KEY RETAIL AREAS IN Malmö CITY CENTER

Malmö offers a large selection of designer boutiques and young, trendy fashion retail and food outlets. Commercial pedestrian areas stretch from Stortorget along Södergatan, Skomakaregatan and Baltzargatan, past Gustav Adolfs Torg and Södertull, all the way down Södra Förstadsgatan to Triangeln and Möllevången. Most of the shopping districts are pedestrian only, and within walking distance.

Malmö Central Station is Sweden’s third largest station with over 40,000 travellers passing through each day. Since the Citytunnel opened in 2010, the station has gone through major renovations, successfully combining new modern architecture with beautiful historic buildings, such as Kungsgården, the time waiting lounge for the king in the 19th century. All Malmö Central Station you will find a mix of shops selling books, magazines and flowers, as well as a wide range of good quality and tasty restaurants and coffee shops with flavors from all over the world.

Södertull is one of the city’s oldest streets - with a rich tapestry and a strong flow of people. The architecture of the buildings trace the history of Malmö, from the Flensburg House dating back from 1596 to Baltzar City, opened in 2002. Baltzar City is in an attractive location in the middle of the city. The beautiful glass facade of the building makes for a spectacular contrast to the surrounding turn of the 20th century houses. Shops on Södertull include Zara, Mulberry, Eton, Peak Performance, Filippa K and Bikas. Södertull is also home to Älvsborg City, one of Sweden’s leading department store chains.

Baltzargatan and Skomakargatan form one of Malmö’s most exclusive shopping streets. At the intersection where Baltzargatan meets Södertull and becomes Skomakargatan, shoppers find high-end boutiques such as Marlene Birger, Lacoste, Stella, Naeem, Flagman and Whyred. On Baltzargatan you will smell the aroma of brewing coffee at the very popular Lilla Kafferosteriet housed in a charming 17th century yellow Swedish house.

The Form/Design Center is in Hedmanska Gården at Lilla Torg. Here you will find the best in Scandinavian design and local arts and crafts. Lilla Torg is a large outdoor area that is home to several of Malmö’s best-known restaurants and clubs. The square is one of Malmö’s busiest locations - no matter the season.

Mölleång is Malmö’s most colorful neighborhood with lively markets, shops and vibrant restaurants from all around the world. There are 177 different countries represented in Malmö, and they all meet in Mölleångstorget. When it comes to restaurants, you will find virtually the whole world represented here. Close to Mölleångstorget is also Malmö Chocolate Museum and microbrewery Malmö Brygghus, all showcasing proud traditions from southern Sweden’s long and renowned food and drink culture.

Södra Förstadsgatan/Triangeln is a popular pedestrian shopping street that stretches from Davidshall’s Bridge to the Triangeln shopping center, where you’ll find Design Torget, Grandpa, Levi’s, Lukasholen, AB Simoland and Benetton.

Over recent years, many new restaurants, cafes and shops have popped up in the area around Davidhall’s Torg. Most of the stores cater to a young and trend-conscious audience, but you can still find everything from boutiques with custom designs to vintage shops. Find your favorite designer at Tjalamilla, Gryn, Aplace, Ancash or Lading.

Södertull

Since the reconstruction in 2002, Södertull has become a meeting place in the south with proximity to water. Södertull is a favorite among sun-thirsty Malmö residents from the long summer days to the long and refreshing fall. If you are hungry, there is a large selection of restaurants, fast food outlets and cafes, including Texas Longhorn, Conodos, Viteisk and TGBB Burgers.

A new retail marketplace called Beyond Us is opening at Södertull in 2019. Beyond Us is 10,000 sqm of innovative retail space - with a vibrant mixture of fashion, technology, lifestyle and interior design, with a particular focus on consumer experience. Every third month new and exciting brands will showcase new collections.
