

If You Change Your Mind

Now the sun is on the river
And there's people passing by
I can see my reflection
So clear against the sky
I don't know any better
Than to play a hand that's blind
You know where to find me
If you change your mind

Oh it takes a lot of living
To find out who you really are
It's the lie we tell our own heart
That leaves the deepest scar
Wherever your heart takes you
I hope the road you're on is kind
You know where to find me
If you change your mind

Well the world keeps spinning round
And heartache lingers on
I'm hanging by a thread
Every time I hear that song

If somebody ever knew me
Well I guess that it was you
We just saw the future
from a different point of view
Like those waters winding down stream
Life don't follow a straight line
You know where to find me
If you change your mind

Gonna watch that sun go down
See those shadows grow
What will be will be
That's the only thing I know

Well the clock stopped at 11
On the day that you walked out
Even since I've been a prisoner
Between the bars of hope and doubt
How I miss the warmth of your touch
And those eye's that used to shine
You know where to find me
If you change your mind
