Quarterly Update, August 14, 2019

Heirs property is the hidden story behind blight and generational poverty throughout Georgia. In 2017, USDA Forest Service and UGA Carl Vinson researchers identified probable heirs property in 10 non-metro Georgia counties with a total tax appraised value of over two billion dollars ($2,148,951,361), equity that can’t be used. If heirs property in 10 counties represents over $2 billion in locked equity, the total tax appraised value of probable heirs property undermining Georgia’s economy is over $34 billion.

The Georgia Heirs Property Law Center, Inc. (“the Center”) increases generational wealth, social justice, and community stability by securing and preserving property rights. Since 2015, the Center has provided legal representation and closed 330 matters. The Center has conducted 8 wills clinics and completed 148 estate plans for clients. The Center has completed 307 community outreach programs, trainings and stakeholder meetings in 45 counties and provided information and educational materials to over 10,500 individuals. Today, the Center has 141 open title clearing and estate planning matters involving properties in 46 counties with a total tax assessed value of $12.44 million.

The Center’s average client is 65 years old, has an annual household income of $29,035, and has property with a tax assessed value of $90,004.00.

Client Stories:
Mr. and Mrs. Carole* had promised their home to Tim,* one of their 7 children; however, neither conveyed the home to Tim nor had last wills and testaments. The Center represented Tim and were able to obtain unanimous consent from all heirs, file the petitions in the Probate Court, and file orders, one from each parent’s estate, in the land records in Ben Hill County. During this process, a title search of the home, showed that although Tim’s parents had purchased it at a tax sale in the 1980s, they did not have marketable title. The Center is working to foreclose the right of redemption and quite title in order to obtain marketable title for Tim.

Mrs. Zimmerman* purchased a family home with her husband in Clayton County as joint tenants with rights of survivorship. Subsequently, during a refinance, they titled the home solely in Mrs. Zimmerman’s husband’s name. Five months before the maturity of the mortgage, Mr. Zimmerman passed away without a will. Mrs. Zimmerman assumed she was the sole owner of the home since Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman had no children together; however, she discovered that she actually owned the home with her four stepchildren when the mortgage company stopped communicating with her. With the Center’s legal help, Mrs. Zimmerman obtained appointment as temporary administrator of her husband’s estate so that the mortgage servicer would communicate with her and, through a petition for a year’s support, secured title to the home, which she was able to pay off and sell for $120,000, and has reimbursed the Center for expenses incurred during her representation.

Heirs Property is the hidden story behind blight and generational poverty in Georgia.

Heirs property refers to a home or land that passes from generation to generation without a legally designated owner resulting in ownership divided among all living descendants in a family. This unstable form of ownership limits a family’s ability to build generational wealth and hampers the efforts of nonprofits and cities to revitalize neighborhoods.
