RE: Recent Kentucky 6th CD Survey

Our September 30-October 2 tracking survey among 501 likely Kentucky 6th CD voters (landline and cell interviews), which has a margin of error of  $\pm 4.5\%$ , shows Amy McGrath has strongly rebounded to take the lead after a slew of negative Barr/IE ads against her caused a dip during the summer.

Our current survey shows Amy with a 7-point advantage in the trial heat, with a 51% majority of 6th CD voters supporting her (the 51% support for Amy is an important figure since "undecided" voters RARELY shift to the incumbent):

Initial Trial Heat for Congress

There are two other critical survey results that indicate the GOP/Barr attacks on Amy over the summer, which again caused temporary erosion, have ultimately been ineffective with Amy now being in an EVEN stronger position:

In summary, with the election nearly a month away, Amy McGrath has successfully withstood an unprecedented barrage of negative ads with her unique response that reinforces her independence and willingness to bring real change to Washington.
