

Movement Disorders and Mental Illness

Movement disorders cause motor symptoms that are easy to see.

Tremor

Impaired
Speech

Shoulder
Shrugging

Balance
Problems

Many people with movement disorders also experience mental health conditions that aren't as obvious.

More than half of people with Parkinson's disease will experience psychosis.¹

People with Huntington's disease frequently suffer from:
mania, psychosis and obsessive-compulsive disorder.

People with movement disorders deserve access to treatment for all symptoms—both visible and invisible.
