

Sumiye (Sue) Okubo is a board member of the National Japanese American Memorial Foundation and a board member and a founding member of the Asian American Government Executives Network (AAGEN). She was a member of the Federal Executive Service, with 30 years of public service, working successively for the Institute for Defense Analyses, National Science Foundation, National Intelligence Council, and the Bureau of Economic Analysis, and joined Booz, Allen, Hamilton after retiring from Federal service. She received a Ph.D. in economics from Tulane University. She currently resides in Durham, North Carolina.