

It's Just The End Of The World

Somebody's being born somebody's dying
Somebody made the stars without even trying
You may be falling but you feel like you flying
It's alright

We're all related by the same old mistakes
Trying to push against these tectonics plates
Making smalltalk while the skyscraper shakes
It's alright, it's just the end of the world

Lock them fire doors on your way in
Drain the swamp and let's go for a swim
Talk of kindness just like it's a sin
It's alright

Baby boomer thinks he's had the last laugh
He's looking good but it's an old photography
Now we're all trying to find that ginger bread path
It's alright, it's just the end of the world

My sky has turned to concrete
My heart has turned to lead
Cause I've got the ghost of you
Sleeping in my bed

Everybody needs a voodoo doll
Everybody wants to build a wall
Tear down the whole house for the hell of it all
It's alright

Somebody's being born somebody's dying
Somebody made the stars without even trying
You may be falling but you feel like you flying
It's alright, it's just the end of the world

It's just the end of the world
It's just the end of the world
It's just the end of the world
It's just the end of the world