7b. Briefly describe the present physical description of the site or structure and describe any major alterations from its original condition:

This two-story house has a hip roof with two front gables and two-story gabled bays, one in front and one on the side. The house has a boxed cornice with sawn brackets. The closed gables have slanted shelves, small windows with colored panes, and cut shingles. The gables are filled in with boards laid in a chevron pattern. Windows are double-hung with sill blocks and some have bracketed awnings of cut shingles. The front bay is slanted on the bottom and square above. The front porch wraps one corner and has turned posts and straight brackets. The siding is channel rustic. In the rear is a one-story addition.

SIGNIFICANCE
19. Briefly state historical and/or architectural importance (include dates, events, and persons associated with the site.)

Originally part of the William Goddard ranch, this structure was probably built by William Goddard’s son, Wellman, circa 1890. William Goddard settled on this ranch in 1853 and by 1877 the property belonged to his widow, Jane Goddard. Wellman Goddard’s daughter, Evelyn, married Roy Sizle in 1916, and inherited the ranch.

This residence has an unusually large scale for its type. It also retains some unusual features such as a slanted bay underneath a square bay.
