

WORKING SELECTED GEOGRAPHICAL LIST OF SCULPTURES BY DANIEL CHESTER FRENCH

Prefatory Remarks

1. Although the ultimate aim is to list by location all the works by Daniel Chester French that are in public collections, the present list does not pretend to be exhaustive; hence the inclusion of the word selected.
2. The following works have been deliberately omitted:
 - (a) sculptures in the Chesterwood collection whether in bronze, marble, or plaster
 - (b) outdoor pieces which are small and vulnerable, particularly those in smaller cemeteries
3. Unintentional omissions are due to various factors: for example, several museums own a few works by French and may well own more than our current records indicate; additional research could have revealed, and will doubtlessly reveal, more locations; there are more than four hundred titles by French, and the exact number is as yet not fixed; occasionally, museums acquire, for their permanent collections, works that have hitherto been in the private sector.
4. Several outdoor works are no longer in their original locations; their current locations only are noted on the present list. There is always the possibility that more works may have been moved without our knowledge.
5. The present geographical list is limited to the following information for each entry: state or country, city, specific location, title, medium, form, and inclusive dates. Not included are detailed locations; the clay date; one or more additional concise statements on, for example, size, original location, names of collaborators and architects, significance, subject, architectural context, and cross references; and reference to that which is in the Chesterwood collection that pertains to the entry (e.g., archival photographs, a plaster sketch, a bronze replica, etc.). Such a list will be comprehensive and will equip visitors with basic answers to basic questions. It will be entered on a computer program and will serve the museum as a master list as well as a working list for any future lists, be they alphabetical, chronological, or geographical.
6. Art museums display at any given time only a small percentage of their collections. Therefore, one ought not to expect that one will always be able to view pieces by French that are in museum collections.
7. Several works by French are located within the various buildings of colleges and universities and schools and other organizations. Visitors may indeed be welcome, but there is the possibility that the library or conference room or office, etc., in which the sculpture is displayed, may not be open to the public at all times. An appointment may be necessary, if in fact possible. In at least two instances (see Austin, Texas and Philadelphia, Pennsylvania), an appointment is definitely required in order to enter the school property and the club, respectively.
8. All titles are in italics; those that are solely in uppercase refer to the final work, whereas those in both uppercase and lowercase refer to preparatory or derivative works of the same title.
9. An asterisk (*) indicates sculpture known to have been worked on at Chesterwood.
