Please join us for our inaugural AFSOAS “Alumni & Friends” trip as we explore the beautiful and fascinating country of Ghana! During this 11-day / 10-night trip, we will spend several days with Professor Felix Ameka (an affiliate of the Endangered Language Documentation Programme) learning about his efforts in documenting some of the country’s endangered languages and visiting some of these linguistic minority communities. We will also enjoy a visit to the University of Ghana – Legon, an exchange with the local SOAS alumni association, and a whole host of sightseeing & learning opportunities in Accra, Kumasi, Cape Coast, and more!

Though this trip is intended for American alumni of SOAS and their family & friends, anyone with an interest in learning and travel is most welcome to apply. Space is limited to 20 persons though, so it is advisable to apply early. Please visit our website for more details (including a detailed itinerary & application forms):
