Call For Applications to AMEL’s Consultant Roster

AMEL is establishing a roster of vetted consultants qualified to provide short-term, remote technical assistance if programs require.

The roster will include selected pre-qualified external experts in the following areas of expertise:

- Monitoring and Evaluation
- Research and analysis on civil society and democratic transitions
- Mental health and well-being support
- Personal and professional coaching
- Translation (English to Sudanese Arabic and vice versa)
- Video-editing and/or video animation
- Customization of open source software such as OpenEdX and Ushahidi
- Development and backend management of online training websites and blog websites
- Training program development and delivery

Being included on this roster does not guarantee funding or a consultancy with AMEL, but it will increase chances of being contracted if AMEL programs require such expertise.

General Requirements

- Consultants are individuals who are not AMEL employees;
- Consultants are available to be engaged on an "as needed basis" to remotely perform specific tasks within a specified duration and deliverables;
- Consultants must be able to sign an agreement;
- Consultants are expected to have sound skills and knowledge in their area of expertise in order to deliver a high level performance.

Specific Requirements

- Proven experience and expertise in relevant technical areas;
- Proven speaking and writing ability in both English and Arabic;
- Ability to demonstrate quality of work through submission of past work samples in their area of expertise;
- Shared commitment to human rights values.

How to apply if interested

- Interested candidates are invited to apply by emailing team@amelproject.org with Consultant Roster in the subject line and attaching:
- CV/resume;
- Relevant samples of previous work which demonstrate your expertise;
- Daily or hourly rate.

This solicitation will remain open continually and only applicants invited for an interview will be contacted, no phone calls please.
