

Northamptonshire born Anya Liggins began her french horn studies in 2010 at the age of fifteen. She progressed through the Northamptonshire Music and Performing Arts Trust until 2013, when she continued her studies at the Royal Birmingham Conservatoire under the tutelage of Beth Randall, Simon deSouza and Mike Kidd.

Since moving to Birmingham, Anya has enjoyed the beginnings of a varied freelance career, seizing many musical opportunities, including playing with the City of Birmingham Symphony Orchestra Youth Orchestra, the Arabian Youth Orchestra, Jersey Symphony Orchestra and Amadeus Orchestra. Some notable concerts include; Mahler Symphony No.5 Obligato horn with Birmingham Conservatoire Symphony Orchestra; An Alpine Symphony with CBSO Youth Orchestra; Shostakovich

Symphony No.10 with Amadeus Symphony Orchestra; Brahms Symphony No.2 with Jersey Symphony Orchestra.

Anya plays regularly in chamber ensembles, including Mondelli Wind Quintet. She is also a committed teacher of the piano, french horn, trumpet and ukulele.

In her free time, Anya enjoys playing sports and travels frequently, with a strong passion for South America!
