POETICS OF SUSTAINABILITY

ENVIRONMENT & IMMIGRATION

Course Description
Utilizing our WOVEN curriculum, this course will explore the intersections of the environment and immigration as urgent social, political, and ecological issues through the lens of poetry. By reading across a global lineage of poets, including writers and artists from Pakistan, Chile, Sweden, Korea, Brazil, Cuba, and the across the United States, students will learn about historical and contemporary environmental and immigration issues in order to create multimodal artifacts that engage with what we will refer to as a “poetics of sustainability.” One of the course’s primary questions will be: How do these writers and artists allow us to articulate a more equitable future for communities facing challenges related to ecology and immigration? Additionally, where and how do ecology and immigration issues overlap as we consider rhetorical strategies for articulating our questions, ideas, and solutions related to identity, nationality, nature, and culture?

Course Texts
Kith by Divya Victor
Schizophrenie by Bhanu Kapil
That Winter the Wolf Came by Juliana Spahr
alphabet by Inger Christensen (trans. Susanna Need)
Song for His Disappeared Love by Raúl Zurita (trans. Daniel Borzutzky)
WOVENText, second edition (online access)

Guest Lecturers
Maggie Schumann, Remote Coordinator for Southeast Immigrant Freedom Initiative, Southern Poverty Law Center: Maggie is an Atlanta-based advocate for immigrant rights who acts a representative for individuals and families in Georgia-based immigrant detention centers who are seeking legal representation.

Katherine Kennedy, Program Director, Concrete Jungle: Leader of non-profit Concrete Jungle, “a volunteer-run, Atlanta-based organization that helps to distribute neglected fruit to the hungry” which runs an urban farm in Southwest Atlanta.

Assignments

Students will complete three primary artifacts, a final reflective portfolio, and participate in a set of linked events both for the iGniTe program and for this course. Assignments will include individual work and group collaboration, pairing our in-class discussion of critical and creative texts with our real-world participation in conversations about development, equity, and sustainability.

Artifact 1

Experimental Indexes: In groups, students will create experimental indexes for Inger Christensen’s alphabet that track the sequence’s references to science, metaphysics, time, the human, and the nonhuman.

Artifact 2

Rhetoric of Loss: What is the rhetoric of loss, dislocation, transformation? Students will write about and accumulate experiences and objects to explore relationships to place, history, and identity, and then abandon them. The final artifact will be a website tracking this process.

Artifact 3

Poetry Research Poster: For this group research project, students will create educational posters that present how issues related to “a poetics of sustainability,” via ecology and immigration, are presented and critiqued in Kith by Divya Victor alongside any other book from this semester’s reading list.

Along with the reflective portfolio, which functions as the final exam for this course, students’ participation grade is a significant portion of the total grade. The participation grade includes students’ attendance at all SLS-sponsored iGniTe events, the end-of-semester student showcase, and guest lectures and field trips associated with this specific course, including volunteering for Concrete Jungle and a visit to the Atlanta Immigration Court and The Center for Civil and Human Rights. A series of assignments associated with these events and volunteer responsibilities, as well as with required course readings, will be graded based on attention to instructions and timely completion.

Serve-Learn-Sustain

This course is part of Georgia Tech’s Serve-Learn-Sustain (SLS) initiative, uniting classroom learning with community action. SLS works with all six colleges to offer courses and programs connecting sustainability and community engagement with real-world partners and projects, allowing students to use their disciplinary expertise related to science and technology to help “create sustainable communities” where humans and nature flourish, now and in the future, in Georgia, the U.S., and around the globe. More information about SLS can be found at www.serve-learn-sustain.gatech.edu. Visit the website to sign up for the SLS Email List, view the full list of affiliated courses, and find links to Facebook, Instagram and Twitter.

SLS Student Learning Outcomes:
- Students will be able to identify relationships among ecological, social, and economic systems
- Students will be able to demonstrate skills needed to work effectively in different types of communities.
- Students will be able to evaluate how decisions impact the sustainability of communities.
- Students will be able to describe how they can use their discipline to make communities more sustainable.

Objectives

The Writing and Communication Program has common goals that apply to every course we teach:
- The goal of classes in the Writing and Communication Program is for students to develop competence in all communication modalities (written, oral, visual, electronic, and nonverbal) and to understand how effective communication balances multiple modalities thoughtfully and synergistically.
- The goal in every project should help students develop deep understanding of the genre on which the project focuses and the rhetorical processes involved in creating examples of that genre.
- The goal for every student should be to create purposeful, audience-directed artifacts that present well-supported arguments using appropriate conventions of written, oral, visual, and/or nonverbal communication, regardless of the mode and medium.

In addition to these common objectives, students will:
- Develop individual processes of multimodal communication
- Develop and hone both critical thinking skills and an aesthetic awareness of critical issues
- Learn to approach all texts (visual, written, digital, etc.) through a critical lens

Required Technology
- Laptop with Microsoft Suite and Internet access

Required Costs
- The Center for Civil and Human Rights: $17.99 Student ticket
- Multiple MARTA trips for volunteer days and field trips: $2.50 regular fare
- Regular printing costs for assignments and Artifact 3 poster

Approach to the Course
As a hybrid workshop-seminar that pairs daily reading and media interaction with weekly reflection and analysis, your attentive presence and active participation in class discussions is necessary to your success and, when it comes to collaborative work, your peers’ success a well.
Policies

The Writing & Communication Program has standard policies for English 1102 which you should familiarize yourself with here. These include:

- Georgia Tech General Education Outcomes for English 1101 and English 1102
- Learning Outcomes for English 1101 and English 1102
- Evaluation Equivalencies
- Evaluation Rubric
- Course Completion
- Attendance
- Required Textbook
- Dean of Students and Counseling Center
- Safety
- Participation in Class
- Non-Discrimination
- Communication Center
- Accommodations (Office of Disability Services)
- Academic Misconduct
- Syllabus Modifications
- Final Instructional Class Days and Reading Periods
- Multimodal Reflection Portfolio and Mahara

You are required to acknowledge that you have read, understood, and intend to comply with these policies. In addition to these policies, I have my own policies for this course in particular, including:

Late Assignments
I am willing to grant extensions requested by email no less than twenty-four hours prior to an artifact’s due date. Except for exceptional situations, granted extensions will not exceed an additional day in which to complete the artifact. Otherwise, late assignments (including questionnaires) will not be accepted.

Missing and Missed Assignments
Except for absences officially exempted by the Institute or exceptional and unanticipated situations, I do not allow students to make up missed quizzes, presentations, or in-class assignments. Missing work is counted as a “zero.”

Revision of Assignments
Revision will constitute a significant part of our class, and play a role in each major assignment. In some cases, I may request that students engage in additional revision, beyond the requirements of the peer review process, in which case you will be notified and instructed accordingly.

Attendance
In addition to the WCP Common Policies statement on attendance, please note the follow policy specific to this course: Each absence after missing three (3) classes will result in deduction of 25 points (equivalent to 5% or half a letter grade) from your final point total. Missing 8 classes results in automatic failure of the course.
Workload
Students should expect an average of 100 pages of reading or 6 hours of viewing/listening time (or some combination of the two) outside of class. Reading/viewing/listening loads will be significantly lighter in weeks when major assignments are the primary concern.

Mature Themes
Quite often, course materials and class discussions will deal with issues of sexuality, race, and violence. In such cases, I expect students to be respectful, and to approach both the material, your classmates, and me with the utmost maturity. If students are at any point uncomfortable with these issues, I encourage you to come speak with me as soon as possible.

Conferences and Office Hours
I will regularly hold office hours every week at the time and place listed at the top of this syllabus. Appointments can be scheduled via email in advance, and walk-in appointments are available on a first-come, first-serve basis. If you need to meet with me outside of my regular office hours, this will be accommodated to the best of my ability. Occasionally, I will require students to meet with me in my office individually and in groups—sign-up sheets will be distributed in advance. I encourage students to visit my office hours as frequently as you like: whether it be to discuss course materials, project ideas, revision, or just to talk about the course.

Title IX at Georgia Tech
The Title IX Coordinator is the designated Institute official with primary responsibility for coordinating the compliance with Title IX. This includes providing leadership for Title IX activities; providing consultation, education and training; and helping to ensure the Institute responds appropriately, effectively and equitably to Title IX issues. Contact information for the Title IX Coordinator, Burns Newsome, and Deputy Coordinators is here.

About Me
I am a Marion L. Brittain Postdoctoral Fellow in the Writing & Communication Program at Georgia Tech. I received my Ph.D. in Creative Writing from Florida State University in 2015, having written a dissertation titled “Another Mona Bone Jakon,” which will be published as my second book of poetry. Previously, I received a B.A. in History from the University of Akron, and an M.F.A. in Poetry from the Northeast Ohio Master of Fine Arts Program. My research interests include 20th century and contemporary American poetry and poetics, film, popular music, ekphrastic aesthetics, and pedagogy and the arts. I am particularly interested in the poets Ted Berrigan and Alice Notley, often associated with the “Second Generation” New York School poets, on whom I have published extensively, in addition to essays and reviews for a number of academic books, journals, and websites on topics as wide-ranging as Deerhunter, Amiri Baraka, broken umbrellas, and the history of Ponce de Leon Avenue.
Sustainability Track: Special Events

The Atlanta BeltLine is one of the most important urban redevelopment projects of our time - and it is in Georgia Tech's backyard! It is also one of the key projects you'll examine as a student in the iGniTe Sustainability Track (Urban Sustainability and STEM and Sustainability).

See the schedule below and mark your calendars. In addition to the volunteer activities and field trips for this course, all of these events are factored into the participation grade for this course.

Participation Grade

How much is the participation grade and how it is evaluated?

The participation grade for this course is worth a total of 300 points, or one-third of your final grade. Participation is neither optional nor a kind of extra credit—it is the most significant portion of your total grade. In-class participation includes daily contribution to class discussion, productive collaboration with peers, timely completion of all assignments (including assigned readings and accompanying questionnaires), and attention to instructions on those assignments. Out-of-class participation includes all SLS special events (listed on the previous page) and the events specific to this course (see list below under the third question). Participation is both tangible and ephemeral. When you turn in an assignment or concretely display your completion of a reading assignment, your participation is evaluated through the assessment of that tangible deliverable. When you speak in class, show up on time to volunteer service events and field trips, participate fully in those events and trips, and show yourself to be a willing and productive collaborator, you are earning participation points. Your presence alone in class does not mean you earn participation points. Participation will not be evaluated strictly numerically, but it might be helpful to consider the numbers: including all class sessions and out-of-class events, we will meet about 25 times this semester, which means that each meeting—your contributions that day, turning in assignments, being prompt and engaged—amounts to about 12 points per meeting.

What does participation mean in this course? Why is it required?

This ENGL 1102 course, part of the inaugural iGniTe summer program, is linked with a specific set of additional summer courses through Georgia Tech’s Serve-Learn-Sustain initiative. This summer’s programmatic focus is on “Equitable and Sustainable Development.” This unique affiliation and coordinated educational focus emphasizes that service and learning are deeply linked. For this ENGL course, that means that your participation in the classroom—in discussion, completion of readings and assignments, collaborative and individual work—and your participation outside the classroom—volunteering for Atlanta nonprofits, going on field trips, engaging with members of local communities—are evaluated together. Rather than only regularly speaking in class, participation in this course means engagement. It is each student’s responsibility to commit to this engagement to be successful in this class.

What events and field trips count toward my participation grade?

All SLS special events (listed on the previous page) and all volunteer service events and field trips specific to this course count toward your participation grade. The service events and field trips for this course are highlighted in yellow on the course schedule and listed here:

- Friday June 29: Volunteer day at Doghead Farm with Katherine Kennedy of Concrete Jungle
- by Wednesday July 11: Visit The Center for Civil and Human Rights (turn in ticket with associated assignment); $17.99 student ticket with GT ID card (students must attend on their own)
- Friday July 13: Visit the Atlanta Immigration Court with Maggie Schumann of Southeast Immigrant Freedom Initiative (organized as a class)
- by Wednesday August 1: Participate in one additional environmentally related service event, either via Concrete Jungle for another “Farm Day” at Doghead (June 30, July 14, July 28; all Saturdays 10am-noon) or for a Concrete Jungle “Fruit Pick” at various locations in the city (June 28, July 5, July 12, July 19, July 26; all Thursdays 6-7:30pm). Farm Day sign-up: https://signup.com/client/invitation2/secure/1785536/true#/invitation. Fruit Pick sign-up: https://signup.com/client/invitation2/secure/2316927/true#/invitation.
- If a student cannot attend an event due to extreme circumstances, make-up opportunities are available.
