About AMCOMP

The American Society of Workers Comp Professionals, Inc., (AMCOMP) is a not-for-profit Corporation dedicated to professional excellence in the field of workers compensation and employers liability. AMCOMP was established due to the lack of a professional society that recognized or certified the highly specialized field of workers compensation. AMCOMP was formed to certify industry professionals and to raise the professional standards of practice in the field.

To help ensure appropriate representation and viewpoints in the field of workers compensation and employers liability, the Board of Directors includes leading distinguished professionals. The AMCOMP Board of Directors acts as an insurance information resource for issues that arise and affect the industry.

AMCOMP's Principal Objectives

- ★ 1. To maintain the integrity and degree of excellence in the field of workers compensation by providing a professional designation (upon fulfillment of various criteria, including successful completion of a core curriculum) that will serve as an industry standard;
- ★ 2. To further the education of all workers comp and employers liability professionals by providing relevant courses in the field of study and in related disciplines;
- ★ 3. To maintain a current understanding of emerging trends and issues in the workplace and how they relate to the field of workers compensation and employers liability by means of newsletters, annual meetings, monographs/digests, conferences and/or relevant seminars; and
- ★ 4. To further ethical standards in the field of workers compensation and employers liability by establishing uniform guidelines and principles.

What is a WCP?

AMCOMP's education program, certified Workers Compensation Professional (WCP) was developed to help raise the professional standards in the field of workers compensation and employers liability. Each of us is able to detail the need to improve the industry in our own business histories, almost always concluding that a common body of knowledge and measurement would benefit all participants in the field: insurers, reinsurers, insureds, self-insureds, regulators, agents, brokers and most importantly, claimants. The AMCOMP certification program is intended to develop a basic foundation of knowledge of the various aspects of the industry so that individuals who have completed the program will have a better understanding and appreciation of how the various pieces (e.g. claims, risk management, pricing, etc.) work together in order to make the greater whole.

Benefits of Membership

AMCOMP Magazine: Each individual member and designated corporate member receives a copy of AMCOMP Views - AMCOMP's magazine featuring Association news, newly designated WCP professionals, current articles that focus on issues directly related to the workers compensation and employers liability industry and upcoming conferences/seminars and events.

Discounts to Conferences & Seminars: While AMCOMP conferences and seminars are open to members and non-members alike, members in good standing are eligible to attend at a member discounted registration fee.

Eligibility for WCP Certification Program: AMCOMP members in good standing are eligible to enroll in AMCOMP's certified Workers Compensation Professional education program which enables them to earn the distinguished WCP designation.

Association Published Monographs/Digests: AMCOMP members in good standing receive "free of charge" a copy of each monograph and digest published by the Association. These unique publications are an in-depth study of issues that have a direct effect on the workers comp industry. Topics include: A Look At Arising Out Of And In The Course of Employment; Workers Compensation & Employer Liability Insurance Policy; Medical Cost Containment Strategies; Exclusive Remedy in Today's World, Employers vs. Independent Contractors, amongst others.

AMCOMP Member Directory & Product/Services Resource Guide:

All members in good standing receive a copy of this comprehensive publication which gives members a convenient, up-to-date resource for contacting other members, and highlights each member's products/services.

Networking Opportunities:

AMCOMP's conferences and seminars allow attendees to interact with other industry professionals. Participation in AMCOMP programs offers the opportunity to establish new business contacts while sharing experiences on the latest industry trends and issues.

Corporate Partnerships: Corporate partnership opportunities allow companies to publicly recognize their organization's commitment to support and endorse the highest professional standards in the workers compensation industry.
