RAR is a direct action group. We believe in exercising our First Amendment rights to free speech, freedom of assembly, and to petition the government for change. We work to keep our demonstrations focused and our messaging clear. We often demonstrate in public spaces, and occasionally on private property or in privately operated public space. A team of trained RAR members, marshals, facilitate our actions and handle changes to our agreed upon plan.

RAR uses non-violence as a tactic. At almost every demonstration, we get support from people who agree with us, and we get heckled by a few people who disagree with us. Some hecklers may yell at us ("Get a job" or "Build the wall" or "Losers"), or shoulder check us while picketing, but most keep moving. We routinely attract counter protesters who, by name-calling and filming us, try to provoke conflict and disrupt our demonstrations. We have also had some interactions with the New York Police Department where they infringed on our First Amendment rights and we took group action to protest NYPD's overreach.

RAR tries to manage our demonstrations so that they unfold as planned by asking our members (and people attending our demonstrations) to "not take the bait" and to not engage with hecklers, counter protesters, or NYPD. We ask members to not yell back at hecklers/provocateurs, to avoid name-calling (including at NYPD), to refrain from seizing/ripping up their signs, and to not push or shove back.

Members who are unable to de-escalate should seek assistance from marshals or other demonstrators to help keep the peace. De-escalating with counter protesters means 1) asking them to step aside and hold their own demonstration, 2) asking them to respect our First Amendment rights, 3) talking to counter protesters in a conversational tone about why we and they are there, 4) asking them questions (to keep them from yelling), and 5) creating an active non-threatening physical buffer between the counter protesters and RAR members. We encourage all RAR members to help with this work.

De-escalating with NYPD means 1) explaining our right to protest, 2) our reasons for why we are refusing to follow their requests/orders, and 3) what we as a group are willing to agree to do, regardless of what NYPD wants us to do.

RAR makes every effort to keep a demonstration going as planned, and to deprive the counter protesters of what they want: to turn the demonstration into an us-against-them thing (media circus) – and to make counter protesters look like victims of left wing intolerance/violence. Our goal is to keep the counter protesters as powerless and ineffective as possible while respecting their First Amendment rights and keeping NYPD out of our demonstrations.

RAR cannot guarantee the safety of demonstrators. We trust our members to exercise self-control, to not be provoked into violent responses, and to try not to provoke others. We believe that these are the best tools for us to use. In situations where we are concerned about imminent violence from counter protesters or NYPD we ask everyone to stay in place and, if necessary, to sit down to hold space, to diffuse the tension, to allow everyone see what is going on, and to give us all, as a group, time to respond. We do not run in these situations because we do not leave vulnerable members behind to fend for themselves.
