

MCCARLEY INTERNATIONAL

Anthony McCarley has held many titles throughout his lifetime, including senior executive at a global corporation, CEO of a successful startup, international public speaker, and Triple Crown Marathon swimmer. His experience in both the business world and the competitive athletic arena have culminated in his outstanding success as a business coach and expert advisor at McCarley International.

McCarley International recognizes that every client and every scenario is unique. We use a customized approach by focusing on desired outcomes and creating a formula designed to achieve your specific goals.

MISSION:

To guide business owners, executives, and organizations who are driven to truly accomplish great things. McCarley International specializes in working with companies experiencing significant change and transition – whether by design or circumstance.

Anthony McCarley's corporate achievements include leadership roles within two Global 100 companies as well as two successful startups. His strategic execution of deals between corporations, implementation of multiple corporate pivots, and securing a strong exit for his shareholders are just a few of the experiences that make him valuable to you and your business.

In his personal pursuits, Anthony adds to his many swimming achievements the title of Triple Crown Marathon swimmer, a feat defined by crossing the English Channel, circumnavigating Manhattan, and crossing the Catalina Channel in California. The level of commitment required to complete all three in one year is the same level of commitment he will devote to you and your business.
