Highpoint is delighted to announce that one of the most prominent foundations in the nation, the Michigan-based Kresge Foundation, has awarded $250,000 to HP2: The Capital Campaign. The Kresge Challenge Grant program is highly competitive and is committed to supporting communities by strengthening the non-profits that serve them. This generous grant will drive HP2 into reach of the $3.5M campaign goal, but the hard work is not over! Thanks to the incredible generosity of individual, corporate and foundation donors, HP has raised over $2.4M thus far including the Kresge pledge. To receive the Kresge grant, Highpoint must raise the remaining balance of the campaign. Every dollar raised from April 1 – December 31, 2009 will help HP meet this goal and be part of the Kresge Challenge. Whether this means cultivating new donors or encouraging current donors to stretch their gifts beyond their initial pledge, HP will count on contributions from everyone who believes that HP and its programs provide vital services to the local community as well as the national visual arts community.

The Kresge Challenge Grant is earned by organizations that deliver effective programs and have talented, motivated leadership to achieve sustainable transformation.

“This goal remains constant. With the challenge grant, we want to help you strengthen the long-term sustainability of your institution,” the Kresge Foundation noted.
No capital campaign is ever easy, and within one year of launching HP2: the Campaign for a Permanent Home, the global economic downturn hit in full force. Turning back was one option. But (after many tough conversations) with many parts of the project in the works, and key donations already in place, Highpoint determined to forge ahead with the capital campaign. With the great support of our board members, James Dayton Design, early donations by foundations and individuals, and financing from Franklin Bank and the Non-Profits Assistance Fund, the closing documents to purchase the property were signed two days after the Presidential Election.

We cannot tell you that this has been simple, easy or stress-free. In fact, getting this far in this economy has seemed some days like a miracle and other days like a strange dream!

As you have read from page one of this newsletter, Highpoint is now on its way to wrapping up its capital campaign: we are honored to have the validation of support from The Kresge Foundation! With this $250,000 Kresge Challenge Grant, Highpoint is now poised to bring in the final dollars needed to ensure the successful transition to its permanent home at 912 W. Lake Street in Minneapolis.

NOW is the time to join us in completing HP2: the Campaign for a Permanent Home. If you have been watching from the sidelines, we invite you to become an active donor and participant in the campaign, a true investment in the vitality of your community! An easy to use gift envelope is inserted in this newsletter.

Please call us today to arrange a tour of the “new” Highpoint at 912 West Lake Street in the heart of South Minneapolis—and see page 3 of this newsletter for some exciting opening events!

Upcoming Special Events at HP2

HP2’s Grand Opening Celebration
Saturday, October 3, 7 – 9 pm

Please join us for HP2’s Grand Opening. Celebrate Highpoint’s beautiful new space in style! Coinciding with the opening of a retrospective of Julie Mehretu’s prints, the HP2 Grand Opening will be an opportunity to tour the completed facility, view new projects by Highpoint Editions and celebrate in person with artist Julie Mehretu. Share a champagne toast with all the generous individuals and funders who have made contributions to the Capital Campaign and hear plans for HP’s future. More details to come in August.

Free Ink Day Remixed
Sunday, May 17 from 2 – 4 pm

Join Highpoint during the LynLake Street Fest to help us inaugurate HP’s new home at 912 West Lake Street. We’ll be hosting a casual hands-on printing activity from 2–4 pm and giving tours of the new printshop. All ages and abilities welcome! See page 9 for more details about the revived LynLake Street Fest.

Highpoint Open Portfolio
Saturday, May 30, 12 – 4 pm

Printmaker artists, instructors and students with recent prints are invited to share their latest portfolios of work in 90-minute group sessions. Darsie Alexander, Chief Curator at the Walker Art Center, Dennis Michael Jon, Associate Curator of Prints and Drawings at the Minneapolis Institute of Art and Diane Mullin, Associate Curator at the Weisman Art Museum will select prints from this event for a future exhibit in Highpoint’s new gallery. The public and local gallerists and collectors are also invited to attend. The cost to participate in Highpoint’s Open Portfolio event is free for Highpoint members and $10 for non-members. Jurors will be looking for traditionally printed images (intaglio, relief, monoprint, lithography and screenprinting) for inclusion in the exhibit. No giclees or inkjet outputs will be chosen for the exhibit. Artists and their prints must be present during the event on May 30. Participants will be issued a time slot at random, and notified of this schedule by Friday, May 22. This event will take place at Highpoint’s new facility at 912 West Lake Street. To register to show your portfolio please call 612.871.1326 or e-mail joanne@highpointprintmaking.org.

Please register and pay entry fee (if applicable) by 5 pm, May 18, 2009 to reserve a space. Please include your name, mailing address and email address.

Please send payments to:

New Collaborations at Highpoint Editions

Highpoint Editions is pleased to announce its recent collaboration with Mexican artist Carlos Amorales. HP Artistic Director and Master Printer Cole Rogers met Amorales in 2008, during a trip to Mexico City. Amorales’ Highpoint prints—which feature enigmatic groupings of his signature silhouettes—are a natural continuation of the artist’s previous work across such disciplines as sculpture, painting, dance, and music. For over a decade, Amorales has been gathering images of men, women, monkeys, skulls, airplanes, spiderwebs and other curiosities. He pulls the images from books, magazines, photographs and the Internet and simplifies their shapes through the process of rotoscoping, a technique used in early animation. The resulting set of imagery, which Amorales calls his Liquid Archive, has grown to include more than 1,500 digital drawings and provides the source material for his fascinating, cross-disciplinary practice. Highpoint will exhibit Amorales’ prints in a show scheduled for early 2010.

Highpoint Editions
Special Weekend Sale

Extra special discounts on selected works will be offered to Highpoint supporting members throughout the weekend.
Jerome Emerging Printmakers Residency

The sixth year of the Jerome Emerging Printmakers Residency at Highpoint supported three early career printmakers: Emily Hoisington, Dan Luedtke and Anna Tsantir. Seven months of studio work and critiques culminated in an impressive exhibit showcasing Hoisington’s up-close monoprint investigations of sidewalks, Luedtke’s flashy screenprints that included printed banana-scented wall paper, and Tsantir’s photopolymer relief prints depicting abstract narratives. In evaluating the program, participants all remarked on the quality of facilities and the importance of this residency and exhibit as a major steppingstone in their careers.

With Highpoint’s new home, the Jerome artists will have expanded studio space and increased access hours. Artists will receive nine months of studio access, group critiques with local arts professionals as well as a group exhibit in Highpoint’s new museum-quality gallery. Applications for the 2009 Jerome Emerging Printmakers Residency are now available in printed form at Highpoint and as a PDF online at www.highpointprintmaking.org. The application deadline is July 13, 2009.

Call for Class Proposals

Highpoint Center for Printmaking invites printmaking instructors to submit adult class proposals to take place in Highpoint’s new, expanded facility at 912 W. Lake Street in Minneapolis. Classes will take place at Highpoint and should be based on traditional printmaking methods including lithography (stone, plate or photo), intaglio (etching, solarplate, or collagraph), relief, monoprint, or screenprint. Instructors must be available to teach classes during the Fall 2009 session. Class syllabus must be structured to fit one of the following formats: 1.) 6 week course—meeting one evening per week plus two or three 4-hour weekend studio work sessions 2.) 2 or 3 day weekend workshop—meeting Friday evening and/or Saturday and Sunday 3.) 1 evening lecture or tutorial—meeting for 2-4 hours

Please see HP’s website for past issues of Presstime with examples of class formats and descriptions: www.highpointprintmaking.org/pressroom.

Instructors must be fully qualified and capable of independently teaching all aspects of the course. Applicants are encouraged to submit up to three different class proposals. Please include the following in your proposal: Cover letter, resume, syllabus—one for each different class you are proposing, a short bio highlighting past teaching experience and the nature of your own work, a CD of 5 digital images of your recent work in the print media you are proposing to teach and a corresponding slide list. Classes will be selected based on a variety of factors including student interest, fit with HP’s mission, curriculum goals and scheduling needs.

Please mail or deliver proposal packets to Highpoint Center for Printmaking, Attn: Elizabeth Flinsch, 912 W. Lake Street, Minneapolis, MN 55408 by July 1, 2009. With questions regarding proposals please e-mail info@highpointprintmaking.org or call Elizabeth Flinsch, Education and Community Programs Coordinator at 612.871.1326.

Join Highpoint and LynLake Partners: The LynLake Street Festival Returns Sunday, May 17

The LynLake Business Association is reviving an annual tradition for the neighborhood and visitors in partnership with the Blaisdell YMCA, the Lake Street Council and Hennepin County. On Sunday, May 17 “The Rites of Spring” festival from noon to 6 pm, will celebrate the completion of the LynLake Streetscape Project and raise funds for the Blaisdell Y’s annual Y-Partners Campaign. LynLake restaurants, retailers and other businesses will offer specials and fun events to welcome back the public to an intersection that has been under construction for two years.

As part of the LynLake Festival, Highpoint invites all to inaugurate Highpoint’s new space at 912 W. Lake Street for a fabulous Free Ink Day from 2-4 pm (note new time). Guaranteed all out printmaking fun! All ages and abilities welcome, and as always this day is free and open to the public.

The day includes a morning bike tour sponsored by the Blaisdell YMCA and an afternoon street festival hosted by dozens of participating LynLake businesses around the reconstructed, revitalized intersection of Lyndale Ave. and Lake Street—the first LynLake Festival since 2000!

The 9 a.m. bike rally launches the event, departing from the YMCA at 34th Street and Blaisdell Avenue and returning before noon for the festival. Event bicyclists will cover a 17-mile route testing both bike and brains that will take them west on the Midtown Greenway to Hopkins and return on the Cedar Lake Trail to a designated “bike corral” at the festival. All proceeds from the bike rally will go toward the volunteer-driven Y Partners fund that provides discounted family memberships, after-school programs, summer camp scholarships that make the YMCA available to all. (The bike rally requires a $45 registration fee. For online registration and updated event info go to LynLakeStreetFestival.com.)

The festival will kick off at noon, and feature a 2 pm ribbon cutting ceremony to celebrate the completion of the massive Lake Street Reconstruction Project. The LynLake Street Fest will feature a musical lineup of bluegrass with the Middle Spunk Creek Boys, rhythm and blues legends the TC Jammers, and local indie favorite Solid Gold; family activities, including a small bikes race course for kids and parents on tricked out Strider bikes; Summit Beer and Peace Coffee stations; and artists, actors, retailers and restaurateurs offering entertainment and fantastic values that day.

Go to LynLakeStreetFestival.com for more information.
Thanks to our foundation and corporate partners. Paving the way to success through strategic support.

Highpoint has been very fortunate to count many of the most respected foundations in the state, and in the nation, among our supporters of HP2: The Campaign for a Permanent Home. Here’s an overview of these key partners—we couldn’t do it without them!

A longtime supporter of Highpoint’s education programs, The Patrick and Aimee Butler Family Foundation announced an early grant of $250,000 through its Special Projects giving program. The Butler Family Foundation is highly selective in awarding Special Project support and focuses on organizations that emphasize artistic quality, reflect the diversity of the community, and demonstrate stable programming.

The McKnight Foundation awarded Highpoint $300,000 for HP2: The Capital Campaign. McKnight has supported Highpoint’s innovative arts programming since 2002. Highpoint works in concert with the goals of the McKnight Foundation to “improve the quality of the arts in Minnesota and to improve access to the arts for all Minnesotans.”

After seven years of support to sustain and grow Highpoint’s Education and Community programs, Target contributed $100,000 to HP2. Target awards grants to outstanding arts programs that make the arts accessible to children and families.

Travelers Foundation donated $50,000 in pre-capital support of the HP2 Campaign. Highpoint’s partnerships with St. Paul schools have been made possible by Travelers over the past six years.

AND, The Kresge Foundation has recently made a $250,000 Challenge Grant to HP2—see below and the cover of this newsletter for all the details!

The challenge is on!

Highpoint invites you to take part in the final push for HP2: The Campaign for a Permanent Home with the support and motivation supplied by The Kresge Foundation’s Challenge Grant of $250,000. Highpoint will receive the Kresge Foundation Grant of $250,000 once we have raised the balance of our campaign goal—currently approximately $1M dollars.

In short, HP has until December 31, 2009 to bring in payments and pledges of $1M to receive our final, campaign-completing grant from Kresge Foundation of $250,000.

Please give and pledge soon! We are counting on all our friends and partners to show your support—your gifts now will bring us to the finish line* * gifts by credit card, cash and stock are easily processed, just contact Carla McGrath, HP Executive Director at 612.871.1326.

Thanks to our HP2 donors.
