The success and retention of independent businesses are vital for New Orleans’ economic future, as well as its sense of community, character and place. Executive Summary

• A majority of all business respondents are reporting growth.
• A majority of independent businesses reported their most significant challenge was the cost of health insurance benefits.
• Competition from large, internet-based competitors remains a significant challenge for a majority of retailers.

Independent Businesses in New Orleans

The contributions of independent businesses to a robust economy have been proven time and time again. They create more jobs, dollars, and opportunities than non-local businesses. In fact, money spent at independent businesses has as much as three times the economic impact that money spent at a national chain does.

Further, independent businesses are owned by our friends and neighbors who are emotionally and financially invested in our city. New Orleans businesses give our city the authentic flavor that draws people here to live, work, eat, and shop.

Throughout this report, we periodically feature the retail sector's responses to the survey questions for two main reasons. First, retailers are an intrinsic part of our urban fabric and help shape the character of the neighborhood they inhabit. Second, they are on the front lines of economic shifts, most notably the growth of online consumerism. We note where their experience diverges from overall business respondents and call for specific policy recommendations to strengthen our commercial corridors.

Public Awareness Change Over Past Year

CONCLUSION

New Orleans’ businesses continued to report steady growth in 2017. Many of their top challenges remained consistent over the past four years, including the growth of internet-based competitors, continued competition against brick-and-mortar chains, the high cost of health insurance, and affordability of marketing.

These issues highlight the importance of StayLocal’s ongoing advocacy. We encourage businesses and residents to shop, source, and support local so New Orleans can keep our dollars, talent, and opportunities in our city.

A majority of independent businesses support more vigorously enforced antitrust laws and a cap on the value of economic tax breaks awarded to publicly traded companies. Their stances on these policy issues shed light on the threat of Amazon’s monopoly power and on the disproportionate investment in attracting competitor chains to New Orleans. StayLocal works to retain our independent businesses, level the playing field, monitor the well-being of our local economy, and provide targeted support.

StayLocal remains a fervent advocate for the best interests of local business in Greater New Orleans. This report presents ways to improve New Orleans’ independent business climate. Specifically:

- Equip retailers with the tools and knowledge to help them compete more effectively as competition from online retailers intensifies.
- Pass state level legislation in Louisiana to raise the minimum wage above $7.25.
- Build upon our previous “Local First” campaigns to promote businesses, economic corridors, and markets across the area.
- Examine financing disparities that prevent independent businesses from equitably accessing capital required to grow and sustain operations.

StayLocal performs this survey on an annual basis in order to track changes and continually evaluate how to foster an environment in which our city’s independent businesses can thrive.
BACKGROUND ON THE SURVEY

Throughout April of 2018, StayLocal asked local independent businesses to participate in an annual survey. This report grew out of the nation-wide survey facilitated by the Institute for Local Self-Reliance (ILSR), who previously provided StayLocal with local and national results in years past. This year and last, StayLocal conducted the survey independently. This “2018 New Orleans Independent Business Trends” report was published in August 2018 and is based on data gathered from 100 independent businesses in the Greater New Orleans area. The intent of this study is to highlight current concerns and conditions expressed by members of Greater New Orleans’ independent business community, and to provide policy recommendations based on their feedback.
