What is Food Justice?

Food Justice is exercising the right to have access to clean, sustainable and healthy food.
How are students getting involved?

Food is culture.

As students from Capital City, we believe that everyone should have the right to attain healthy and fresh food. The junior class will be holding a Food Summit to showcase our research and propose solutions to progress from food issues in our community.
Food Justice Youth Summit
March 22, 2018
10:30-3:00
UDC Student Center
Organizations that will be introduced and discussed--

- DC Greens -- Charter School Cafeterias Executive Summary
- DC Greens -- Charter School Cafeteria Case Studies
- Rocklands Farm -- Interviews and Promotional Materials
- Loaves and Fishes -- Mapping DC’s Homeless Food Supply
- Capital City -- School Composting!
- Capital City -- Renovating our School Cafeteria
Schedule for Summit

10:30 - 11:00: Registration
11:00 - 11:30: Welcome and Keynote Address
11:30 - 12:00: Session 1
12:00 - 12:30: Session 2
12:30 - 1:15: Lunch and Vendor Fair
1:15 - 1:45: Session 3
1:45 - 2:15: Session 4
2:15 - 3:00: Closing and Awards Ceremony
How can YOU get involved?

1. Attend.

Our summit will be held in UDC Van-Ness campus. Everyone is welcome to attend and learn issues such as accessibility for food in our community and how we have the role to fix them. You can even bring your students!

1. Present in vendor fair

...or you can present yourselves!

3. Present a workshop

Please join us and spread the message to our community!