This gravel pit, founded in 1906 by John Delano Grant, was the first company in the state to market graded gravel. John D. Grant, born in 1872, was the son of John Doty Grant, California and Healdsburg pioneer, and Anita Fitch Grant, daughter of the original grant owner, Captain Henry Delano Fitch. Having started the pit in Healdsburg in 1906, J.D. Grant started gravel companies in Alameda in 1908, and one in Fresno in 1914. In 1909 he was awarded the biggest gravel contract ever let: 150,000 tons to San Joaquin County. J.D. Grant was also the first person to take steps toward utilization of the hydrothermal potential of Sonoma County Geysers area in 1919, was on the executive boards of several businesses. Grant sold the gravel pit to Basalt Rock Company in 1931, the current operators.
