After the 2-days inspiring meeting we had in Holland last month and learning more about Osgood Landing in North Andover, Massachusetts; Philips is a public company that is a leading provider of lighting for the horticultural industry. Philips sells horticultural lighting through a small international network of designated distributors such as Agrolux.

As a result of changing laws in the US and Canada, we are looking more closely at establishing a new US distributorship dedicated to providing services to this rapidly growing new industry. The Cannabis Research Center and Manufacturing Facility that you are seeking to permit in North Andover provides an ideal location as headquarters for this new distributorship. With our partners Agrolux and Gakon we are considering developing a collaborative enterprise that will work towards the development of an automated, sustainable, green, energy efficient agricultural practices for Cannabis Cultivation. This site would serve as an ideal headquarters for US operations and as a demonstration and education center for this industry.

We would welcome this opportunity to work with you and hope that you prevail at the town meeting. Please make it known to the town that Philips, through its exclusive distributor, Agrolux is a supporter of your efforts and that we have an interest in working with you to develop a horticultural R&D, education and demonstration center in North Andover.

Sincerely,

J.C.M. de Wit, Horticulture specialist Philips/Horti-Solutions.
