ASSOCIATION FOR
PHILOSOPHY & EDUCATION

ANNUAL CONFERENCE

October 27-29, 2023

University of St. Mary of the Lake
Mundelein, IL

“Education, enlarging as it does our horizon and perspective, is a means of multiplying our ideals, of bringing new ones into view.”

William James

Dear Colleagues and Friends

Welcome to the University of Saint Mary of the Lake and to the annual conference of the North American Association for Philosophy and Education! We are delighted that you are joining us for this exciting occasion, an opportunity to convene together that we know many of us look forward to throughout the year. This year's conference program features graduate students, K-12 teachers, independent scholars, and faculty of all levels. We look forward to conversations about a diverse array of topics at the intersection of education and philosophy ranging from ancient Greek moral theory to contemporary teacher practice, epistemology, transformative education, democracy in secondary and higher education, and much more! We hope you enjoy the papers, the discussions, and the whole conference experience. Please let one of us know if you have any questions or concerns during your stay. As a part of our commitment to creating a welcoming academic environment, we encourage you to complete our online feedback form after the conference to share your opinion and experiences related to the conference accommodation services and professional atmosphere. The form can be found at naape.org/en/hospitality. We look forward to meeting each of you over the course of this weekend.

Sincerely,

The Executive Committee

George Kabango Memorial Fellows

NAAPE would like to congratulate this year's recipients of the NAAPE George Kabango Memorial Fellowship: Emerald Henderson, Shiyong Li, and Leonel Alvarez Ceja! The George Kabango Memorial Fellowship is a competitive conference scholarship intended to encourage the participation of current graduate students in philosophy and education as well as K-12 educators at the NAAPE annual conference. Successful fellowship applicants receive full financial support for conference attendance. Please read about our 2023 Kabango Fellows below.

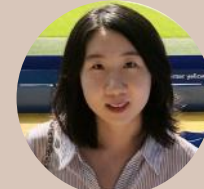

Emerald Henderson
University of Birmingham

Emerald is a PhD student at the University of Birmingham. Prior to embarking on her academic career, she taught for nine years—as Head of Religion & Philosophy and Head of Eudaimonia—an experience which ignited her enduring interest in neo-Aristotelian virtue ethics and impressed upon her the importance of character education for a flourishing life and society. Her research interests lie at the intersection between moral philosophy, moral psychology, education and professional ethics, and predominantly concern moral exemplarism and phronesis (practical wisdom) in neo-Aristotelian character education. Correspondingly, her PhD—supervised by Professor Kristján Kristjánsson and Dr Laura D'Olimpio—focuses on the emulation of moral role models as a method of virtuous character development. She seeks to disambiguate the methodology of emulation qua role modelling by devising a philosophically discerning and psychologically realistic 'theory of emulation'. Through doing so, she hopes to illuminate how role modelling works in different developmental phases and, naturally, the professional context of teaching. Emerald holds a BA in Philosophy and PGCE from King's College London, and an MA in Applied Ethics from Utrecht University. Her PhD is funded by the University of Birmingham's College of Social Sciences Scholarship.

Leonel Alvarez Ceja
University of California, Irvine

Tialli (Hello)! Leonel is an Indigenous Chicano Philosopher and a first-generation student. He's the first in his family to attend middle and high school and acquire literacy skills. He's pursuing a Ph.D. at the University of California Irvine, starting in Fall 2023. Prior to this, he earned his BA in Philosophy at UCLA and transferred from Saddleback Community College. Leonel's primary research interests include Chicana Philosophy, Philosophy of Race, Social/Political Philosophy, Mesoamerican Philosophy, Ethics, Metaphysics, and Philosophy of Science. He's currently engaged in two projects; the first explores Race-Conscious Multiculturalism and its impact on solidarity, and the survival of the Chicana identity; the second delves into the metaphysics of Chicana identity, specifically differentiating what he calls the Chicana triangulation from W.E.B. Du Bois' double consciousness. Leonel's ancestors are the indigenous Purépecha and Azteca. His family presently resides in the rural villages of Paredones and Potrerillos (near the Purepecha village of Tzitzio) in the highlands of Michoacan, Mexico. The journey to formal education and upward mobility remains a challenge for many from these villages. However, his people imparted values that formal education alone cannot teach. Leonel is deeply grateful for these teachings and humbled to be their student. Tlazomacati! (Thank you!)

Shiyong Li
University of Wisconsin-Madison

Shiyong is a PhD candidate in philosophy at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. She received a B.S. in psychology from UW-Madison and an M.A. in Social Sciences from the University of Chicago. Nowadays, Shiyong's research focuses on social and political philosophy, ethics, and the philosophy of education. Topics she has written on include social stigmas, distributive justice, the ethics of personal relationships and violent revolutions, social norms and self-respect. Shiyong has been developing interests and expertise in the philosophical, empirical, and practical dimensions of education and hopes to produce evidence-based scholarship in the philosophy of education that could be helpful to the practice of education in the real world. Alongside her scholarship, she enjoys teaching students from a wide range of backgrounds.

NAAPE/Educational Theory Outstanding Paper Prize Nominees

Beginning in 2022, NAAPE began awarding an Outstanding Paper Prize at its conference each year. In awarding this annual prize, NAAPE is partnered with the peer-reviewed journal Educational Theory. The award is intended to honor excellent scholarship at the intersection of philosophy and education that is submitted to and presented at the NAAPE conference. The winner of the NAAPE | Educational Theory Outstanding Paper Prize will receive a $500 cash award. As a part of our partnership with Educational Theory, successful prize papers will be published as a featured article in a future edition of the journal. Below are this year's nominees.

Johan Deltner | Creative Listening as a Driving Force in Explorations of a Subject Matter

Shiying Li | Education for Robust Self-Respect in an Unjust World
