

EXPEDIA CARES VIDEO TRANSCRIPT

(Read by VO)

Why do we travel?

To see the stunning wonders of the world?

To walk in the footsteps of history?

To celebrate the endless diversity of places and people on our planet?

At Expedia, we see travel as all of these—and more

At its best, travel is an act of purposeful humanity: A journey to unfamiliar places to discover, understand, and connect with people and cultures different from our own.

A journey of discovery that changes us. And, over time, changes the world we live in.

Travel can – and should be – a global force for social good. Lifting economies. Improving lives. And building human bonds that bring the world closer together, one experience at a time.

That's why Expedia Cares is aligning its corporate social responsibility efforts with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals, ranging from Clean Water and Sanitation, to Quality Education, to Gender Equality.

(Read by Mark Okerstrom, President and Chief Executive, Expedia Group)

At Expedia, we love travel. It's not just what we do, it's who we are as a company. And when you're out there seeing the beauty of the world, you can't help but see the needs.

Today, more than ever, it's important for us to take action. We need to be a force for change, to create a more compassionate, peaceful, and just planet.

And that's why we're aligning our giving with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals which all together create enormous impact.

Climate action is about more than just the weather. It's about clean water and learning about proper sanitation practices. It's even about gender equality, and access to quality education, and job security.

Assistance for refugees means more than just resettlement – it means making people feel safe and welcome in their new country, and assuring that they've got the same opportunities to build a quality of life as everyone else.

When we talk about sustainable cities and communities, it's also about preserving the culture and heritage and history of these incredible sites. While the same time, preserving access to safe and affordable housing, basic services, and clean air.

We see it as our responsibility as a leading, global travel technology company.

It's why we exist. And it's why Expedia cares.