Mashpee School Committee and Tribe Meet

The Mashpee School Committee meeting on Wednesday evening, October 4, began with all assembled standing and holding hands as Jessie (Little Doe) Baird, vice chairwoman of the Mashpee Wampanoag Tribal Council, said a prayer in the Wampanoag language, Wôpanâak. She recited the prayer again in English.

As is customary at the start of all school committee meetings, chairman Don D. Myers then asked everyone to stand for the Pledge of Allegiance. The location was a standing-room-only tribal council room at the Mashpee Wampanoag Community and Government Center on Great Neck Road South.

The October 4 meeting marked the first time the school committee has held its regular Wednesday meeting on sovereign Mashpee Wampanoag land.

The idea behind the change of venue from the Quashnet Elementary School library this week came from school committee member Nicole D. Bartlett and Patricia (Trish) Keli’инui, the tribe’s public relations and communications manager, who aimed to promote a spirit of inclusiveness and partnership between the school district and the tribe.

Before the meeting, Superintendent Patricia M. DeBoer and a number of school administrators got the opportunity to tour the community center and to meet tribal government representatives.

As part of the meeting, Mashpee High School senior Celia Krefter, a member of the Student Advisory Council, updated the committee about student accomplishments and activities. She said she was proud to be a student ambassador and to have the chance to speak at the tribal center.

The 660 Project: Connecting Youth

The Mashpee Wampanoag Tribal Historic Preservation Department (THPD) is pleased to announce a new project that is devoted to the 660 Young Adult Tribal members ages 18-30 that are almost always left out of tribal programs. How many of the 660 have you ever met in person? This project will hold a couple gatherings so you can meet each other; kind of like speed dating (without the romance) so you can at least check each other out in a no pressure space. After everyone is acquainted THPD wants to know what parts of our history and culture you’re interested in learning more about. A professional graphic designer team will work with a small group of five that you select to create a touch screen portable exhibit. This format will present the possibility of creating a sub-domain website where the 660 group can drive the audience from their home and school computers.

Expect a text when and where to meet up. If you didn’t give your current cell number to enrollment text it to 774 327-0182 with your name. THPD also has a new blog and website that will be linked to the 660 Young Adults private Facebook page. This will keep our news fresh with live feeds of group gatherings for those that live too far away to meet up. So stay tuned!
Mason Hendricks and the Wareham Vikings took the South Coast Conference Football Championship in the first-ever crossover matchup between the Small champion (Wareham) and the Large champion (Somerset Berkeley.) Hendricks continuously sacked Somerset Berkeley’s quarterback leaving him scrambling. Mason is the eldest son of Lawrence Hendricks and Jody Santagate of Wareham. He’s the great grandson of Francis Cash Hendricks and the grandson of the late Lawrence Hendricks III.

Youth Council Elect New Officers

On Tuesday, September 26 the Mashpee Wampanoag Youth Council elected a new slate of officers to lead the group over the upcoming year. At the annual elections, which were held at the Mashpee Wampanoag Tribe Community and Government Center, tribal youth elected Chyla Hendricks, chairperson; Chenoa Peters, vice chairperson; Taylor Rose, co-secretary; Brianna Cheatham, co-secretary; Kobi Howerton, treasurer; Chayna Hendricks, female representative; and Ceasar Hendricks, male representative.

The newly elected officers were officially sworn into office during the Tribe’s General Membership Meeting on Sunday, October 8.

The Mashpee Wampanoag Youth Council meetings are open to all Mashpee Wampanoag youth between the ages of 13 and 20 years old. In order to become a member of the youth council, youth need to attend three consecutive meetings and then be approved by seated youth council members.

Congratulations to the newly elected officers and to all of our youth that participated in the process.

we’ve held several all staff meetings over the past few months to keep everyone informed of the issues, and potential changes that may be coming down the road. I felt this was and continues to be a crucial piece of the decision-making process.

The process is something that I think we cannot overstate or minimize its importance. It’s ensured that we’re not rushing to any judgments or simply cutting staff positions because it’s a quick fix.

We’ve taken a more exhaustive and careful root to reducing our budget. We first met with each department head to review their budget line by line. We then took a look at our outside consultants to make cuts where appropriate. These initiatives resulted in a good amount of cost savings that we’ve been realizing for over a month. We then looked to our full time tribal council to voluntarily take cuts in their own salaries, which they accepted and may take further reductions as we continue with this process. With those steps completed we’ve returned to our operations budget to make a second round of cost-saving cuts to expense lines that have allowed us to avoid any downsizing at this time.

If we do reach the point where we have to ask staff to take reductions or their position is eliminated, please know we will make resources available to ensure they transition into good jobs in the surrounding towns. These transitions may not be immediate, but we’ll be here to provide support and make connections with other agencies to assist. We truly care about our family and will make sure we all land securely on our feet.

We all know that we’re in a challenging financial position. We’ve exhausted a tremendous amount of resources to navigate a bureaucratic process that is easily the federal government’s longest, most convoluted process ever developed. It’s taken us over 40 years to reach this point, and we still had submissions and document reviews taking place on a daily basis through October. Thankfully our final response to the Department of Interior was completed a few days ago. It’s a submission that many have referred to as the “best” historic submission we’ve authored to date.

I feel very good about the submission we’ve sent in. While I can’t guarantee that the Department of Interior will accept the historic records in the same light that we have, I can tell you that it truly is the “best.” We remain confident that our petition and litigation both remain on solid ground with the power of truth behind it. Our history is strong and not something that we believe can be contested.

Together we will get through this and we will ultimately come out stronger on the other side. We’ll be a leaner, more efficient government that continues to serve the needs of our community while building a strong tribal economy. Even though I’m sure we’ll succeed in the end, these past few months have weighed heavily on me. It keeps me up and drives me to work harder to move our nation forward. I will not rest until we realize our full potential.

Kutâputunumuw;

Chairman Cedric Cromwell

Annual Fall Social To Be Held on November 25

On Saturday, November 25 the sounds of an intertribal social – complete with drumming, singing, round dancing and the hum of good conversation – mixed with the smell of home cooked dishes will fill the Mashpee Wampanoag Community and Government Center as the Tribe will be hosting its annual fall social. The potluck social (please bring a dish of food to share) will be held from 2:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. in the gymnasium and is open to all tribal citizens, family, friends and neighboring tribes.

Councilwoman Winnie Johnson-Graham who helped organize the social this year truly sees this as a community event. “There’s something special about our fall social. You come in on a cool fall afternoon and can feel the warmth of our community the minute you walk in our doors,” said Winnie. “It’s at events like this that you’re reminded just how special it is to be a part of our tribe.”

In addition to the drumming and food, the annual social provides space for local vendors to sell their crafts. If you are interested in a vendor table, drumming or would just like more information, please contact Tribal Councilwoman Winnie Johnson-Graham at Edwina.graham@mwtribe-NSN.gov or at (508) 645-8365.

Tribe and School Committee Meet (continued)

Cromwell welcomed the more than 40 people gathered and said the meeting was a “historical moment” and “a step in the right direction toward unity.”

“It’s important that we continue to grow and live together,” he said.

Ms. Baird shared with the committee a historical sketch in the form of a written packet that introduced aspects of the tribe’s heritage, culture, language and history.

She hoped, she said, to give a sense of the tribe’s philosophy about the family structure as well as its historical struggles “to protect self-governance.”

“Until 1967, no non-Wampanoag person held any elected position in the town of Mashpee,” she said. “[We must] work on having conversations. None of us lives in a vacuum. We are a human community here in town, and we must support one another and our kids.”

Nitana Hicks Greendeer, the tribe’s director of education, shared a list of multiple successful collaborations between the school district and her team.

She noted the “lunch bunches” at Kenneth C. Coombs School and Quashnet School, organized with the school administrators and the Wôpanâak Language Reclamation Project, in which young tribal students have the chance to sing songs, learn Wôpanâak vocabulary and learn about various aspects of their culture.

One of the most important efforts, she said, was the launching this year of a Wôpanâak language class at Mashpee High School. The course is taught by Melanie Roderrick and Ms. Hicks Greendeer.

Principal Mark L. Balestracci said that the school offers students a language credit for the course as they do for all other language courses.

“Our language was actually outlawed in the 1800s,” Ms. Baird said. “People living in Mashpee could be fined or jailed for teaching Mashpee [Wampanoag language] in Mashpee. This is the first time in 200 years the language has been offered in a school setting. It’s extremely important for our children to see.”

Ms. Baird said the course would be a model for schools not only in Massachusetts but also around the country.

In addition, Ms. Hicks Greendeer said she hopes to see more opportunities for tribal educators to take part in teacher professional development programs, improved data sharing between the schools and the tribe, and an increased presence by Mashpee residents at school and tribe events.

During her report to the committee, Ms. DeBoer said that the school district currently has 148 students who identified as Native American, which is 9 percent of the total student population.

The district received a federal Indian Education grant of $50,851 for this school year, most of which she said goes toward paying salaries for personnel at the three schools.

Ms. DeBoer said her team will work on a detailed plan to build on the many instances of collaboration between the schools and the tribe, including guest speakers from the tribe to the schools and history-themed field trips. She also asked the tribal council to consider appointing a single “go-to person” for communication between the schools and the tribe.

In her address to the group, Ms. Bartlett, who is the mother of two elementary school children, said she “wanted [her] kids to grow up in this community and appreciate how important and unique this community is in the whole world, not just in Massachusetts.”

Before the school committee took up other business, Ms. Keli’inui said she and others would investigate the potential of hosting a Mashpee High School basketball game at the tribe’s government and community center.

Mr. Myers said the meeting would not be the last joint meeting between the school committee and the tribe.

Mashpee Tribal Council Adopts Indigenous Peoples Day to Replace Columbus Day

The Mashpee Wampanoag Tribal Council voted to officially change its holiday calendar, replacing Columbus Day with Indigenous People’s Day. The change was formally adopted at a regularly scheduled Tribal Council meeting in October.

The unanimously passed Tribal Council resolution establishes that “The Mashpee Wampanoag Tribe shall recognize ‘Indigenous Peoples Day’ on the second Monday in October every calendar year.”

“Be it further resolved, that the Mashpee Wampanoag Tribe shall continue its efforts to promote the well-being and growth of all Indigenous communities and continue to protect the Indigenous homelands of the Wampanoag Nation,” the resolution declares.

Mashpee Wampanoag Tribal Council Chairman Cedric Cromwell said the resolution is not a repudiation of Italian American heritage but an affirmation and reclamation of Native America history.

“As the Tribe that first came into contact with the Pilgrims and whose modern-day descendants govern sovereign tribal land in parts of Mashpee and Taunton, we are intimately familiar with, and have been tremendously impacted by, the legacy of Columbus. There’s enough social space in modern day America to recognize the proud heritage of our Italian American brothers and sisters, while never forgetting America’s First People,” Chairman Cromwell said.

“Our” Story Exhibit to Roll Out New Chapter at Veterans Powwow in Connecticut

A new theme to be added to the “Our” Story: 400 Years of Wampanoag History exhibit will feature the cultural richness of contemporary New England Natives. Powwow will debut at the Mashantucket Pequot Museum and Research Center during the annual Veterans Day Powwow on Saturday, November 11.

“We are so excited to launch the Powwow theme of this exhibit during an actual powwow event honoring veterans at New England’s premier museum of indigenous history,” said exhibit producer Paula Peters. “This is a perfect opportunity to bring the exhibit up to date and show that “Our” Story doesn’t begin and end in the 17th Century.”

Powwow explores the traditions around gathering and giving thanks with a mix of interactive video, contemporary native art, and photos collected from the Mashpee and Aquinnah powwows held annually in July and September respectively.

“Our” Story, a traveling, multi-media exhibit featuring the history, culture and traditions of the Wampanoag, debuted in 2014 commemorating the quadcentennial anniversary of the kidnapping of 27 Wampanoag men, including Squanto, who were taken to be sold as slaves. The exhibit is part of the Signature Events and Programs of Plymouth 400, Inc., the organization planning the international 400th anniversary commemoration of the 1620 Mayflower voyage and the founding of Plymouth Colony. The entire exhibit will be on display at the Mashantucket Pequot Museum throughout Native American Heritage Month and visitors are encouraged to share their thoughts on “Our” Story using the hashtag #OurStory.

“Our” Story was created to bring to light key legacies of America’s earliest beginnings from the Wampanoag perspective, a voice largely silenced in the colonial narrative. The exhibit received widespread media attention since its debut for its honest and powerful approach to highlighting occurrences in indigenous history that are not commonly known.

yet vital to the founding of Plymouth Colony and the building of America. The exhibit’s first chapter, “Captured 1614” was launched in 2014 and tells a critical back story to colonization and the roots of the American holiday, Thanksgiving. The second chapter, “The Messenger Runner”, highlights the Wampanoag tribe’s traditional communication network and tribal territories predating the Pilgrim’s arrival. The third chapter “The Great Dying: Gods Will or Unfortunate Circumstance?” depicts the catastrophic plague that killed tens of thousands of Wampanoag between 1616 and 1619.

Plymouth 400 commissioned a Native design team to create “Our” Story to ensure that the exhibit was thoroughly representative of the history of New England’s indigenous peoples. The Indian Spiritual and Cultural Training Council Inc. and Smoke Signals Marketing and Communications conceptualized, researched, and produced “Our” Story, and members of the Mashpee Wampanoag and Aquinnah Wampanoag tribes portrayed historical figures for the exhibit. The creation of this exhibit aligns with Plymouth 400’s mission to create a commemoration that is historically accurate and culturally inclusive, as indigenous peoples have declined participation or faced misrepresentation and even omission from previous anniversary events.

“Perceptions from Plymouth’s earliest period became etched into the American story when President Lincoln used the iconic symbol of the Wampanoag people and English colonists feasting together in 1621 as a representation of cooperation as he proclaimed our national holiday, Thanksgiving,” said Michele Pecoraro, Executive Director of Plymouth 400. “Plymouth 400 is committed to creating a commemoration that is historically accurate, which means addressing realities of the story that don’t reflect the simplified and often inaccurate depictions of the First Thanksgiving. This exhibit is intended to create conversations around these crucial realities in our history in an informative and authentic way, honoring the contributions of both cultures and recognizing the complexities of their relationship.”

Mashpee Wampanoag Host State House Thanksgiving Reception

The Mashpee Wampanoag Tribe will be hosting a Special Thanksgiving Unity Reception to be held November 13, 2017 inside the Great Hall of the State House in Boston.

As descendants of the indigenous Wampanoag who made first contact with the Pilgrims, it was our people who shared a harvest feast (the historical origin of the modern Thanksgiving story) and taught them how to survive through the winter, making the settlement of Plymouth Colony and eventually Massachusetts possible. While no one could have foreseen the magnitude of mourning that would follow in the centuries after first contact (hindsight is 20/20), it is not in our power to turn back the hands of time.

What is in our power is our ability to shape the future in positive ways. One small but important piece of that is to educate people about the true history of our people and the origins of Massachusetts. At this time of year, as non-Natives approach Thanksgiving and often wonder about what really happened, it provides us with the unique opportunity to tell our story - in all of its rich, beautiful complexity.

There are many lessons from our shared history for natives and non-Natives to feast on, not the least of which is the life and times of our great Massasoit Osamequin, who signed the first peace treaty (really a mutual aid alliance) with the Pilgrims. It led to 50 years of peace. That spirit of mutual aid still has the power to inform a society today divided by hateful politics. It’s a reminder of what can be accomplished by people of different backgrounds and cultures coming together in the spirit of cooperation and peaceful co-existence.

That’s why the theme is unity: to remind the world that the only path to peace and prosperity is one that includes all people, most especially America’s first people.

We want this event to serve as a shining light in these divisive times; a celebration of our Native heritage and how it forms the basis of a common bond in the Commonwealth. We want to encourage everyone to recommit to an open dialogue and mutual alliance that began with our ancestors 400 years ago.

For this purpose, the event will take place in the Great Hall, which just so happens have a stained-glass window overlooking the hall that bears the likeness of Osamequin. We want this special occasion to be a highlight of Native American Awareness Month, inviting elected officials, community and religious leaders to join us.

Family Caregiver Support Program to host a Caregivers Appreciation Day on November 14

The Health and Human Services Department would like to thank all of our current and past Caregivers that have participated in our Caregiver Support program for their selflessness and devotion in helping to ensure the quality and quantity of life to our loved ones as they are faced with some of the challenges of everyday living activities. Our program is designed to assist the caregiver with information on available services and resources, assistance in gaining access to these services, support groups, caregiver trainings and respite care/Caregiver Stipends.

What is Respite Care?
Even though many families take great joy in providing care to their loved ones so that they can remain at home, the physical, emotional and financial consequence for the family caregiver can be overwhelming without some support, such as respite. Respite provides a break for thePrimary family caregiver, which may prove to be beneficial to the health of the caregiver.

What is a Caregiver?
A caregiver is an unpaid or paid person who helps another individual with impairment with his or her activities of daily living. Any person with health impairment might use a caregiving series to address their difficulties. Caregiving is most commonly used to address impairments related to old age, disability, a disease, or mental disorder.

If you’re a caregiver and need assistance please contact Health Services Manager Kimberly Frye at (508) 477-0208 Ext. 103.

Utility Service Announcement: Keep the Heat On

Are you having a hard time managing your utility bills? The Health and Human Services Department at the Mashpee Wampanoag Tribe wants to make sure you’re aware that you may be eligible for winter protection. Winter protection ensures that utility companies will not terminate service that is heat related between November 15 and March 15 (The March 15 end-date is often extended to April 1 by the Department of Public Utilities).

Typically, if you receive the discount rate or LIHEAP, you will be eligible for protection from utilities being shut off during the winter months. In addition, you may be eligible to enroll in additional cost saving programs like budget billing and payment plans.

Also, if you or someone in your home is seriously ill; or you have an infant in the home under 12 months; or all adults in the home are age 65 or older and a minor resides in the home you are likely eligible for protection from your utilities being shut off.

Do You Have a Student Enrolled k-12?

The Indian Education Office is collecting Title VI 506 forms for all Native American students’ grades K-12 enrolled in the Barnstable, Falmouth, New Bedford, Sandwich, and Wareham Public School districts. These forms are required by the Office of Indian Education to participate in services, and will be kept on file here at the Indian Education office. Please contact Kitty Hendricks-Miller at (508) 477-0208 ext 143 or at Gertrude.Hendricks@mwtribe-nsn.gov. Kutâputush!
Fuel Assistance Applications Available

For many Mashpee Wampanoag Tribal households, energy cost place a severe and continuing stress on the family’s budget. In some instances, the household is forced to make painful decisions regarding which bills to pay and which necessities to survive without. The Low Income Home Energy Assistant Program (LIHEAP) is designed to help eligible low-income households supplement part of their winter heating service bills.

LIHEAP is a federally funded program that helps low-income households with their home heating bills. Income eligibility is based on “Net Income” (after all deductions, including max of $2,000 towards rent/mortgage, but except for 401K, IRA, and any other saving or retirement programs). A household deductible guide with income limits is included with the LIHEAP application.

In order to determine your eligibility for the heating season, please contact Shakira Askew at (508) 477-0208 x159 or at shakira.askew@mwtribe-NSN.gov for an application.

It’s very important that you complete the application in full and submit it with the following:

Making National Level Changes For All Tribes Across Indian Country

During the 2017 USET annual meeting held in Cherokee North Carolina this October, Mashpee Wampanoag Tribe Emergency Management Director Nelson Andrews Jr. presented to the USET Board of Directors as Co-Chairman of the newly named Homeland Security and Emergency Services Committee. There are currently 26 Federally recognized tribes who represent through various committees of the United South and Eastern Tribes organization. One of the main goals during these USET meetings is to work on significant changes that will have an impact for all tribes across Indian Country; some of these changes are made through resolutions that will be presented to congress on behalf of the USET committees.

An important resolution was worked on by the USET Homeland Security and Emergency Services committee at this most recent meeting. The resolution that is being finalized will help to change the way that funding is streamed from the Department of Homeland Security to all Federally Recognized Tribes through grant programs and direct funding for Tribal Emergency Management Programs, this in hopes will bring the funding mechanisms between the Federal Government and Tribes equal to States.

From Carlton Pocknett: Honor One Another

Did you know that it is very good to share and give love to one another? Without these values this country wouldn’t be the way it is now. That is why we are suffering from terrorist attacks, because basically all the cultures in this country have something good to give. Some say that is why this country is hated, because we have so many values and we have a good character.

We have so many good colleges and this makes people want to come over to our country and learn our ways of life from the professors in these schools. When you are growing you depend on your mother and father to teach you the difference between right and wrong. But they can only teach you so much.

I know it is hard to do the right thing when you are young. But you have to do the best that you can. You have to pull yourself up by the boot straps and learn what this country has to teach you. A lot of men and women have died for this country and our flag. We come from purple mountains and the great lakes. We have men of honor, courage, and wisdom.

That is why I love this country just as my ancestors did too. I live on the works of my ancestors and what they have laid down for me from many years ago. My mother told me to always accept a helping hand and if you have nothing good to say then don’t say anything at all.

God is the biggest teacher and we are all in his social studies hall, because we are still in school and still learning together. No matter how old or young we are.

See, our old ways weren’t working so we have to go back to our grass roots on what history has to teach us. United we stand, and divided we will fall. Honor One Another in life and in death.

Have you signed up to receive the Mittark and other news from the Tribe electronically? It’s a faster and more efficient way to stay informed and it saves the Tribe money. Many organizations and other Tribes have already moved electronic and now our Tribe is gearing up to make the move to go primarily electronic in 2018. There are some exciting enhancements and developments coming down the road that will make it even more efficient for you to receive news by email. To gear up for this, we’re asking all tribal members to ensure the Tribe has your preferred email address.

You can send the Tribe your email address by simply by sending an email to our PR and Communications Manager Trish Keliinui at trish.keliinui@mwtribe-NSN.gov and let her know you would like to be added to the Tribe’s email list.

In addition to signing up to receive information electronically, you also have the ability to opt out of receiving hard copies of the Mittark prior to 2018 that are sent through traditional postal mail. By going completely “electronic” with your communication you will be helping your Tribe save money and the environment…it’s a win win. To opt out of receiving traditional mail, please include the email addresses of all tribal citizens that live in your household when emailing Trish. (Having a current email address for all Tribal Citizens in your home will ensure each person continues to receive news.)

Please, remember to send Trish an email at trish.keliinui@mwtribe-NSN.gov to ensure we have your current email address. It’s our goal to keep you and all other tribal members informed of the many important services and events that take place in our community.

On Saturday, December 2 the Tribal Action Plan (TAP) along with the Tribal Coordinating Committee (TCC) and the Department of Human Services of Barnstable County will host a very important opioid education program. The 5-hour program, which will focus on recognizing an overdose and provide Narcan training, will be held at the Mashpee Wampanoag Tribe Community and Government Center on Saturday, December 2 from 1:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m.

The training will cover a wide range of opioid and narcan related topics.
