

YOUR SURGICAL PLANNING MEETING WITH DR. REISING

During this appointment, Dr. Reising will review and explain your GERD test results with you. He will go over the results of the endoscopy findings including esophagus and stomach biopsies, pH study, esophogram and manometry testing. He will review whether you are a candidate for a surgery or procedure to correct GERD, or whether medication is a better alternative.

If you are a candidate for a robotic anti-reflux operation or the TIF procedure, Dr. Reising will explain in more detail how those procedures are performed and what the risks are of each procedure. He will also review the typical recovery period and restrictions associated with each procedure.

If you make the decision to have a procedure to correct your GERD, Dr. Reising's team will help you schedule your procedure and get insurance prior-authorization for the procedure.