Can I employ a skilled migrant?

Assistance is available for Regional employers who wish to sponsor overseas skilled people to fill vacant positions within their business. To be eligible the following conditions must be met:

- The employer is willing to sponsor the applicant to come to the region
- The employer has been unsuccessful in their attempts to fill the position using the local labour market
- The position is full-time and requires at least diploma/trade level qualifications
- The terms and conditions of employment are in line with the Market Salary Rate

Regional Development Australia (RDA) Riverina can assist you with this process as the Regional Certifying Body for the Riverina region (encompassing the 15 LGA’s of Bland, Carrathool, Hay, Cootamundra, Junee, Griffith, Leeton, Murrumbidgee, Narrandera, Temora, Wagga Wagga, Tumut, Gundagai, Lockhart and Coolamon).

What sponsorship options do I have?

There are two alternatives for regional employer sponsorship:

- Regional Sponsored Migration Scheme (RSMS) visa – This requires a commitment of at least 2 years by the employer and employee. The skilled migrant is given permanent residence status in Australia and is free to leave the employment after two years without losing their residence status.
- Temporary Business Long Stay (457) visa – This is available for a contract employment period of 1 month to 4 years. The skilled migrant is given temporary residence status in Australia for the duration of the employment contract. Employers can continue sponsoring the skilled migrant by submitting a new 457 or RSMS application.

Another option is to recruit a skilled migrant who has been sponsored by RDA Riverina. RDA Riverina sponsors applicants who possess the skills which are in demand in the region. The skilled migrant is granted the Skilled Regional Nominated or Sponsored (Provisional) (Subclass) 489 visa which gives the holder temporary residence status for up to 4 years. This option does not set conditions other than the usual obligations of an employer.
