

The Connection Between Tardive Dyskinesia & Mental Health

Some medicines that treat mental illness can cause tardive dyskinesia, a movement disorder.

TD may cause involuntary:

lip smacking

rapid blinking

grimacing

jerky movements

At least 500,000 people have tardive dyskinesia.

TD can further stigmatize people with mental illness.

New treatments for tardive dyskinesia can reduce its symptoms and the stigma.

That's why patients need access.
