MIAMI-DADE, UBER & LYFT

Collaboration to provide the first-last mile trips, Miami, FL

Launched in mid-August, 2016 (limited time)

Miami-Dade County’s Department of Transportation and Public Works (DTPW) has teamed with Uber and Lyft to provide affordable and reliable rides to and from Metrorail stops. Miami-Dade residents can now ride uberPOOL to and from any Metrorail stop for just $3 any time that the train is in service. Uber will also help distribute free Miami-Dade Transit cards, EASY cards that are pre-loaded with a 7-Day Pass (a $29.25 value). For Lyft, new passengers can use a promo code to get $5 off each of their first ten Lyft rides.

MORE

ABILITIES-RIDE: PARATRANSIT PPP

Exciting PPP between TNCs and WMATA, Washington, DC

Anticipated to launch on March 1st, 2017 (pilot program)

The Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA) is moving forward with plans of introducing Abilities-Ride as an alternative to current paratransit service, MetroAccess. According to documents from the board meeting, Abilities-Ride will use TNCs such as Lyft and Uber, for which up to $15 per trip will be subsidized by WMATA. In the first full year of the program, there potentially could be savings up to $6M.

MORE
Google Maps adds Lyft and Gett
(Photo by Google)

Bridj launches delivery service, BridjBOX
(Photo by Bridj)

Ford acquired Chariot microtransit
(Photo by SF Examiner)

WageWorks commuter benefits for Uber
(Photo by WageWorks)

Uber rolls out monthly passes in six cities
(Photo by Uber)

Google launches Waze Carpool in Bay Area
(Photo by Waze)

Uber teams with AT&T for college football
(Photo by Uber)

Zipcar & Yakima partner to provide carrier
(Photo by Gear Institute)

Zipcar reached 1M members
(Photo by Zipcar)

September 12th, 2016