FARM TO PANTRY
GROWING OUR IMPACT

2022 IMPACT REPORT
MISSION
To bring together our communities to end food injustice and reverse global warming by rescuing and sharing locally-grown food with those who have been systematically marginalized.

VISION
For a just food system in which everyone has access to healthy food that honors and nourishes our community and heals the planet through eliminating food waste.
A letter from our Executive Director

Dear Farm to Pantry Family and Supporters,

In 2022, I found myself letting go of the idea that life would go back to “normal” post-pandemic. Our team dug into the root causes of an inequitable food system and how we can make more lasting change and focus on prevention, rather than continuing to act as a bandaid for an un-healing wound.

We know that access to land is a major barrier in Sonoma County. A place to grow your own food is not easily accessible to everyone, so we launched four community gardens with our partner Farm to Fight Hunger at the helm. The gardens provide food, and more than that, they provide a connection to the land and to our earth and create a true community working together to grow and eat real and unprocessed food.

Fruits and vegetables provide vitamins and minerals. Risk of heart disease, diabetes, cancer, dementia and Alzheimer’s is influenced by what we eat. The World Health Organization says 3.9 million deaths a year worldwide are attributable to people not eating enough fruits and vegetables. We are here to go get every bit of good food out there, ensure none of it goes to waste and get it to where it is needed most.

Last year, we had a bit of trepidation thinking we might not be able to sustain, let alone increase our current pace. Our lack of faith was fleeting, however, and we ended up breaking all our previous gleaning records! It took us a decade to glean a million servings, but with a robust team and a generous community, we have managed to glean over a millions servings EACH YEAR for the past 3 years. We harvested and shared 1.6 million servings of fruits and vegetables with our marginalized community in 2022. We did this with 500 volunteers on 300 farms and backyards on over 1,000 gleans! That is averaging 20 gleans a week, every week of the year! This is possible BECAUSE OF ALL OF YOU!

Now, is not the time for us to ease-up, though. COVID-induced increases of SNAP and health benefits are expiring, and we are witnessing something being described as a “Hunger Cliff.” A family of four will now only receive somewhere between $23-$281 a month. This shrinking benefit is occurring right when food costs and inflation are up more than 13%. The U.S. is rolling back to pre-pandemic conditions when we now have 15% more Americans enrolled in government assistance than we did in 2019, that is 35.7 million Americans. At the same time, unemployment is at its lowest since 1969. The reality is that it’s about failure of wages to keep up with expenses. Currently, 1 in 5 Sonoma County residents does not know where their next meal is coming from and is struggling to feed their families. We can all be a part of the solution. Our planet has enough food to feed us. It is about moving the resources. Enter: Farm to Pantry. We are here to be the bridge between abundance and need, making sure everyone has access to the amazing produce that is grown here.

In 1966, the Black Panthers launched their first program of free breakfast for students. They understood then that for students to have the clarity to learn and retain knowledge, they needed nutritious food first. They asked the community what they needed and heard, “Our children are hungry. We can’t free ourselves until we feed ourselves.” The Farm to Pantry family is out in the community every day, picking, delivering, listening. We also understand the looming hurdles our marginalized neighbors tackle in the midst of hunger. We engage and “use” food to build trust with our recipients so we can connect them to additional services (housing, mental health care, language assistance and more) through our partners. This is how we build long-term solutions.

Farm to Pantry is small, but we think BIG. We are mighty and incredibly nimble. You give us power to do this.

“Farm to Pantry...donations give us...exquisite produce through which students learn to prepare and cook their own meals. Without Farm to Pantry, our program would not be a success!”

- Elizabeth Sebastiani, Adele Middle School
BRANCHES OF SERVICE

Farm to Pantry is built to glean and we tackle that and so much more. Because we are a community connector, working with so many nonprofit partners, our impact and reach gets amplified. Here is some of what we are up to:

GLEANING
Harvesting produce 5-7 days a week in backyards, orchards and farms. We always aim to leave the property tidier than we found it. The rescued produce is shared with marginalized populations across the County.

MARKET-TO-PANTRY
Our volunteers collect unsold produce from generous farmers at the end of four farmers’ markets around the County, and then distribute to low-income housing communities—we bring them their own private farmers’ market for free!

TEAM GLEAN
We curate a personalized glean experience for business groups, corporations and schools. It’s an impactful team-building experience that “gives back” to the community in a meaningful way.

GROWING THE TABLE
This program is a game-changer for our ailing food system. It helps to shift demand in the food supply chain towards a regenerative future and ensures greater equity in the new economy. In short, Farm to Pantry pays market prices to small eco-friendly farms to grow organic produce for those facing food insecurity. We deliver food boxes (with recipes for their ingredients in English and Spanish) to low-income housing units and other distributions around the County. The program currently benefits over 80 farmers struggling to keep their farms and provides 300 FEED Bins a week to food-insecure families. It’s all about equitable food access and keeping the food supply within Sonoma County.

GROW-A-ROW
To ensure a steady supply of produce for those in need, we launched the Grow-A-Row Program. We provide seeds, compost, starts and nursery discounts to encourage locals to grow more food, with the promise that some of the harvest will be donated to Farm to Pantry for distribution to marginalized neighbors. We have partnered with Farm to Fight Hunger, Corazon and Petaluma Grapevine to expand this program to include supporting community gardens to give access to all to grow their own food. We currently are involved in 4 community gardens: Jardin de Brillo, Jardin del Pueblo, Comstock Middle School and L&M Village Garden.
FARM-ACY CARTS
A cart one of our esteemed volunteers (Steve Pogue) built for his daughter’s wedding was the first seed planted that bloomed into our “Farm-acy” Cart displays. We started with tables at community medical clinics, but the cart gave it a more respectable food-sharing experience, less cafeteria-like in presentation. We now have carts stationed at the Senior Center in Healdsburg, Catholic Charities, Healdsburg Hospital and are working on many more for Cloverdale, Sonoma and Santa Rosa. Patients are welcome to take this top-quality market produce home to feed their families after a doctor’s visit. We delivered over 1 ton of produce to Alliance in just one season! It certainly makes a trip to the doctor more “fruitful.” We think it’s better than a lollipop or a post-visit sticker!

OPERATION CHRISTMAS TREE
During the holiday season, we team up with other local organizations to create a holiday wonderland. This is a place where struggling families can make a reservation to come enjoy hot cocoa, sweet treats, pick out a tree and go home with a stand, lights, ornaments and a box of beautiful produce—ALL for free! It is a collective way to contribute abundantly to the holiday and community spirit in Sonoma County—a spirit that is contagious and truly exemplifies the real meaning of Christmas, for those who celebrate it.

FOOD PRESERVATION PRODUCTS
Because we deal with extremely perishable foods, during the peak of harvest, there are times where we have an overabundance of produce without a place to land. So we got creative upcycling what would have spoiled and gone to waste. We sought out partners like Manzana in Graton to turn surplus apples into applesauce for the Redwood Empire Food Bank and developed a hard cider with Golden State Cider. We harvested olives and with Dry Creek Olive Co. made “No One Left Behind Olive Oil,” which showcases the artwork of local students on its label. We also make jewelery with dried fruit. We make sure NOTHING GOES TO WASTE!

DISASTER RELIEF
We show up for fire, pandemic and flood relief efforts, working with local restaurants and chefs to provide ingredients for prepared meals for homebound seniors or sick patients.

Guy Fieri shares all the excess from his two shows filmed in Sonoma County: Guy's Grocery Games and Tournament of Champions.

PROGRAMMING IN THE FUTURE:
We are launching a Farm-to-Snack Educational Program and seeking to break down barriers to get our local farmers connected with school districts to feed our children healthy snacks and lunches. Stay tuned!
F2P executed two special Hunger Relief Campaigns in 2022. Yes, we are a nonprofit with funding needs of our own, but when we see hunger desperation in areas outside of our jurisdiction, we can’t help but want to pitch-in. Our Farm to Pantry family has proven time and time again that they feel the same way.

BUFFALO CAMPAIGN
We sent a little over $7,000 to “Buffalo Go Green.” The “food apartheid” conditions which exist in Western New York were profoundly exacerbated after the mass shooting in Buffalo. Buffalo Go Green’s mission closely aligns with ours, and their relief efforts responded to the needs of that community. They were extremely surprised and grateful, and they continue to provide an oasis of fresh produce and food security to the underserved populations in the Buffalo region.

UKRAINE CAMPAIGN
Like many of you, we were watching, in horror, the atrocities taking place in Ukraine. We were spurred to action, too enraged to be helpless. Through Duskie’s relationship with Chef Jose Andres, we connected with “World Central Kitchen.” Within minutes of putting the word out to you all, donations started pouring in. We know some of you have personal connections with Ukraine, and many felt moved to action. There was a tiny bit of relief to be able to help in some way. Together, we raised over $15,000! We were so proud to write that check to World Central Kitchen. Thank you all for your compassion and for rising to the occasion to provide the gift of a nourishing meal in a time of great upheaval.

IN SUPPORT OF LGBTQ+
In answer to the tragic Colorado Springs mass shooting in November 2022, Farm to Pantry board and staff members chose to give personally to organizations that support the LGTBQ+ communities. As an organization, we condemn all forms of hate and violence and believe food justice is part of the continuum of justice, equity, diversity and inclusion. Farm to Pantry is committed to cross the boundaries of race and privilege and to act with vigor in support of excluded people and underserved communities. We seek to be leaders in mending and healing our communities. We offered the following list of resources to those looking for ways to help the victims and families of the Club Q shooting, financially and otherwise:

In Colorado
- Pride Center for Colorado Springs
- Colorado Healing Fund, (part of Colorado Gives)
- Victims of Club Q Colorado Springs Mass Shooting

In Sonoma County
- LGBTQ Connection - Napa/Sonoma
- SOS Community Counseling
- SAY (Social Advocates for Youth)
- Positive Images

In a country that is still largely divided, we endeavor to bring our local community together as farmers, landowners and volunteers to ensure access to healthy, fresh food for all. Our work is about ending harm and inequity. We are committed to authentic change through mutual care, non-violent communication, empathy, acts of courage and ally-ship, understanding and health for all in our community.
At the end of 2022, we had gleaned over 5.5 million servings since inception in 2008!

Thank you to our 467 total donors in 2022! We welcome the 299 new donors to the Farm to Pantry family.

Farm to Pantry Perennials commit to supporting us in an ongoing way, monthly or annually. This helps us budget into the future and ensures our sustainability. When we can count on your support all year long and into the future, it allows us to dedicate more time to serving those in need, rather than focusing on fundraising efforts.

You can become a perennial by going to www.farmtopantry.org: hit the “Givers” button and select “recurring donation,” where you will have the option to select either monthly or annually.

Thank you Perennials for your continuous support!

PARTY ON

ENCANTO DRIVE-IN + CHILDREN’S VACCINE CLINIC
In partnership with AV Film, La Familia Sana, Healthcare Foundation, Cloverdale Citrus Fair and Corazon, we showed a drive-in animated film, Encanto, in Spanish with English subtitles paired with a produce box distribution and a vaccine clinic for children.

SUMMER SUPPER
In Tucker’s amazing gardens at the Kendall-Jackson Wine Estate, Mike McGuire and Wally Hays were an incredible, dynamic duo empowering the guests to raise a record-breaking, $324,000 for Farm to Pantry programs. This allowed us to move off of Duskie’s driveway to an office in Windsor and purchase an electric van for our deliveries, coined the “Green Glean Machine.” Thanks also to Sonoma Clean Power, Press Democrat/Celebrate Community and David Gelfand & Ellen Daniell for their support of this new vehicle lightening the carbon footprint of our delivery fleet.

GLEANER & GROWER GRATITUDE AND FARMS-TO-CIDER RELEASE PARTY
Our debut Farms-to-Cider product was released at the Gleaner & Grower Gratitude Party—made from apples harvested by you. The proceeds of its sale in the taproom go right back to F2P! Volunteer gleaner, Steve Pogue received the first ever “Caroline Marker Award” for his sustained commitment to hunger relief in all that he does. We launched grower signs this year to acknowledge the farms and backyards sharing their bounty to feed our community. If you want one, reach out to us at gleaning@farmtopantry.org.
What I want is so simple I almost can’t say it: elementary kindness. Enough to eat, enough to go around. The possibility that kids might one day grow up to be neither the destroyers nor the destroyed.

—Barbara Kingsolver, Animal Dreams
