WHAT INFORMATION ABOUT ME IS COLLECTED?

Depending on your use of the SCOPES-df Platform, we may collect two types of information: personally identifiable information and non-personally identifiable information.

Personally Identifiable Information

Personally identifiable information is information that identifies you or can be used to identify or contact you. Such information may include your name, address, e-mail address, and telephone number.

Non-Personally Identifiable Information

Non-personally identifiable information is information, any single item of which, by itself, cannot be used to identify or contact you, including demographic information (such as age, profession, gender, current location, zip code, birth date, or year of birth), IP addresses, browser types, unique device identifiers, device types, requested URL, referring URL, browser language, the pages you view, the date and time of your visit, domain names, and statistical data involving the use of the SCOPES-df Platform. Certain non-personally identifiable information may be considered a part of your personally identifiable information if it were combined with other identifiers (for example, combining your zip code with your street address) in a way that enables you to be identified. However, the same pieces of information are considered non-personally identifiable information when they are taken alone or combined only with other non-personally identifiable information (for example, your viewing preferences).

WHERE AND WHEN IS INFORMATION COLLECTED (INCLUDING THROUGH THE USE OF COOKIES AND ACTION TAGS)?

We will collect personally identifiable information that you submit to us. We may also receive personally identifiable information about you from third parties providing services as part of your use of the SCOPES-df Platform.

Registering to Use the SCOPES-df Platform and in the Course of Using the SCOPES-df Platform.

You may be required to establish an account in order to take advantage of certain features of the SCOPES-df Platform. If so, if you wish to establish an account you will be required to provide us with information (including personally identifiable information and non-personally identifiable information) such as name, postal address, and e-mail address. We may also receive personally identifiable information about you from third parties providing services as part of the registration process. In addition, we may obtain your personally identifiable information from you if you identify yourself to us by sending us an e-mail with questions or comments. Also, we will have access to any personally identifiable information that you choose to share through the SCOPES-df Platform (such as your name if you include it in learning materials, a story, or other User Content that you post to the SCOPES-df Platform).

Cookies and Action Tags.

We may collect non-personally identifiable information passively using “cookies” and “action tags.”

“Cookies” are small text files that can be placed on your computer or mobile device in order to identify your Web browser and the activities of your computer on the SCOPES-df Platform and other websites. Cookies can be used to personalize your experience on the SCOPES-df Platform (such as dynamically generating content on webpages specifically designed for you), to assist you in using the SCOPES-df Platform (such as saving time by not having to reenter your name each time you use the SCOPES-df Platform), and to allow us to statistically monitor how you are using the SCOPES-df Platform to help us improve our offerings or to determine the popularity of certain content.

In addition to cookies that we may place on your computer or mobile device, cookies might also be placed on your computer or mobile device by third parties that we use to collect non-personally identifiable information in order to provide analytical and other services.

You do not have to accept cookies to use the SCOPES-df Platform. Although most browsers are initially set to accept cookies, you may reset your browser to notify you when you receive a cookie or to reject cookies generally. Most browsers offer instructions on how to do so in the "Help" section of the toolbar. However, if you reject cookies, certain features or resources of the SCOPES-df Platform may not work properly or at all and you may experience some loss of convenience.

For the avoidance of doubt, the SCOPES-df Platform may use third-party service platforms (including to help analyze how users use the SCOPES-df Platform). These third-party service platforms may place cookies on your computer or mobile device. If you would like to disable "third party" cookies, you may be able to turn them off by going to the third party's website.

The main third-party platforms placing cookies that we may use include: Google Analytics and Get Clicky.

"Action tags," also known as web beacons or gif tags, are a web technology used to help track website usage information, such as how many times a specific page has been viewed. Action tags are invisible to you, and any portion of the SCOPES-df Platform, including e-mail sent on our behalf, may contain action tags.

By using cookies and action tags together, we are able to gain valuable information to improve the SCOPES-df Platform and measure the effectiveness of our endeavors.

Finally, you should be aware that other third parties may use their own cookies or action tags when you click on a link to their websites or services on or from the SCOPES-df Platform. This Privacy Policy does not govern the use of cookies or action tags or the use of your information by such third-party websites or services.

Log Files.

We also collect non-personally identifiable information through our Internet log files, which record data such as user IP addresses, browser types, domain names, and other anonymous statistical data involving the use of the SCOPES-df Platform. This information may be used to analyze trends, to administer the SCOPES-df Platform, to monitor the use of the SCOPES-df Platform, and to gather general demographic information. We may link this information to personally identifiable information for these and other purposes such as personalizing your experience on the SCOPES-df Platform and evaluating the SCOPES-df Platform in general.

Public Areas.

The SCOPES-df Platform features a Discussion Space, public user profiles, and various community areas and other public forums that help to engage the community, including without limitation areas where users can submit User Content (collectively, the "Public Areas"). The Public Areas are open to the public and should not be considered private. We cannot prevent such information from being used in a manner that may violate this Privacy Policy, the law, or your personal privacy. We are not responsible for the results of such postings or for the accuracy of any information contained in those postings.

Any information you share in the Public Areas (including personally identifiable information) is by design open to the public and is not private. You should think carefully before posting any information in the Public Areas. What you post can be seen, disclosed to or collected by others and may be used by others in ways we cannot control or predict. As with any public forum on any website, the information you post may also show up in third-party search engines like Google, Yahoo, MSN, and Bing. If you mistakenly post personal information in a Public Area you can send us an e-mail to request that we remove it by contacting us at scopesdf@fabfoundation.org. You should understand that in some cases, we may not be able to remove your information.
