The International Institute of Akron has entered a partnership with Testa Companies, the city of Akron, and the Ohio Housing Finance Agency to provide housing for a large number of refugees.

Testa Companies will build 40 townhomes in North Hill near St. Thomas Hospital and the International Institute of Akron.

The International House will include a community building, a management office, and shared laundry.

Refugee clients of IIA will receive first priority for the housing, but other community members will have the opportunity to live there as well.
