, Phelps, Wellses, Dodds, Didders, McCombs, Dinsmores, Joneses, Rices, Craigs, Marshalls, etc., who lifted the blue banner of our church along the borders and at strategic points in the interior. So there were Carrolls

Campbells, Bairds, Osmonds, Robinsons, Hugheses, Rustons, Clelands, Averys, Burkhalters, McRaes, McClintocks, McAfees, etc., to take up the well-begun work and push it forward with a zeal becoming consecrated men that they all were.

So about my time I found a fine company of younger men like Evans, Lucecock, Stophlet, Greene, Knox, Coyles, Berger and a host of others of noble spirit and power. These men made my work easy and my burdens light in ways without number, God knows, though the world may never realize, how fully such men as these held up the hands of the Synodical Missionary and made our church strong. To name them all in detail and tell of their virtues and graces would impose on me as impossible a task as that which confronted the author of the Epistle to the Hebrews when in the eleventh chapter he attempts to recount the triumphs of faith. I dare not undertake it. Let it suffice for the present to thank God for their lives, and work and pray that those who come after may emulate their zeal and spirit of faithfulness.

T. S. BAILEY.

Part III. Our Educational Institutions

Our pioneers illustrated very soon their zeal for education, higher education, Christian education. Several of our early ministers established schools, out of which came a part of their support; and the semi-wilderness began to blossom with academies, seminaries and colleges. Several of these were useful, and some famous for their day; but the establishment of our state school system soon removed their necessity and deprived them of support. The story of those struggles would make an interesting chapter; but we must limit ourselves to existing institutions.

The earliest efforts were made in the south-eastern part of the state; but the rival interests waited long to find a center where success was possible, in Parsons College. Meanwhile determined and self-sacrificing effort in the northeast section centered in Hopkinton, and produced Lenox College, the first incorporated in the state. We treat the colleges in the order of their age.

Lenox College, Hopkinton

As early as 1854, the late Henry A. Carter cherished the hope of establishing a college at Hopkinton. His object was to provide the facilities of higher christian education without the inconvenience and expense of sending to eastern colleges. This object was approved by many others and there finally resulted the organization of a Joint Stock Company to erect a building to be used for educational purposes. The date of the formation of the Joint Stock Company is not recorded but it met later on September 6, 1855.

In March, 1856, a building committee was appointed to proceed to the erection of the college building. Thus the first Presbyterian College in Iowa was located in Hopkinton, Delaware County, in the northeastern section of the state, among a noble and sturdy class of Scotch Irish.

In June, 1856, the name of Bowen Collegiate Institute was adopted in honor of C. T. Bowen of Chicago, who was a liberal contributor to the building fund, and in the following month the institution was incorporated.

In September, 1856, the members of the first Board of Trustees were elected, and in October of the same year the first articles of incorporation were recorded. According to these Articles of Incorporation the institution was entitled from the beginning to all the rights and privileges of a college. The names of the members of the first Board of Trustees were: Henry A. Carter, President; W. P. Cunningham, Secretary; Leroy Jackson, Treasurer; James Kilpatrick, H. R. Jackson, Asa C. Bowen, Edmund Davis, I. Littlefield, Christian Meyers, W. A. Roberts, William Robinson, William Holt, Jacob Dieffenderfer, William Morrison, J. B. Whittaker and Jerome Davis.

In the autumn of 1856, the foundation of the center of the Main Building was laid and the roof put on in 1857. This was a two story brick structure forty by sixty containing eight rooms built in the center of a four acre plot of ground donated by Mr. H. A. Carter. The campus is now ornamented with many beautiful maples and stately oaks and elms, mostly planted by the students in those early days. They, the men and women of today, whose children have been and are in college, on their return for a visit often point with delight to some special tree as a memento of those famous "tree planting days."

The people were conservative but determined. Times were hard. The people were poor; and for the lack of money great difficulty was experienced in finishing the work so well begun. For many months the building stood in an unfinished condition. In the meantime, H. A. Carter, Leroy Jackson, and James Kilpatrick contributed quite a sum of money from their private funds toward the completion. Finally in the fall of 1858 the work of building was resumed.

A touching incident of these early days ought to be related: Mr. H. A. Carter, who always was a leader, and gave definiteness to the whole plan, had hauled brick to a lot adjoining the campus with which to erect a residence for his own use. Mrs. Carter was rejoicing as the brick was being hauled for her new home to think that she was soon to leave her home built of logs and spend her last happy days in a home built of brick. The college building had reached the second story, and for lack of funds stood unfinished. Mr. and Mrs. Carter realized the situation, and they in self sacrifice and tears gave the brick intended for their new home. These brick finished the second story of the structure, and Mrs. Carter died in the old log house. An oil painting of this historic log house was painted from memory by Mrs. Jane N. Young of Minneapolis, a daughter, after she was seventy years of age, and presented to the college.

Finally, by means of a public entertainment and festival, sufficient money was raised to prepare the inside of the building for occupation; and on September 1, 1859, the first term of the Institute began "with about forty scholars". At last victory crowned the efforts of those noble men and women.

Their hopes were realized. As the rural schools in those early days were inefficient and the high school of the present day was unknown the attendance at the institute from the beginning was very good, and increased rapidly. From the records we learn that during the first four terms 196 different students were enrolled. "The largest number of students in any single term before the Civil War was 120."

The control of the institution was tendered the Old School Presbyterian Synod of Iowa, north, in 1860, and that body the following year took a limited supervision. In 1863 two of the the principal stock-holders, H. A. Carter and Leroy Jackson, obtained a sheriff's deed for the property of the corporation, after the trustees concluded that they were unable to meet their obligations that were contracted in building. These two men presented the entire college property to the Synod. A deed was signed February 9, 1864, by Henry A. Carter and Mary Carter conveying the same to the Synod with the condition that in case the property should not be used for educational purposes it was to revert to the town of Hopkinton. At the time the property was transferred to the Synod in 1864 the name was changed from Bowen Collegiate Institute to Lenox Collegiate Institute in honor of James Lenox of New York City, a liberal contributor to the endowment fund.

The first president of the institution was the Rev. Jerome Allen, Ph. D., of sacred memory, who occupied the chair from 1859 to 1863, and for two years additional acted as financial agent and teacher of the Natural Sciences and English Literature. Dr. Allen was one of the foremost educators of his day. He became Dean of the Department of Pedagogy in the University of the City of New York and filled the place from 1889 to the time of his death in Brooklyn, May 26, 1894.

Next came the soldier-President, the Rev. J. W. McKean, A. M., 1863-1864. One morning a recruiting officer attended chapel service, and after a strong and noble appeal by president McKean for the young men to obey the call of President Lincoln to enlist in the army of the Union, he informed the students that a recruiting officer was present and all who wished to enlist should arise. All arose and enlisted but one, and he was too young. The Faculty and girl students were in tears, and President McKean closed the tender scene by saying, "Well boys, if all of you are going, I am going, too." President McKean resigned May 6, 1864, and entered the army as captain of a company in which all but two of the students enlisted. The work of the institute was suspended till the fall term. July 9, 1864, Captain McKean died in the army at Memphis, Tenn. A fine monument on the college campus commemorates his name, and the names of others who gave their lives for the preservation of the Union. This monument at a cost of over $1500, was dedicated November 17, 1865, which makes it the oldest monument in Iowa, and probably in the entire United States erected in honor of the soldiers of the Civil War. "In all, ninety-two students of this school enlisted during the war, a larger proportion than from any other school in this state."

For a brief period, from July 8, 1864, to the close of the Fall term of the same year, the Rev. James D. Mason was President. During the remaining portion of that year till the Spring Term of 1866 Dr. Jerome Allen acted as President though the Rev. Mr. Mason did not formally resign till October 1865. Mr. Mason was a genial gentleman prominently identified with Presbyterianism in Iowa. He died in Davenport, Iowa, January 8, 1890, at the age of seventy-seven.

In September, 1866, the Rev. Samuel Hodge, D. D., who for one year had been professor of Languages, was chosen President. He filled the office with becoming dignity and increasing power till 1882.

December 5, 1870, a committee was appointed to take the necessary steps to incorporate as a college having the right to confer degrees, etc., but the articles of incorporation were not filed for record till October 11, 1873. "As found stated in these the object of the corporation is to maintain an institution of learning for the education of both sexes; the grade of which is to be at least high enough to prepare the one for the Sophomore class in the best colleges in the United States; and the other for the second year of the best Ladies' Seminary in the country. But the school may be raised to 'any higher grade whatever.' In accordance with this provision its grade has from time to time been made higher. It shall always be 'under Christian influence and control'. It shall have power 'to confer any and all college degrees, to grant diplomas and certificates.

"In 1875, the original building was enlarged by a wing fifty-five by thirty feet. This additional room was made necessary by the increased attendance of students, the number for one term reaching 200. This convenient improvement in the size of the building is due, for the most part, to the liberality of the citizens of Hopkinton and vicinity."

Dr. Hodge died in West Union, Iowa, January 4, 1891.

In 1882, the Trustees departed from the prevailing custom and elected as president, a layman, in the person of James A. Ritchey, Ph. D. He was an experienced educator, and for six years labored with marked success. In 1883, the curriculum of the college was revised and greatly extended and provided for three regular courses of study as well as for many electives. Thus the institution was made equal to the best average college in the state. This year the Helen Finley bequest of $5,000 was made as an addition to the permanent funds. During this year also occurred the death of Mr. H. A. Carter who was the first President of the Board of Trustees and a life-long friend and generous supporter of the college.

In 1884, the Articles of Incorporation were so amended as to change the name from Lenox Collegiate Institute to Lenox College.

In 1884, the quarter Centennial of the college was celebrated. An unusually large number of people were present. The Old Students' Association organized in 1883, made its first public appearance, effected this general reunion, and contributed much to the social and literary interest of the occasion.

Dr. Ritchey now lives in Oil City, Pa.

During the summer of 1888 the Board of Trustees chose the Rev. Alexander G. Wilson, D. D., as President. He brought not only dignity but also capability acquired by a long training in professional and presidential positions in Parson's College and Lake Forest University. In 1889, the foundation of Clarke Hall, a girl's dormitory, was laid and in the fall of 1890 the building was ready for use. Clarke Hall was erected by the combined efforts of the Board of Trustees, former students and alumni. The largest share of the money used in the erection of the building was left by Charles Clarke, a former student who wished to do something for the college where he had received his training. Dr. Wilson's distinguished gifts, his noble christian character, and executive powers combined to make him a model President, and it was a great loss when in 1894, he resigned to accept a professorship in the recently established Theological Seminary in Omaha, where he remained until his death May 4, 1904.

In the Spring of 1894, the Rev. Hugh Robinson, A. M., a son of Lenox College and a brilliant preacher was chosen President. He remained for two years in that office.

During the presidency of Rev. Mr. Robinson considerable field work was done, and resulted in increased enrollment. At the Commencement of 1895, the friends who gathered on the campus to enjoy the exercises of the day contributed $2500 toward the erection of a new building to be used for the library, gymnasium and literary society halls. James McKean, M. D., '80, of Chenung Mai, Laos, a Presbyterian Foreign Missionary, has the honor of making the first gift, which was $100. Operations on the new building were suspended at the close of the summer of 1895. In the spring of 1896, the Rev. Mr. Robinson resigned to take charge of a church.

Next came Andrew G. Wilson, A. M., who was chosen President in the spring of 1896. He too is an alumnus, of '80, and in 1884 began to teach Natural Science in Lenox College. His wide scholarship and quiet yet forceful manner qualified him for the position he held till the spring of 1902. In 1897, though the times were hard the people of Hopkinton and vicinity loyally responded with $5,000 for permanent endowment. It was during President Wilson's time that the new building used for library and gymnasium was completed. Due to the generous gift of Judge F. B. Doolittle of Delhi, Iowa, the building was named Doolittle Memorial Hall in honor of his son, F. B. Doolittle, of sacred memory. In 1901, Mr. Wilson resigned but remained at his post of duty till the close of the winter term 1901-2.

In February 1902, Rev. Francis William Grossman, D. D. accepted the presidency. During his incumbency considerable progress was made in many directions. As to material improvements: a steam plant was installed in Clarke hall and another in the Main Building which has a capacity sufficient for four times the present necessity, new Christian Association Rooms were provided; the chapel, music rooms, stairways and halls, laboratories, literary society halls, and Clarke Hall have been completely remodeled at a cost of about $10,000; the library has had an addition of 2,300 new bound volumes, 350 volumes of standard magazines. A conditional offer of $25,000 from Mr. Andrew Carnegie toward a permanent endowment has been secured; several thousands of dollars of cash from generous men of means have been received by the treasurer, besides $5,000 cash from Dr. Finley's estate.

Notable progress in the curriculum has also been made. The courses have been revised and greatly extended, and there has been a decided increase in the requirements both for admission and graduation.

Additions were made to the faculty, and the salaries of most of the professors increased—in one instance doubled. A higher standard of scholarship has been the result. In December, 1904, Lenox College was admitted to the College Section of the Iowa State Teachers' Association and the following year into the Presbyterian College Union of the Middle West. In recent years there has been a general forward movement in the institution that has been encouraging. The writer resigned July 1, 1906, to take effect August 31, 1906.

The Rev.*E. E. Reed, D. D., has been chosen President. He will commence his work September 1, 1906.

Coe College, Cedar Rapids

Coe College is located in the beautiful city of Cedar Rapids. The city is an important railroad center, easily accessible from every direction. It has prosperous industries and large commercial interests. It is distinguished for its churches, schools, libraries and benevolent institutions, and is an ideal location for a college.

Coe College furnishes a wonderful example of God's use of a small gift to accomplish great ends. In 1853 Rev. Williston Jones, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Cedar Rapids, seeing the great need for the training of young men and women for the great mission field in the midst of which he was working, secured from Daniel Coe of Green County, New York, $1,500 to be used for educational purposes in the West. This money was entrusted to a Board of Trustees which had been organized two years previously. A tract of eighty acres of land adjacent to Cedar Rapids was purchased. As in process of time the village became a city, this land increased in value greatly. Today a small fraction of it, still held by the college as campus and building lots, is alone worth more than a hundred times the original gift.

For many years after the date of Daniel Coe's gift prominent citizens of Cedar Rapids watched the growth of this foundation with jealous care, giving their best efforts in thought, and time and money to the fostering of Christian education. Among these pioneers may be mentioned Judge Greene, Dr. Ely, and Thomas M. Sinclair, all of whom have passed away, leaving a rich heritage to their successors. Such men as Senator Allison, Secretary Wilson, Hon. S. L. Dows, Mr. J. C. Broeksmit, Captain J. S. Alexander, Mr. W. S. Cooper and others have rendered conspicuous services as Trustees.

It is interesting to note that several of the trustees who are now carrying the heat and burden of the day in connection with Coe College, represent in various ways these pioneer families. Mr. C. B. Soutter, President of the Board, and Mr. Robert Sinclair, son of that high-souled Christian, T. M. Sinclair, actively represent that family, whose benefactions and support have meant so much. Mr. George B. Douglas, Chairman of the Finance Committee, whose safe, yet broad-minded financial policy is much appreciated, represents another pioneer family. Mr. J. S. Ely, Secretary of the Board; Mr. C. G. Greene, and Colonel W. G. Dows, have received the mantle of active service for the college from worthy fathers. Last, but by no means least, the Vice-President of the Board, Rev. Dr. E. R. Burkhalter, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Cedar Rapids, represents that line of Godly men who have ministered in the historic church, which is, in a sense, the mother of Coe College. He also may be taken as representative of that larger group of ministers whose labors have been given freely to the building up of this Christian institution.

In 1881 Rev. Stephen Phelps, D.D., was called from his pastorate to organize a faculty and a course of study preparatory to the opening of a full college. In September of that year the college opened with a good attendance, and was successful from the start. Dr. Phelps and his faculty did good foundation work. He resigned in 1886, and was succeeded by Dr. Marshall, who was President until his death, in 1896. Dr. McCormick came to the presidency in 1897 and resigned in 1904. Dr. William Wilberforce Smith, the present incumbent in the office, entered upon his duties in September of 1905.

During this quarter of a century of college history there has been a gradual advance along all lines. A growing body of Alumni, an increasing constituency, friends of influence and financial means whose interest has been awakened, and growth in material equipment have been the controlling elements in this advance.

The college opened with a single building half the size of the present main college building. There are today upon the campus five buildings: The main college building, Williston Hall for young ladies, Marshall Hall for the academy, an athletic field house, and a gymnasium.

The various departments are well equipped. There are thirteen departments, as follows: Economics and Sociology, Botany and Geology, Greek, History, Chemistry, Modern Language, Education, Latin, Philosophy and Psychology, Zoology, Mathematics and Physics, Bible, English. Music and Elocution are also provided for. The faculty numbers thirty-one, including thirteen professors, one emeritus professor, four associate professors, and thirteen assistants and demonstrators. Laboratories for Chemistry, Biology, Psychology and Physics are well equipped. The museum of Natural History is one of the best in the state, and is rapidly growing. Library facilities are supplemented by the Masonic and public libraries of the city.

The Christian spirit and the spiritual life of the institution is probably its most distinguishing mark. In the yearly reorganization of college life each fall the Christian Associations are given the field until every student is approached for membership in the associations and given an opportunity to engage in active Christian work.

Visiting Secretaries of the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations and of missionary societies have spoken repeatedly for the exceptional nature of the spiritual life and influence of Coe. Two distinct lines characterize the Christian activity of the student body. First, an effort is made to reach by personal contact every non-Christian in the College; second, an effort is made to start every young man and young woman into active Christian service. How far these ends have been realized is shown somewhat by the following facts: During the twenty-five years of the existence of Coe as a college only about twenty-five students have been graduated who did not go out professing Christians. This present year Coe has more students who have given themselves to the work of the ministry and the mission field than any Presbyterian college of the United States, except one large university enrolling four times as many students as does Coe. The indications are that if theological students were deducted from the graduate courses Coe would stand first among Presbyterian colleges for white students in number of candidates for the ministry. It is a well-known fact that Iowa has been the only Synod of our Church that has turned an undiminished supply of young men into the ministry. The character of these young men shows that they are the ablest our ministry is receiving.

There are a number of elements that go to make a college. A strong college must contain all of them in proper proportion. These elements may be classed in some such way as this: Spirit and impetus of the institution, number and quality of the Faculty, number and quality of the student body, an able President and Board of Trustees, a large and loyal constituency, number and quality of buildings and equipment, endowment sufficient to give it a safe measure of support, and location.

In regard to the spirit and impetus of Coe, it is doubtful if any other college of the Presbyterian church has made such rapid, yet substantial advancement during the past seven or eight years. The impetus of growth given the institution largely by Dr. McCormick still controls the spirit of the college. The wholesome, manly and sincere spirit of the student body is one of the things for which Coe has always been proud. Everywhere about the institution there is a distinct spirit of progression. Coe has selected from the ablest young men and women of the state her student body. Coe's students have entered the largest universities of this country, and have uniformly won high rank as students. Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Johns Hopkins, Pennsylvania, Princeton and Clark, all have Coe's representatives in their graduate courses.

Coe has drawn students this year from fourteen different states and four foreign countries. An examination of the lists of students who give their place of residence as Cedar Rapids shows that nearly one-half of these are people of Iowa and other states, who have moved to Cedar Rapids because of the educational facilities of the college.

As to the number of members of its Faculty, Coe is offering a larger number of instructors in proportion to the number of students than almost any other college of our denomination. To estimate the value of this fact to the students who attend Coe would be impossible. Perhaps Coe's weakest point is the small number of the buildings upon her beautiful campus, but in this direction she is forging rapidly forward. The construction of three buildings within the last five years and the early completion of a new Science Hall will place Coe nearer her true position in regard to buildings. Her productive endowment, while insufficient by many thousand dollars to maintain the institution, is large enough to show that Coe's growth is safely assured. More than $200,000 have been added to the endowment fund of the institution within the last four years, an increase very largely made possible by the $25,000 gift of Mr. Ralph Voorhes, of New Jersey.

Coe's graduates are distributed over twenty-seven states of the Union and five foreign countries. Forty-two of her graduates have gone into the ministry, to the mission field, or other active Christian work. Forty-seven of them are teachers, and the remainder are scattered among various occupations and professions. Eight are in the foreign field.

Coe College looks forward hopefully to future growth and usefulness. She has proved her right to exist. She feels the impulse to expansion born of conscious worth to the Church and State. Hampered at every step by lack of funds, she has yet displayed a vigor that could only come from devotion of her friends. Noble men have labored and sacrificed in the spirit of the Master in order that this institution might do the work that God has laid upon her. See Picture Gallery pp. 92-3.

Parson's College, Fairfield

Parsons College was founded by a Christian business man, Lewis B. Parsons, Sr. His life was a model of thrift and systematic beneficence. In his will, which he left at his death, Dec. 21, 1855, we may read the character and purpose of the man whose spirit has given tone to the institution he founded. It may also prove serviceable as an ideal for Christian givers in this generation.

Mr. Parsons believed that good education, with "habits of industry, economy and liberality" were the best legacies of parents to their children. He, therefore, wrote in his will; "Having long been of the opinion that for usefulness, prosperity and happiness of children, a good moral and intellectual, or business education, with moderate means, was far better than unlimited wealth, I herein dispose of my estate mainly to such benevolent objects and enterprises as I think will conduce to the greatest good."

The "greatest good" seems to have been prominently identified in his mind with the cause of Christian education. The adequate reasons for this conviction are set forth in the following section of his will, in which he speaks of "having long been convinced that the future welfare of our country, the permanence of its institutions, the progress of our divine religion and an enlightened Christianity greatly depended upon the general diffusion of education under correct moral and religious influences."

This conception of the benevolent duties of a Christian man furnishes a much-needed lesson. Tithing became a deep-seated conviction in the mind of Mr. Parsons even under the stress of reverses. So thoroughly did this model philanthropist believe in the blessedness of giving that he regularly tithed a clerkship salary of $250 a year; and with returning prosperity exceeded the Scriptural tithe to the extent of appropriating $150 a year to each of the following enterprises, the American Bible Society, American Tract Society, the Home Mission Society and the American Board. This he did when his yearly income did not exceed $1,600, and his family numbered twelve persons. His continued prosperity and his beautiful life give added proof that "the Lord loveth a cheerful giver."

The depreciation of values incident to the Civil War deferred the establishment of the college for twenty years after the death of Mr. Parsons. It was not until Feb. 24, 1875, that the articles of incorporation were finally signed and Parsons College was located at Fairfield, a stronghold of Presbyterianism in Iowa.

Parsons may be said to be a lineal descendant of the first Presbyterian college in Iowa, begun at Yellow Springs in the early part of the last century. This college was well thought of by Mr. Parsons, and he was on his way to visit it when his last sickness put an end suddenly to his journey. The war proved fatal to that school, for upon the preaching of a patriotic sermon by its president, at the opening of the war, all the male students enlisted before the following Monday.

In deciding upon the location of the college the executors of Mr. Parson's will were led to choose Fairfield from the fact that, in addition to the offer of most liberal financial assistance, there was appreciation on the part of the citizens of the religious significance of the movement. In the meeting to finally decide, Elder William Elliott, of the Fairfield Church opened the deliberations with prayer.

In the spirit of its founder, Parsons College has always combined practical business wisdom and careful management with an unbounded enthusiasm for the things of mind and spirit. Debts have very seldom accumulated; they have never reached large proportions, and such as have been incurred for short periods have been promptly discharged.

It has always been the good fortune of the college to profit through the wise advice and assistance of Christian business men. Brevet Major General Lewis B. Parsons, son of the founder, is chief among such friends and benefactors. His remarkable ability for doing things, manifested during his brilliant service in the Civil War, he has devoted to the interests of the college time and again to its great benefit. The co-operation of such a man is priceless.

Colonel Charles Parsons, brother of General Parsons, and some time president of the State National Bank of St. Louis, was another business man to whom the college owed much. Like his father, he was successful in business, cultured in taste, and public spirited. The college still mourns his death which occurred Sept. 15, 1905.

Mr. Thomas D. Foster, of Ottumwa, Ia., as Vice-President of the Board of Trustees, is another one of those Christian business men whose living interest in Christian education has contributed much to the success of Parsons College. His devotion to the college is such as a man would take in his own private business.

And what shall be said of the years of faithful service rendered this institution by Rev. Willis G. Craig, D.D., L.L.D.? Instrumental in organizing the college, he has been president of the Board of Trustees during the almost thirty-one years of the life of the school. Such a term of service is in itself remarkable, and in it one may see the fidelity and wisdom with which the office has been administered.

The institution has been favored in its leadership. Rev. John Armstrong, D. D., as financial agent brought it funds and friends. He gave largely of his own means. But he gave his heart and his life. As first President he saw the first graduating class of 16 nearing their commencement, when he was called home. His monument on the Campus is a fitting memorial of what he did, and what he was.

The leader fallen in the prime of life, it was appropriate that the veteran Dr. E. J. Gillett, long before President of Yellow Springs College, should send out, in 1879, the first class of the new college. From that day on the college has moved steadily upward. That indefatigable worker, Dr. T. D. Ewing, did double work for church and college till 1889. Dr. Ambrose C. Smith bore the burden from 1890 to 1896. The young and vigorous D. E. Jenkins served till called to Omaha Theological Seminary, in 1902; and Dr. F. W. Hinitt left the college in 1904 for a presidency in Danville, Ky.

Rev. Willis E. Parsons, D.D., the seventh President of the College is now in the second year of service in the school which his grandfather founded. When President Hinitt resigned to accept a like position at Central University, the Committee appointed to nominate a successor, turned with one mind to Dr. Parsons. His acceptance of the call gave general satisfaction to all friends of the college.

Dr. Parsons was born on Iowa soil, but most of his life was spent in Michigan, where he received his school and college education. He is an alumnus of Olivet College and of Princeton seminary. After twenty years of service in the ministry in two churches he came to his new work. President Parsons has the four qualifications of a college president: Christian character, faith in young people, the tastes of a scholar, and administrative ability of a high order. The friends of the institution are expecting great things from him, and will not be disappointed. Under his leadership, or leadership like his, Parsons College has an assured future among the best Christian institutions of learning.

The inner workings of the college have been marked by a general advance toward the realization of larger things. The beginnings were of course small. Work commenced immediately after the school was incorporated, and recitations were held in the home of the President. The following summer work was commenced on a building for recitation purposes. A few years later $19,000 was expended in erecting the center and wing of a building to be completed in the future. New life was given the college in 1891, when a fund of $75,000 was raised. This secured the completion of Ankeny Hall, the main building, and added a snug sum to the growing endowment. In 1895 the endowment was further increased by the gift of $25,000 left by Rev. Thomas H. Skinner, D.D., LL.D., professor in McCormick Theological Seminary. The will of Mr. Calvin Ballard, of Winterest, Iowa, in 1899, made possible the erection of Ballard Hall, the beautiful dormitory for women.

The uninterrupted and rather remarkable growth of the college was checked by the burning of Ankeny Hall on the night of August 19, 1902. This was a serious blow, and hearts were heavy. No one dared predict the splendid recovery from loss which was actually witnessed during the two years immediately following. The disaster seems to have been the signal for a still more vigorous forward movement. Within a short time after the fire two completely equipped modern structures replaced the ruined building.

Foster Science Hall is a model of its kind. The perfection of its appointments for the study of physics, chemistry and biology make it a joy to teacher and student. The building contains a vivarium, dark-room, four lecture-rooms with demonstration desks, and nine completely equipped laboratories for various branches of scientific work. An engine and lathe, in the basement, furnish the means for constructing certain pieces of new apparatus. The facilities in biology and chemistry have raised the premedical work to the standard required by the best medical schools.

Fairfield Hall, the gift of the citizens of Fairfield, is the new building used for general collegiate work.

There is in process of erection a library building, the gift of Mr. Andrew Carnegie and Mr. Foster, which will be thoroughly modern and up-to-date, and the most beautiful building on the campus.

By the will of the late Colonel Charles Parsons, $80,000 will come to the college to be added to the permanent endowment fund. This makes the gifts from all sources to the college the past year $102,800. This will, in part, enable the college to meet the enlarging demands incident to the establishment of new professorships and the maintenance of new buildings.

With long-continued advance in material things there has come a corresponding advance in the realization of the purpose to give a thorough education in an institution which represents the essentials of the Christian faith. The first catalogue, issued in 1876, contains the name of but one college student, a sophomore, while there were sixty-five enrolled in the academy. The day of senior classes soon came. In 1880 a class of sixteen was graduated under the presidency of Dr. Gillett, who had been the President of Yellow Springs College. At the present time the enrollment of the college departments exceed that of the academy. Graduating classes have varied from six to twenty-four.

It is always interesting to learn what the men and women who have been graduated from a college have done in the world. It is specially interesting to see what they have done for the "kingdom." For this showing Parsons is specially grateful, for of her 324 alumni 40 per cent. of the men have entered the Christian ministry, and nineteen have gone as foreign missionaries. Eighteen per cent. have become business and professional men and 30 per cent. of the total list of alumni have become teachers.

Such is the record, and such are the prospects of Parsons College, at the end of its thirty-first year, and with these it comes before the great company of Presbyterians and asks for their prayers, their gifts and their children. See Picture Gallery pp. 76-7.

Buena Vista College, Storm Lake

Buena Vista College, like some other institutions of its kind, had its beginnings in a history prior to that of Buena Vista College proper. In October, 1883, the Calliope Academy was taken under the care of the Ft. Dodge Presbytery which then constituted the Northwest quarter of the state of Iowa. Two years later the school was moved to Ft. Dodge and given the name of the Ft. Dodge Collegiate Institute. The Rev. F. L. Kenyon was chosen president and served in this capacity until the Spring of 1889. He was succeeded by the Rev. L. Y. Hayes. Two years later it was decided that the school would not be a success as then located. Accordingly the Ft. Dodge and Sioux City Presbyteries, which had resulted from a division of the old Ft. Dodge Presbytery appointed a joint commission of twelve men to take into consideration a new location and the reorganization of the school. After much careful and prayerful consideration of a number of propositions from different towns the commission met in Storm Lake on the 8th of July, 1891, for final action; and on the following day perfected the organization and incorporation of Buena Vista College, and located it at Storm Lake, Iowa. The Synod of Iowa unanimously adopted it as a Synodical institution at its regular meeting the following fall. It is under the general supervision of Synod and by charter provision its Board of Trustees are elected by Synod—two-thirds of whom must be members of the Presbyterian Church in good and regular standing. Before the first year had closed of what we are accustomed to think of as Buena Vista College, President Hayes died and it became necessary to look for a successor. The choice fell upon the Rev. J. M. Lynn who was elected president June 17th, 1892.

At the time of the founding of the college under its present charter a site had been donated by the citizens of Storm Lake and money enough had been secured from the sale of lots to erect a handsome and substantial structure of pressed bricks and stone for a main college building. The cost of this building, including heating plant and furniture, was over $27,500. This building was erected during the summer of 1892. During the same summer three more buildings were erected for college use, viz., a Ladies' Cottage, a Boys' Dormitory and a President's Home. The two former were built by a company of Storm Lake men and the latter by President Lynn with the understanding that the college would secure the money to take the buildings off their hands as soon as possible. President Lynn served the school for two years when he resigned. Rev. John MacAllister pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Storm Lake, was requested by the Executive Committee to act as President pro tempore, which position he filled throughout the year in connection with his pastorate. On July 31st, 1895, Prof. Willis Marshall, Principal of Hungerford Academy, Springville, Utah, was elected president. President Marshall continued with the school for two years. Rev. Harvey Hostetler was chosen to succeed him at an adjourned meeting of the Board of Trustees held on June 28th, 1897. After three years of hard and faithful work for the institution, President Hostetler tendered his resignation. On the 7th of August, 1900, the Rev. E. E. Reed was elected president and began his work in connection with the opening of the new school year. Prior to this time the school had no endowment and like most young institutions of its kind its struggles had been between life and death. President Reed took up his work with the intention of raising an endowment..

By May 20th, 1902, over $51,000 had been subscribed for this purpose, including the money for the purchasing of the President's Home. Prior to this the school had done only partial collegiate work. The faculty was enlarged, the science department equipped for advanced work, and the junior year added to the course. The following year the senior work was carried and in June, '04, a college class of four was graduated. In 1905 another class of four was turned out and, in 1906 a class of eight. In the late fall of 1904 president Reed was taken sick and was laid aside from his work till September of the following year. During the past few months a movement for another $50,000 of endowment was started, and at that present date, June 1, 1906, subscriptions amounting to $22,500 have been secured. During the past few years much attention has been given to building up the library and to teaching the students the use of a library. In five years' time the number of books drawn from the library increased from less than 100 to 1500. A Y. M. and a Y. W. C. A. were organized among the students on the Day of Prayer for Colleges, January, 1901. These associations have steadily grown in numbers and efficiency. During the past year most of the students in regular attendance upon the college have been members of these associations. Recently a Volunteer Band has been organized among the students and for the past several months every student in the college department has been a professing Christian and a church member. The college spirit is abroad among the students to a delightful degree, the circle of friends for the school has been growing both in Iowa and in the East and the outlook for Buena Vista was never brighter than at the present.

During the summer of 1906 President Reed resigned his position at the head of Buena Vista College and accepted the presidency of Lenox College. After Commencement and before closing his work with Buena Vista he secured $5,000 to pay for the Music Hall and the balance of indebtedness on the College Press, besides a considerable amount towards current expenses. In all Dr. Reed raised for this school in cash and pledges over One Hundred Thousand Dollars during the six years of his presidency. See Picture Gallery pp. 89-112.

Corning Academy, Corning

We give space to this young survivor of our academies. Its field is the south-western quarter of the state. It is full of faith and promise, and may yet illustrate the power of predestination and perseverance, and blossom out as a College.

Corning Academy owes its origin to two causes—an earnest desire on the part of the citizens of Corning to establish an institution for higher education in their midst and an equally strong desire on the part of the members of the Council Bluffs Presbytery to found an academy in this part of the state.

In the spring of 1885 the citizens of Corning under the leadership of Rev. S. M. Johnson, pastor of the Presbyterian church, determined to secure if possible the location of such an academy. The effort was heartily seconded by Presbytery and also the Board of Aid for Colleges and Academies. The sum of $18,000 was subscribed by the citizens of Corning and Adams county; the largest subscription being that of Judge Barnett, of Carbon, whose generous gift of $4,000 first assured the success of the enterprise. About $2,000 was secured from different churches and individuals in the Presbytery which made a building fund of $20,000. The site purchased was the property of Mr. Crippin, whose residence is now the home of the Principal.

The school was organized on the 6th of October, 1885, with Rev. S. L. McAfee as Principal. Mr. George W. Frank gave the use of a part of the Bank Building, which is now the Bacon Hotel, where the school was held for the first year and the first term of the second year. The total enrollment of the first year in the Literary Department was forty-two. At the close of the Academic year, June 16, 1886, the corner stone of the new building was laid with appropriate ceremonies. Mr. McAfee continued his efficient and faithful work as head of the institution until June, 1889, when he resigned to accept a position in Park College. Nineteen students were graduated during his leadership.

From September, 1889, till June, 1890, Mr. Clark, a graduate of Princeton was acting Principal, at which time Rev. T. D. Ewing, D. D., former President of Parson's College, was elected. He took charge of the work at once and his eminent fitness for the position was soon evident. The attendance increased, new life was infused, and the school became an important factor of Presbyterianism in southwestern Iowa. Dr. Ewing was an excellent educator and always insisted on having teachers who were college graduates. His executive ability was of the highest order, and under his administration the Academy attained its greatest prosperity. The moral and religious tone of the school was always strong. The influence of Dr. Ewing will long be felt in this part of the state, and be shown in the lives of those who graduated from Corning Academy under his administration. From one hundred and seventy graduates a large number have entered the ministry and several are on the Foreign Mission Field. Five are pursuing a theological course at the present time.

Dr. Ewing died July 31, 1905, and Mr. Frederick Currens was elected Principal. The present year shows a large increase in attendance, being twice that of last year. Much has been done by way of general improvements—new furnaces, both in the Academy and Young Ladies' Hall, also varnish and paper in the latter. Apparatus has been added in the science department and gymnasium. Additions have also been made to the library. The course of study has been strengthened, and is of an exceptionally high standard. The interest of the citizens of Corning and vicinity has increased greatly and the prospect of a bright future lies before the Academy. (See gallery page 111)

Dubuque Seminary

People of a far country and a strange language may, with infinite patience, fit themselves into a new community and learn the strange language, as their children bring it in from street and school. But when more than a hundred thousand a year are bringing the same language to this country they do not sit down among us in single families. They come in companies, they congregate in the cities, they enter the richest regions of our land and sweep them clean of race and language.

This fact presents the great problem of our cities and even of large portions of our land. The Germans are second to none in the wealth of brain and brawn and intelligence they bring. And largely they bring us the religion of the Reformation. Generally they will speak the language of the fatherland until they die. So they must have an educated ministry of their own.

The first man to discover and utilize this idea was Rev. Adrian Van Vliet, who in 1852, took charge of the Independent German Church of Dubuque which had been organized on Christmas day, 1847. This man, born in Holland and a tailor by trade, was taught of God, from whom rather than from human teachers he received his fitting and commission. With a zeal born of God he gave his spare time in Dubuque to giving the Gospel to the Hollanders and Germans in their homes. His wonderful success in soul-winning led to his call to the ministry, and to the founding of a school. In his study he began the work of the seminary that was to be; and this in 1852. He trained young Germans as missionaries to their countrymen.

The school continued in his study until in 1871. In time a valuable site was purchased and a building provided which did good service for more than thirty years.

The character of the school is unique. The young men come from the plow and from the bench without in some instances even a common school education. This institution has to be a school, academy, college and theological seminary. The course has been arranged with a view to meet this need, and scholarly professors adapt themselves as the occasion requires to theological discussions or to primary instruction, in order that the German candidate may be thoroughly equipped for the ministry. And the results justify the sacrifice. The farmer lad or young mechanic is transformed into a cultured and painstaking student, fitted to stand the severest tests in the presbyterial examinations alongside of the graduates of any other seminary. Thus the school is no experiment, but has proved its ability to educate an efficient ministry.

The distinct aim of the school is German evangelization. We must emphasize this fact. In the stress of the great problem of foreign evangelization the special character of this work must not be forgotten. The school stands ready to receive young men of other nationalities, and already the Bohemians and Hollanders are here. The race since the confusion of speech has been many tongued, and the problem of the church is not to save a favored part of the race, but to bring the whole race to Christ, to teach all Nations. The kingdom of Christ is the universal kingdom; and the Church triumphant is "a great multitude which no man can number, of all nations and kindreds and people and tongues." The Presbyterian church needs all these to make it a truly catholic church. All these are in large sense within our borders, and the church is really many tongued. It must be remembered that among all these elements second only in importance to the English stock is the Germanic race.

The immigrant must be reached in the language which he understands. This is the logic of common sense and experience. Our School exists for the purpose of educating a German Presbyterian Ministry. We cannot import ministers from Germany, and even if we could it would not be desirable. We need ministers of our spirit, ministers thoroughly American and Presbyterian in all that pertains to national and ecclesiastical life. Hence it is necessary that the Church maintain a seminary for this special work.

While the grand aim of the school is the salvation of souls, the application of Presbyterian principles to German evangelization is the special method of operation. No apology need be made for this method. It is believed that the salvation of men can be best attained through the doctrine and practice of the Presbyterian Church. Hence the school stands for the doctrine, practice and polity of the Presbyterian Church as contained in the Confession of Faith and other standards, and it is its peculiar work to make these principles understood by the German people, and to send forth ministers who will use the approved methods of the Presbyterian Church in their labors for the salvation of men. How fruitful these methods are is proved not only by the success attendant upon the ministry of the graduates, but also the wonderful results which have been reached through these means by earnest Christians who have returned to the fatherland. Every effort is put forth to bring the students in touch with the Presbyterian Church, and it is worthy of note that no churches upon the roster of the General Assembly are more thoroughly Presbyterian, more sincerely devoted to the doctrine and polity of the Presbyterian Church.

The faculty consists of six competent professors who give their time as the need may be, to the collegiate or the theological department.

The new home of the school, with the face of the old Father who saw it in vision is found on page 80 of the Gallery. Faculty and Students, p. 57.

Omaha Seminary

Convenience of access in spite of modern facilities for travel will continue to figure in the question of locating a school.

From Lake Michigan to the Pacific the journey is long and the intervening population are making demands which can be better answered by the inhabitants of the localities to be served.

The growing city of Omaha attracted the attention of Eastern friends; and from small beginnings a beautiful plant and an excellent outfit for a theological seminary have been developed.

Supported in part by Iowa largely supplied with students from Iowa and almost entirely supplied with instructors from Iowa, we are but doing justice to the institution and our Synod by including it among our cherished institutions. See pages 61 and 63, Picture Gallery.

Hastings, D.D. The honorary degree of D.D. was conferred by Coe College. Dr. B's, long service as Synodical Missionary was eminently fruitful. He organized or helped organize over a hundred churches, and dedicated or helped dedicate 130 houses of worship. His preaching was in churches, schoolhouses, private houses, R. R. depots, passenger cars, freight cars, and under the trees. He was equally at home in building up new churches, strengthening the weak, caring for the self-sacrificing toilers. When failing strength necessitated his resignation, that was accepted with universal regret.

A brief and successful pastorate at Salem and Tranquility, (fit names for so sweet a spirit), and in his own house in Cedar Rapids, with the companion of his youth, he awaits the sunset call. G. p. 106.

Baird, Alexander K., D.D. B. in Scotland. Stu. Univ. Glasgow 56-7. Later in Univ. of Toronto, Can. Stu. in United Pres. Hall, Toronto, 59-61. Lic. 66. Ord. in 72, Pres. C. Rapids. Ser. Wyoming 73-6. Synod. Miss. in succession, of Iowa, South Dakota, Minnesota, New England, and Montana, for 19 years.

Meanwhile served Mt. Vernon 7 years and Glidden 2 years. Rec. degree of D.D. from Coe College in 86. This brings the record down to 1900. Here, ordinarily, we stop. But a restless subject will justify a few words more. With the persistence of a Scotsman, and the versatility of a Yankee, the Dr. is always waiting for something to turn up. And if the thing fails to turn up he turns it. New England was too slow to suit him, Iowa was too flat for his Scotch taste; but he is in love with the Mountains and the Mountaineers. In domestic relations highly favored. Of the first blessed union a son, Dr. Thomas Baird, and a daughter, Mrs. Fordham, remain to cherish sweet and hallowed memories. The second to Miss Jane Ash, of Mount Vernon, brings him to a delightful home among the people he longest served. Any other would be satisfied; but after climbing the Rockies for thirteen years of these two centuries he responds to the noise of battle and flies to his mountain work. It begins to look as if the man who for forty years has borne so many wayward people on his heart might find a Nebo up there and fail to come down to us. G. p. 71.

Baird, Phil C., Ph.D., D.D. Comes from United Pres. Church, Pres. of Keokuk. Presby. of Ft. Dodge, April 11, 1900. 1900-05, P. Fort Dodge. G. p. 107.

Beaman, Gamaliel C. Of revolutionary stock. His grand-father gave his life for the country that was yet to be. B. 1799. Became a Christian at the age of 24. Union C. 28. And. Sem., 31. Ord., 31, Pres. N. Y. Labored in hard fields in Ohio till 46. Came to Iowa. Org. Montrose, Croton, Dover, and other churches. Preached wherever he could find a hearing. He wrestled with the Mormon power at Nauvoo, and saw its down-fall. Later he fought the infidelity that followed. On the border line he endured the trials peculiar to the Civil War. At the battle of Athens confederate bullets whistled over his head.

These are jottings he made in his old age:

"By the grace of God, I have been able to preach over 4,000 sermons. Have organized or assisted in organization of 8 churches. Admitted by letter 116 members; on examination, 207. Attended 300 funerals. Married 227 couples. Fees $434." (Marrying was a cheap luxury in his day.)

As to the help he had, A single expression from his wife must do: "The new western home was a log cabin 16x18 fitly furnished. Entering with her husband, she looked smilingly around, and said, "Yes, I agree to live here one year without grumbling." In old age she wrote, "There is no part of our married life I look back upon with more pleasure than our first years in Iowa." Her maiden name was Eliazbeth Jacobs.

Mr. B. D. at Keosauqua, Oct. 26, 75. Age 76. Dr. Craig said at his funeral, "He was indeed one of the Soldiers of the Cross, and he had stood during his entire ministerial life on the high places of the field, and in the forefront of the battle." G. p. 69.

Bell, Launcelot G. This honored pioneer veteran, not a seminary graduate, left his Virginia home, coming with his own covered wagon all the way to Iowa, in 36. We find him connected with Burlington, Madison, Shiloh and Fairfield. His work was everywhere; and ended only with his life. B. in Va., 1789, soldier in War of 1812; Teacher, Ruling Elder. Lic. in 36. Gave to Iowa 32 years of diligent and successful service. He established two female seminaries; organized 28 churches, 3 Presbyteries and 1 Synod.

In his old age he twice revisited the western churches he had organized, involving a horseback journey of 700 miles.

In spring of 68 he visited Nebraska City, where he had organized his last church. Returning, he reached Afton, where he was to hold Communion. Was taken ill the night after his arrival, and said: "Brother Sipe, I have come to your house to die." And so from that loving home he passed to the house not made with hands, beloved and honored by the churches he had served, and a real Father Bell to his companions. D. in 68. Age. 79. G. p. 69.

Kan., Mo. Business. While in service he was active and self-sacrificing. A financial difference with Iowa City Ch. he tried to settle by capturing the bell. We let the Poet Laureate of the day tell the story; and we assure the reader that it contains quite as much truth as poetry.

HUMMER'S BELL.

In the Presbyterian church, pretty high up in the steeple,
Hung a loud-sounding bell, to call together all the people.
That bell was held in high esteem by all who knew its sound;
It rang so loud it could be heard for many miles around.

The minister who labored there did not exactly suit;
The people thought they'd let him slide, but he was rather cute.
He'd not get his salary for which they had agreed;
And he was bound to have it—and he knew he could succeed.

For he had formed a plan which to Margrave he did tell:
He would ascend that steeple and let down that handsome bell,
So he mounted a long ladder, and climbed through the steeple door,

And soon the bell came rushing down, and landed on the floor.

Then followed fast his trouble, for the ladder was taken away,
And he was up in the steeple, and there he had to stay.
And there he preached a sermon—far louder than before;
Some said he threatened vengeance, and others said he swore!

For Vanfleet had sent a wagon, and the bell was loaded in;
And the driver never reckoned he'd committed any sin.
He took the bell to a rapid stream, and sank it very deep,
And there for months the bell remained while Hummer was

In due time the bell was resurrected by a man who had turned Mormon; and was carried to Salt Lake City, where it did service on the private school house of the Mormon prophet.

The failure to get satisfaction left the church in silence, but filled the preacher with noisy wrath. Years later he said: "That bell, that bell! I yet shall ring that bell through heaven, earth, and hell." You see he was himself something of a poet. Leaving I. C. he was S. S. at Washington in 1848, finally deposed for a complication of errors, and died in Wyandotte, Kan. in 79.

Moral: Settle up with the minister.

OMAHA THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

Students' Room.

VANDERBURGH HOUSE.

FIRST HOME OF SEMINARY.

The Omaha Theological Seminary is located near the geographical center of the vast territory known as the "Louisiana Purchase." This territory is largely co-extensive with the Mississippi-Missouri valley, the most fertile soil on the American Continent. It is destined to support a very dense population not many years hence. Cities are springing up, various industries are being established, educational institutions are being developed, and States are rising into greatness.

GROUP OF STUDENTS AND PROFESSORS.

The Seminary was begun in 1891. With its usual foresight the Presbyterian church gave the enterprise its endorsement. The Assembly from the beginning has given approval, and devoted friends have come to its support. Thus at a distance of five hundred miles from the nearest of the older Seminaries a training school for the future ministry of the Church is being built up for promoting the influence of Presbyterianism in this vast area.

In 1871 our total membership was 455,378, and our benevolent contributions a little more than $2,000,000; in 1905 the Minutes show 1,115,662 communicants and above $5,000,000 benevolent contributions, while exclusive of those for German and colored students the Seminaries for training our ministry were in that year eight in number, in 1906 there are only seven, including Omaha, under control of the Assembly. From 1811 to 1871 for a membership of less than half a million, the church had established eight Theological Schools, while for the period since, and a membership increased to more than a million, we have added only one. There are not now as many Seminaries under the care of the Church, educating her ministry, as when her membership was less than one-half what it is at present.

The old Seminaries have in these years greatly advanced in capacity, but not in proportion as the country about them has grown, and they are reaching out into the west for students who, when they graduate, frequently settle in eastern fields. The output of the older Seminaries could be absorbed within a radius of two hundred miles of their locations. How then can the needs of this vast and growing region be adequately supplied with a ministry unless one be raised up within its own bounds? There must be a "home production" for "home consumption," and unless we rise to the golden opportunity of this Seminary, who can tell how far behind the march of progress our Church will be found within the next generation? A Theological Seminary properly controlled and well fostered is the most powerful agency a church can possess for the propagandæ of faith and order. If Presbyterianism is to be a potent influence in the west, it must become possessed of a strong institution of the kind that is being built at Omaha. Theological Schools wisely planted are an essential provision for the growth of the church. Any good school will always attract students from a distance, but the catalogues always show that the region immediately tributary furnishes the largest percentage of students, and it is there its influence is most felt. A professional school of any sort attracts men to the profession for which the school provides training. The presence of a Seminary in this region becomes a providential means for turning the attention of young men in the neighboring colleges and schools to the claims of the ministry. This truth is illustrated in that the larger per cent. of the students of Omaha is drawn from neighboring colleges. In this connection it should also be realized that more than a dozen Presbyterian colleges have grown up in the last generation nearer to Omaha than to any other Seminary of our Church. Omaha Seminary, though the youngest, is by no means least in the work it is actually doing. Its graduates are filling positions not only in the middle west, but also in the the far west, and in Foreign Mission fields. The Seminary is now beyond the experimental stage. It has struck its roots deeply, its trunk is growing more sturdy, its branches are spreading in all directions and its fruit is being gathered far and near.

The Seminary has an excellent site of five acres in a choice portion of Omaha, known as Kountze Place. Four years ago it erected an attractive building at a cost of $45,000. It is thoroughly modern and possessed of all appliances and conveniences which render it adapted to the needs. Since the recent gift of $50,000 from John H. Converse to endow the chair of "Homiletics and Pastoral Theology" the total property of the Seminary amounts to $150,000, all acquired in the last six years. The Seminary has completed fifteen years of its work, and is without debt. While the endowment is not sufficient to provide an income equal to current expense, the Seminary is encouraged to hope for better things. There is much to be accomplished before it shall be sufficiently endowed, but its friends believe it will become an even greater power for the cause of Presbyterianism and for the furtherance of the wider interests of the Kingdom.

"The Presbytery of Missouri River met at Sioux City April 29, 1869. During the afternoon Rev. T. H. Cleland, Jr., the Rev. J. C. Elliott and myself ascended a high bluff on the edge of the city. From the summit was visible portions of Iowa, Dakota and Nebraska. With our hearts full of the contemplated action of Presbytery to appoint a general missionary for the regions beyond, our conversation was also on that subject. We were overwhelmed by our emotions as the Holy Spirit opened our eyes to see somewhat the extent of the spiritual desolations, and falling upon our knees we gave expression to our emotions in strong words, crying for divine help, and strength, and self-denial, and consecration—for faith to believe that the all-conquering Cross would yet triumph over those desolations."—Dr. Sheldon Jackson, in an address before the Synod of Iowa, October, 1905, on "The Iowa Movement."

Plans are maturing for the erection of a monument to commemorate this Prayer Meeting.

"Little did those five devoted young men at Williams College realize what would spring out of the Hay-stack prayer meeting for the cause of Foreign Missions, and as little did we three men realize how great a territory we were then dedicating to our King.

My settlement at Council Bluffs as my first pastorate in August 16, 1866, for a period of sixteen years was entirely providential. I had nothing to do about it but to follow the cloudy pillar

It was on my 24th birthday that I was ordained by the Presbytery of Missouri river in 1867, and was that day made chairman of the Home Mission committee of the Presbytery of Missouri River, whose territory extended from Des Moines to Sacramento and from the Canadian border to Mexico.

I remonstrated at such a responsibility, but was overruled. From this time until the organization of the Synod of Nebraska my church was the out-fitting place for the western pioneer. So much of my time was taken for this work from my pastorate that I often had only the Saturday to prepare my morning sermon for my Council Bluffs congregation. I was founding and dedicating a church every other month in the year.

1. CHURCH AT COUNCIL BLUFFS.

At length came the meeting of the Presbytery, April 29 to May 1, 1868, at Sioux City, in the little plain white house of worship. The burden of our discussion and prayer was the opening of a vast territory westward by the completion of the Union Pacific railroad, and ways and means of obtaining money to send the missionary to these pioneer settlements. The Lord seemed to hear our prayer and sent us that devoted hero of Christ, Rev. Sheldon Jackson. His heart was full of missions and his faith gigantic. He told us he would storm the east and get us the funds the Domestic Board was refusing us.

So Rev. Sheldon Jackson, of Minnesota, and Rev. J. C. Elliot, of Nebraska City, Neb., joined me, a representative of Iowa, in a walk to Prospect Hill, talking by the way, and our hearts burning within us as we talked by the way, when we determined to seek Divine guidance and as we kneeled on that elevated point of land, looked toward Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and the far west, we dedicated ourselves to the task of possessing that fat land for Christ and our beloved Presbyterianism."

- T. H. CLELAND.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, WATERLOO.

The question of self support in Iowa Home Mission work was a momentous one. It was decided by Synod meeting in Waterloo, October 17th, 1902. The report recommending it was read by Rev. J. B. Donaldson, D. D. After discussion was ended the moderator, Rev. J. F. Hinckhouse, called on Rev. T. S. Bailey, D. D., for sixteen years Superintendent of Iowa Home Missions, to lead Synod in prayer. When the vote was made unanimous, Rev. J. C. McClintock, D. D., the Stated Clerk and first Treasurer of the Home Mission Fund, led Synod in singing "Onward Christian Soldiers."
