

London-based international management consultant Jon Harris joins Pennine as Non-Executive Director

CALGARY, Canada (April 9, 2018)—Jon Harris, a London-based project management veteran with extensive experience in the natural resources sector, has joined Pennine Petroleum Corporation (TSX-Venture: PNN) (“Pennine” or the “Corporation”), effective immediately, as a Non-Executive Director.

Mr. Harris has served as a Non-Executive Director for several AIM- and TSX-listed companies, including Bankers Petroleum Ltd., which pioneered Albania’s Patos-Marinza heavy oil fields, from 2004 through 2016. He also has experience in leading two AIM listings for clients in the past decade.

As a consultant, Mr. Harris has successfully led a series of projects for clients involved in early-stage mineral exploration in French-speaking West Africa—including gold- and bauxite-focused drilling programs and due diligence assessments in Cameroon, Burkina Faso, Guinea and Zimbabwe.

“Jon will provide us with excellent guidance as we move forward with our extraction and production plans in Eastern Europe,” says N. Desmond Smith, Chief Executive Officer of Pennine.

“Jon has more than 30 years’ international management experience, and he’s got a proven knack of shepherding projects from concept through to launch, thanks to his expertise in project management, process engineering and business analysis,” adds Mr. Smith.

Mr. Harris has both United Kingdom and Zimbabwean citizenship. He holds a Master of Business Administration (MBA) degree from the London Business School, a Bachelor of Science degree in Chemical Engineering from South Africa’s University of Natal, and a Financial Times Non-Executive Director (NED) Diploma.

In late November 2017, following final approval from Albania’s newly formed Council of Ministers, Pennine finalized a Production Sharing Agreement (PSA) for the Velca Block as part of a joint venture with Albpetrol Sh.A, Albania’s national oil company.
