The federal review of the Mashpee Wampanoag Tribe’s application to have land taken into federal trust is moving forward rapidly, getting us over a major hurdle and another step closer to building a Destination Resort Casino in Taunton.

In a letter dated Dec. 31, Kevin Washburn, Assistant Secretary for the federal Bureau of Indian Affairs, told the Tribe he’s completed an initial review and directed the BIA’s regional office in Nashville, Tenn., to “begin processing the tribe’s application” for an initial reservation. Below is a transcript of Washburn’s letter.

This letter is to update you on the status of the Mashpee Wampanoag Tribe’s application and request for a Secretarial determination of the Tribe’s eligibility to game pursuant to the “initial reservation” exception found in Section 20 of Indian Gaming Regulatory Act (IGRA), 25 U.S.C. § 2719(b)(1)(B)(ii). After an initial review of the Tribe’s application and other applicable documents in the record, we will be directing the Eastern Regional Director to begin processing the Tribe’s application pursuant to this exception. The Office of Indian Gaming will complete its final analysis of the applicability of the initial reservation exception in January 2013.

Additionally, we continue to review the record to develop our determination of the Secretary’s authority to acquire land for the Tribe pursuant to Section 5 of the Indian Reorganization Act, 25 U.S.C. § 465. We intend to finalize our analysis also in early 2013.

Please contact the Office of Indian Gaming at (202) 219-4066 if you have any questions.

Sincerely,
Kevin Washburn
Assistant Secretary – Indian Affairs

Application for Reservation Moves Forward

Dear Tribal Community,

We have received exciting news: as I announced at January’s General Membership Meeting, federal officials have informed the Mashpee Wampanoag Tribe that our land in trust application is proceeding rapidly. Please read the letter from Assistant Secretary of the Department of the Interior for Indian Affairs Kevin Washburn on the right.

This is another critical step forward for our proposed destination resort casino, which will create thousands of jobs and widespread economic opportunities for our Tribe and our neighbors in southeastern Massachusetts.

The December 31 letter was sent to update us on the status of our application for land in Mashpee and Taunton to be placed in trust. The Washburn letter states that he has completed an initial review and is moving forward in processing the application according to the initial reservation exception.

Washburn writes, “After an initial review of the Tribe’s application and other applicable documents in the record, we will be directing the Eastern Regional Director to begin processing the Tribe’s application pursuant to this [initial reservation] exception. The Office of Indian Gaming will complete

Tribal Elder, Johnny Newcomb

Tribal Elder, Johnny Newcomb, left our physical world to be with our Ancestors February 23, 2012. A strong Mashpee Wampanoag and life member of the Mashpee Wampanoag Rod & Gun Club, Johnny was well known for actively exercising our aboriginal hunting and fishing rights.

Johnny’s family is hosting “A Celebration of Life” dinner featuring Johnny’s favorite dishes Saturday, February 23, 2013, from 4:00 to 7:00 PM at the Mashpee Wampanoag Rod & Gun Club. Condolences to the family of Constance “Connie” Bearse Santos, June 19, 1932-January 7, 2013. She leaves behind her husband of 51 years, Herman Santos of Harwich; daughters, Lynne Santos Flores and Margaret Ghiorso, both of California; and pre-deceased by her sisters, Clarice Frye, Mildred Foxx, Juliette Scott, and Anne Bearse Goler, all raised in Hyannis.

A big thank you goes out to the Students at Newton High School for collecting coats and blankets to donate to the Tribe. These coats and blankets will help keep many families in need warm this winter. It’s even nicer when a kind gesture comes from kids and young adults. These students at Newton High School took the time to set up a stand in their school and were asking for winter coats donations for Native American families in need. These students need to be recognized for their incredibly fine deeds as an outstanding spectacular group of students.

The initial reservation exception is found in Section 20 of the Indian Regulatory Gaming Act. It is one of the few exceptions to a prohibition on gaming on lands taken into trust after October 17, 1988, and is expressly intended for newly recognized Indian tribes, such as the Mashpee Wampanoag Tribe, that do not have a reservation.

its final analysis of the applicability of the initial reservation exception in January 2013.” Washburn also stated the BIA expects to complete in early 2013 its analysis of the Secretary’s authority to acquire land in trust for the Tribe in light of the Supreme Court’s 2009 Carcieri v. Salazar decision.

The schedule outlined by Washburn means that our land in trust application is a priority. We appreciate this very strong commitment from the Obama Administration and the support of Governor Patrick and our congressional delegation.

This progress would have been impossible without the unwavering support of our Tribal members and Tribal Council to push forward and fight for our right to sovereign land.

It is important to remember that land in trust isn’t just about gaming. We’re even more excited about what finally having a reservation will mean for our tribe. A reservation is critical to our ability to operate as a tribal government, to provide services to our people like housing, health care and education, and to maintain our history and culture in our ancestral homeland.

This is exciting news for our Tribe and our efforts to acquire trust lands, provide the very best in services to our people, and to create jobs, and direct financial support for tribal members.

VA and IHS Announce Reimbursement Agreement

Mashpee Wampanoag Veterans will soon have increased access to health care services closer to home following a recent Department of Veterans Affairs and Indian Health Service (IHS) joint national agreement.

“There is a long, distinguished tradition of military service among tribes,” said Secretary of Veterans Affairs Eric K. Shinseki. “VA is committed to expanding access to native Veterans with the full range of VA programs, as earned by their service to our Nation.”

“The President has called on all Cabinet Secretaries to find better ways to provide our military families with the support they deserve, and that is exactly what we are doing today,” said Kathleen Sebelius, Secretary of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. “American Indian and Alaska Native Veterans benefit from this agreement, which provides increased options for health care services.”

As a result of the national agreement, VA is now able to reimburse the IHS for direct care services provided to eligible American Indian and Alaska Native Veterans. While the national agreement applies only to VA and IHS, it will inform agreements negotiated between the VA and tribal health programs. VA copayments do not apply to direct care services provided by IHS to eligible American Indian and Alaska Native Veterans under this agreement.

“The VA and IHS, in consultation with the federally-recognized tribal governments, have worked long and hard to come to an equitable agreement that would ensure access to quality health care would be made available to our Nation’s heroes living in tribal communities,” said Dr. Robert Petzel, undersecretary for health, Veterans Health Administration.

“This agreement will also strengthen VA, IHS and tribal health programs by increasing access to high-quality care for Native Veterans, particularly those in highly rural areas.”

“This reimbursement agreement between the VA and the IHS will help improve health care services for American Indian and Alaska Native Veterans and further the IHS mission and federal responsibility of raising the health status of American Indians and Alaska Natives to the highest level possible,” said Dr. Yvette Roubideaux, director of the Indian Health Service. “This IHS-VA agreement will allow our federal facilities to work with the VA more closely as we implement this critical provision in the recently reauthorized Indian Health Care Improvement Act, passed as part of the Affordable Care Act.”

The agreement between the two agencies marks an important partnering achievement for VA and the IHS and is consistent with the Administration’s goal to increase access to care for Veterans.

To view the national agreement, please visit: www.va.gov. To find out additional information about American Indian and Alaska Native Veteran programs, please visit: www.va.gov/tribalgovernment and http://www.ihs.gov.

UPDATES

Get Your Flu Shot Today

The Mashpee Wampanoag Health Service Unit is offering flu shots to the tribal community at our clinic. The vaccine is offered free of charge for tribal members. Flu shots are available between 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. most days. Please call (508) 477-6963 in advance to make sure staff is available to provide the shot.

The Flu – or influenza – is a serious but preventable illness. As you have likely heard in the news, the number of cases of the flu has increased dramatically across the United States in recent weeks. Flu cases have also been increasing in Indian Country. The good news is that there is a good match between the current flu strain and this year’s flu vaccine.

The flu is a respiratory illness caused by influenza viruses that can easily spread to other people. It can cause mild to severe illness, and at times can lead to death. Compared to the general U.S. population, Native Americans are more likely than others to get seriously ill or die from the flu.

The best way to prevent the flu is by getting vaccinated each year. Getting the flu vaccine can keep you from getting sick and keep you from spreading the flu to children and elders – those who can get very sick from flu. The flu vaccine is recommended for everyone – your whole family can get vaccinated.

Developing a Work Opportunity Strategy

Recently, I worked with Tribal Council to pass a resolution to address a serious problem within our Tribe and society at large: how do we support men and women who have been incarcerated so that they can have a successful future? It seems to me that with the possible exception of strong family support, the single most important factor is whether or not this person can find steady, reliable work.

This is an issue important not only to those who have been incarcerated, but their families and our tribal community as well. It has been demonstrated that employment is a critical factor reducing the likelihood of recidivism for an ex-offender.

Tribal members who have been previously incarcerated often face significant stigma and disadvantages because of their incarceration, and may not be hired even when they are the most qualified applicants for a job.

I believe that it is essential to develop a work opportunity strategy that includes having Tribe Government consider hiring ex-offender tribal members on equal footing with other qualified applicants. A work opportunity strategy will decrease the possibility of a formerly incarcerated tribal member from re-offending, which affects in many ways his or her life, his immediate family, and the Tribe.

In addition, the Tribe can also benefit because prisoners often develop skilled labor training while incarcerated and, in addition, due to their incarceration may have developed an ability to cope with stressful situations and environments which may benefit the Tribe as an employer.

We are not the only ones who think this is a worthy program. The Work Opportunity Tax Credit (WOTC) (at present pending congressional re-authorization) is a potential Federal tax credit incentive (up to $2,400 per adult hired) that Congress provides to employers for hiring individuals from certain target groups who have consistently faced significant barriers to employment, such as an individual who has been convicted of a felony and has a hiring date which is not more than one year after the last date on which he was convicted or released from prison. The main objective of the program is to enable the targeted employee to gradually move from economic dependency into self-sufficiency as they earn a steady income and become contributing taxpayers, while participating employers are compensated by being able to reduce their federal income tax liability. Here, the tribal member will also move toward becoming a stable member of his or her immediate family and a productive citizen of the Tribe.

I thank Tribal Council for approving this proposal so that every member of our Tribe may have the opportunity to be a self-sufficient, productive, healthy member of his or her family and our Tribal family.

Native Youth in Science—Preserving Our Homelands

The Mashpee Wampanoag Tribe partnered with the U.S. Geological Survey (USGS) Woods Hole Coastal and Marine Science Center (WHCMSC) in Woods Hole, Massachusetts, to develop and deliver a summer science pilot program for Mashpee Wampanoag tribal youth in grades 6, 7, and 8. The program was developed by Renée Lopes-Pocknett, Director of the Mashpee Wampanoag Tribe’s Education Department, and Monique Fordham, USGS National Tribal Liaison, and was guided by Chris Polloni, WHCMSC Outreach Coordinator. Troy Currence (WHCMSC) provided initial contacts and advice for the science staff about tribal customs. The program was designed to help reconnect Mashpee Wampanoag youth with the ecology and geology of their traditional homelands through classroom and field presentations, with an emphasis on hands-on experience. The program wove scientific information and data collection together with traditional ecological knowledge provided by tribal culture keepers, to ensure that information was provided in a context that stressed the ancestral relationships between the Wampanoag people and the ecosystems of their homelands.

Titled “Native Youth in Science—Preserving Our Homelands,” the summer 2012 pilot program strived to present science as a tool by which to protect and preserve the ecosystems and homelands of the Mashpee Wampanoag Tribe. It also challenged the students to develop ways of thinking and being studious about their surroundings while achieving habits of mind and skills for understanding how science works.

The pilot program included 14 Mashpee Wampanoag youth and ran from the initial orientation session on July 9, 2012, to the closing ceremony on August 9, 2012. The tribal culture keepers for the program were Earl “Chiefie” Mills, Jr., Jessie “little doe” Baird, Jonathan Perry, Darrel Wixon, Kitty Hendricks, Tony Perry, Sr., and Ramona Peters. The culture keeper coordinator was Errol Hicks. The whole team functioned extremely well and laid a foundation for future collaboration on tribal educational initiatives.

In addition, the Tribe’s Natural Resources Department, especially the Director, Quan Tobey, and Assistant Director, George “Chuckie” Green, were instrumental in the development and implementation of the program.
