2021 ANNUAL REPORT

POWERFUL PARTNERSHIPS
TRANSFORMING OUR WORLD
DEAR FRIENDS,

What a year! We say this to you with all sorts of emotions attached. We grieve over the many losses that occurred the last year globally and the instability that was experienced worldwide. We simultaneously rejoice over God’s good grace and provision to His church and His people during such a difficult year. It has been an honor to work alongside the global Anglican family to bring the good news of Christ to the suffering world. It is with excitement that we at ARDF present our Annual Report. Thankfully the pages that follow are full of good news, new initiatives, and the evidence of God’s mighty hand at work.

Fiscal year 2020-2021 saw our best total revenue in history, bringing in more than $1.9 million dollars. We were able to decrease our functional expense ratios and spend more on programmatic expenses, fully funding all development projects approved prior to 2020.

An exciting new endeavor was the launch of our Joseph Fund, based upon the model of Joseph in Genesis 41. This fund collects donations for disaster relief even when a disaster is not imminent. The result is that when a disaster happens, we can quickly get funds to partners on the ground. In this first year, we raised more than $200,000 for relief through our Joseph Fund.

We also launched a network of volunteers from ACNA churches, trained in disaster response. The goal is to offer our partners the funds and expertise they need in order to respond to crises effectively. We believe that one of the most important times to show up as the hands and feet of Christ is after a disaster.

Earlier this year, we developed a three year strategy that will help us grow to a $3M organization. This is an audacious goal, but we believe it is needed so that we can say “yes” to requests more often. As our fund grows, we can help our global partners reach their vision more effectively. Our plan includes strategies to become even more excellent in our efforts to meet crisis needs through disaster relief and chronic needs through holistic development initiatives.

Part of this strategy and growth is a renewed passion and commitment to partner with churches, donors, and organizations. We developed many new partnerships over the last year. We have been able to offer matching funds to churches that supported relief efforts, create new and innovative collaborative efforts with organizations, and develop even deeper relationships with our donors.

We truly feel that we are experiencing the hand of God’s good grace and favor. You are a huge part of that. Your generosity and excitement has been contagious over the past year. We hope that you will feel a healthy sense of pride as you look over this annual report. We could not accomplish this without you.

In Christ,

ARDF was created to be the strong hands of Christ, reaching out in solidarity with our brothers and sisters around the world. ARDF encourages families and communities in need with practical help and solid solutions through a living Gospel that feeds body, soul, and spirit so that all may live in dignity and seek eternal life in Jesus Christ.
INTRODUCTION

OUR MISSION
ARDF’s mission is to work alongside strategic partners to alleviate suffering through disaster relief and to foster the flourishing of communities through development projects, expanding the Kingdom of Christ through tangible works of compassion. We do this by
• Mutually crossing cultural and economic boundaries.
• Focusing on Africa, Asia, and Latin America.
• Supporting holistic, community-based relief and development projects that incorporate evangelism.
• Using the highest quality project research and outcome evaluation available.
• Partnering with US churches to collaboratively build a culture of global engagement and mission.

Inspired by God’s radical grace, we exist to support Anglicans in the developing world to show the love of Christ to those in need in their own communities.

OUR OPPORTUNITY
As many as 700 million people live on less than $2 a day, most without clean water, food, education, healthcare, or employment. Countless numbers suffer under oppression, broken political systems, endemic violence, and despair. They are our brothers and sisters, who, like all of us, long for hope and transformation.

As Anglicans and members of the Body of Christ, we are connected to a global network of spiritually rich congregations and grassroot ministries that are already serving the poor and proclaiming the Gospel in incredible ways.

OUR IMPACT
ARDF builds powerful partnerships with Anglicans in Africa, Asia, and Latin America to relieve extreme suffering and transform lives through sustainable, high-impact development projects. Our unique, Christ-centered development model focuses on thorough research, local partners, and transparent financial accountability.

Whether a given project focuses on education, clean water, accessible healthcare, economic opportunity, food security, or agriculture, ARDF believes that local partnerships are the best way to positively transform our world.

When disaster strikes, the local church is often in the best position to reach out to bring healing and restoration to those affected by tragedy. ARDF works with leaders on the ground to make an immediate difference, initiate long-term solutions, and bring the hope of Christ to communities across the globe.

OUR HISTORY
ARDF was founded in 2004 with the support of then Bishop Robert Duncan as a way to channel giving from Anglican donors in North America to Anglican churches in the economically poorer countries of the Anglican Communion.

From the start, ARDF consciously adopted an organizational model intended to strengthen international relationships based on mutual respect and a shared faith in Jesus Christ. To achieve this end, a board of Arch-bishops leads ARDF. Representing orthodox Anglican Provinces in the Global South, they are crucial in determining priorities, approving large development projects, and keeping ARDF firmly linked to the Church.

“For the first time in the history of giving within the Church, we see true partnership, not patronage,” commented The Most Rev. Henry Luke Orombi, former Archbishop of the Church of the Province of Uganda and a founding ARDF Global Trustee.

This model has forged strong ties between the ACNA and Anglican leaders from around the world. These Gospel-centered partnerships make the local Anglicans who implement ARDF’s projects feel “connected to the Body of Christ – not just a charity,” in the words of Bishop Flavio Soares, Diocese of Recife, Brazil.

COMMITTED TO MEETING NEED

ARDF is COMMITTED to the Gospel.

ARDF is EFFECTIVE because its projects are researched and evaluated before implementation, and are based on recommendations from the Global Trustees.

ARDF is SUSTAINABLE because every project is locally initiated and implemented with the advice and council of ARDF and its consultants.

ARDF is EFFICIENT because it works within existing church structures in implementing projects.

ARDF is EMPOWERING because it is guided by thoughtful Christian leaders in support of the needs of the Christian community.

ARDF IS THE ANGLICAN CHURCH IN ACTION GLOBALLY.

COMMITTED TO THE DEVELOPING WORLD

- Myanmar Seminary
- South Sudan Girls’ School
- Nigeria Multi-purpose Center
- Ghana Girls’ Dorm
- Middle East Language School

COMMITTED TO HOLISTIC DEVELOPMENT

ARDF ministers to the whole person. We do this by funding projects that fall into one of these six categories: Community Development, Economic Empowerment, Education, Evangelism and Discipleship, Food Security, and Health. All ARDF projects are holistic and many fall into more than one category. Every project proclaims Christ through the development process.
Here is a snapshot of some of the projects ARDF supported this year:

JUBA, SOUTH SUDAN

Good Shepherd Academy expanded their classrooms and now can accommodate more students, as well as have space for reconciliation and peace-building workshops, hosted by the church.

In their own words:

“Not only will the classrooms allow access to some of the students whom we would have turned away each year, but the classrooms will also provide a friendly space for quality learning and the spiritual development of these children. Ministering to these kids brings them peace of mind and restores hope for the families who have suffered a great deal because of war. Moreover, our work forges reconciliatory work as families from different communities work and see each other every day in this process of educating their kids.” — The Rev. John Chol Daau, Director/Founder, Good Shepherd Academy

YANGON, MYANMAR

Holy Cross Theological College is expanding its facilities to offer a quality and advanced theological education to a new generation of students, who will serve the Anglican church in Myanmar.

In their own words:

“I am one of the Holy Cross Theological College alumni. I must say that [the college] is the only provincial level college offering an accredited theological degree and fully run by the Church of the Province of Myanmar. This is the best place to train Myanmar Anglican priests. This college continues to produce committed priests serving the Anglican church with great zeal and commitment. I thank God for this great college that has united us Anglicans in Myanmar.” — The Rev. Enoka, a member of the Khumi Chin people group

MPWAPWA, TANZANIA

The Anglican Diocese of Mpwapwa opened Queen Esther Girls Secondary School to educate local girls whose families couldn’t afford school fees. They are now expanding the school with a student hostel, science block, and library.

In their own words:

“For me, I am so amazed [by the dormitory]. I didn’t expect it to be that good. I thought it would be just normal. But I am so amazed; it’s very beautiful. And as an environment, it is very safe for us as students.” — Current Student, Queen Esther Girls Secondary School

Occasionally, ARDF has the opportunity to invest in a development project that is beyond the scope of our “Traditional Development Grants.” As we move into the future, ARDF is envisioning partnering on more of these larger scale development projects. These large scale projects can make a more substantial impact, and may motivate new funders to join the partnership due to a compelling vision to help in a significant way.

Here is a snapshot of one of our current large scale projects:

MARSABIT, KENYA

Two new Christian high schools will unlock barriers for students living in the arid, impoverished region of Northern Kenya, an area where Christians are in the minority. Phase one is to construct St. Andrew’s High School for Boys in the town of Badasa. A high school for girls will follow.

In their own words:

“As a girl from Northern Kenya, I want to thank the Anglican church for investing in schools that offer quality education. Without such schools, I might never have had the opportunity to go to school in the first place. I owe my future to the church… I am now a teacher, inspiring other young girls in my area. Hundreds of girls in remote and rural parts of Marsabit have benefited from education.” – Jane, former student, Marsabit, Kenya

St. Andrew’s School for Boys is scheduled to open in April 2022. Operated by the church, the school will meet the need for a local high school offering a quality Christian education, giving students from Tumaini Academy and other primary schools operated by the church a chance to attend high school close to home.

The church has a track record of operating schools that provide a high quality education. Students from Tumaini regularly receive top scores on National Exams and thus gain the opportunity to go to high school. But these are often across the country. Many parents cannot afford the transport to visit their students, even if they have received a scholarship to attend. St. Andrew’s will provide a local option and will draw other parents to the region as they seek a high quality education for their children.

SMALL DEVELOPMENT GRANTS

Each year, ARDF funds up to $65,000 in small grants. While researched, these proposals do not face the same rigorous approval process and allow us to more quickly award funds. These smaller projects are also helpful in identifying new partners, or allowing an existing partner to head off an unexpected challenge in their community.

Here is a snapshot of the small development projects ARDF funded this year:

NAIROBI, KENYA

Carlile College Theological School is known throughout East Africa as an excellent school for evangelism. With the help of a generous donor, ARDF has provided scholarships for the past four years, allowing 20 students from the underserved regions of Burundi, Democratic Republic of Congo, and South Sudan to gain mission training.

In their own words:
“My participation in these activities has made me strong and bold. I thank God for Carlile College, as they have changed my life.” – Thomas Thijin Wuor

MIDDLE EAST

Our partner has a simple vision: to develop a community center that will serve as a community hub where friendships naturally develop through shared experiences. They are starting with a “Discovery Club,” a tutoring club for children ages 10-13 that will bring families together in a safe space to produce lifelong learners.

In their own words:
“Thousands of years ago the Lord brought forth springs in the desert for the children of Israel: ‘Behold, I will do something new, now it will spring forth; will you not be aware of it? I will even make a roadway in the wilderness, rivers in the desert.’ (Isaiah 43:19) Our prayer is that from this community center, rivers of living water would likewise spring forth, bringing new life and new hope to the unreached peoples in our midst.”
– Our implementer (name withheld for security reasons)

GHANA

St. John’s School in Tamale needed extra funds to complete a girls’ hostel, part of an earlier ARDF grant.

In their own words:
“I have enjoyed my stay and study at the St. John’s Anglican Senior High School. The teachers are good and doing their best under the circumstances to provide us a future. Their teachings are interesting and academically stimulating, and useful for our future. I believe that when the dormitory block is complete the School will achieve more good results and that will attract more students to the School. We are grateful to ARDF for giving the School financial assistance to build a girl’s dormitory. God bless you.” – Hannah Anaaba, Girls Prefect, St. John’s

SUSTAINABILITY LOANS

Many of our partners desire to become more sustainable and less dependent upon foreign aid. Also, in many countries, financing is not possible due to a lack of banking infrastructure or very high interest rates. In order to assist our partners, ARDF has piloted some business projects that are partial grant and partial very low interest loan. The loan is repaid into a fund to implement additional ministry.

Here is a snapshot of one of our Sustainability Loans:

NAMBALE, KENYA

The Nambale Magnet School is a church-operated primary school that serves orphans and other vulnerable school children. A loan/grant combination from ARDF allowed the school to scale up its poultry farming by using more modern, efficient techniques, as well as a new breed of chicken.

The project provided food and income for the school and jobs for the community. Local farmers also benefited from training that improved their own poultry production, marketing, and basic business skills.

In their own words:
“[This project] has been a transformational venture for us.” — The Rev. Evalyn Wakhusama, project leader

“I have been buying eggs in large quantities from Nambale Magnet School for the last one year. As a result, my egg business has expanded and continues to attract new customers. We as business people are honored to support this venture. I love seeing local people come to learn poultry farming from the school and therefore ensuring knowledge is transferred to hundreds of people.” — Martin Wabwire, customer and local egg wholesaler, Nambale, Kenya

Because of the success of this project, the church was able to pay back the loan right on schedule. Those funds have already been invested in another sustainable loan project in Kenya.

ARDF responds to large-scale disasters by working with a local diocese of the Anglican Church. The local diocese serves as the intermediary to distribute donated funds to affected churches, individuals, or front-line responders.

Last fiscal year, ARDF distributed nearly $400,000 to the relief efforts of churches and local ministries for 18 disasters! This is a huge increase from last year. Of course, relief numbers never tell the entire story. Behind these numbers are some new initiatives, sweet stories of partnership, and a lot of impact. Of course, we could not have done any of this without the generous support of our donors.

THE JOSEPH FUND
It used to be that the relief efforts ARDF funds would predictably happen in the fall, coinciding with the North American hurricane season. However, in recent years, we find natural disasters occurring throughout the year. This has complicated our ability to raise funds for disaster relief.

In the past, we waited until a disaster was imminent and in our news cycle before we successfully raised funds for a particular event. But many of the most devastating disasters happen in parts of the world that never make our news at all! Even though we do not see it, there is almost always a disaster – from flooding to famine to COVID relief. ARDF consistently receives requests for disaster relief funding.

With this in mind, ARDF launched The Joseph Fund for Disaster Relief, based upon the story of Joseph and his management of resources in Egypt. Genesis 41 tells the story of Joseph spending seven years saving resources to be ready for a seven-year famine. His foresight and planning enabled the nation to be ready to respond to an otherwise devastating situation. This fund allows us to be more excellent, efficient, and effective when disaster season arrives. When a disaster occurs, we are now able to respond immediately.

This vision has resonated with our donors and from February through June of 2021, we raised more than $200,000 for the Joseph Fund. It is our prayer that this fund will allow us to alleviate suffering, represent Christ with excellence, and meet people at the time of their greatest need.

CHURCH PARTNERSHIPS
Armed with these donations to the Joseph Fund, we were then able to work with churches in the United States to get funds to various relief efforts. When churches came to us with funds for a disaster, we were able to match their efforts and make a larger impact for good overseas!

ARDF matched funds given for COVID relief, flooding in Uganda, and refugee efforts in Tigray, Ethiopia. These are just a few examples.

We are excited about the potential to join together with more US churches to benefit those affected by disasters not always highlighted in the mainstream news.

YOU CAN FIND MORE DETAILS ABOUT ALL OF ARDF’S RELIEF EFFORTS AT ARDF.ORG/RELIEF.
Far and away, the largest relief event ARDF supported last fiscal year was COVID relief. Supporting the effort of churches in 12 countries, ARDF distributed nearly $180,000 to help churches feed, clothe, house, and heal members in their communities.

When restrictions in the United States began to loosen, the rest of the world was hit by the Delta variant, putting extreme pressure on systems already weakened by the first wave of the pandemic.

NEPAL
In Nepal, a resurgence of COVID combined with other tragedies, meant that the church was needed more than ever. They distributed food and sanitation items, but also offered prayer to an anxiety-ridden community and physical comfort to those in isolation because of COVID.

“‘This is our privilege to give thanks to Almighty God for His provision in our ministries of Nepal. Thank you so much for your constant prayer.’”
– Rev. Rinzi Lama, Anglican Church in Nepal

INDIA
The second wave of the COVID pandemic hit India hard. Once again, the poor and the destitute suffered the most. Hospitals ran out of beds, oxygen, and medicines. Unscrupulous people took advantage of this crisis and sold oxygen and medicines at exorbitant rates on the black market. The Anglican Church of North India responded to the crisis by helping 500 families with hand sanitizer, surgical masks, soap, ox-y-meters and vitamins.

“We as the Anglican Church of North India stand in solidarity and prayer with the thousands of victims in India.” – The Right Rev. Dr. Probal Kanto Dutta, Anglican Church of North India

CAMBODIA
In Cambodia, a new partner of ours, People for Care and Learning, determined that direct food assistance was the most important way to help families. They distributed packets containing rice, noodles, soy sauce, fish sauce, salt, sugar, canned fish, and vegetables and gave it to families in need in the communities where they already work.

“This food helped me and my family a lot. During the COVID time I have no job to do because now no tourists or anyone comes to Cambodia and they close all the markets and many factories. So I have no job to do and no way to earn the money. Now I just farm the rice field and try to survive with my family. Thank you so much for helping my family during this time.” – Recipient from Stab Village

GLOBALLY
The churches in Haiti, Kenya, Myanmar, Tanzania, and Uganda also rose to the challenge, and despite the dire situation, brought tangible acts of compassion through food relief and medicine. In total, ARDF sent COVID relief funds to 14 different countries during the fiscal year.

As this goes to press, many of these efforts are ongoing. We ask you to join us in praying for these church leaders as they navigate these difficult times.

In the year of a pandemic, natural disasters are an extra burden. However, we remain inspired by the numerous volunteers who served their neighbors in these times of great need.

LOUISIANA
Hurricanes Laura and Delta
Partner: The Anglican Diocese of the Western Gulf Coast
Amount of Funding: $17,000

After Hurricane Laura made landfall shortly after midnight on August 27, 2020, the Anglican Church sprang into action. The Rev. Peter Johnson, Rector of Trinity Anglican (Lafayette, LA) and a host of volunteers initially made daily runs into the towns in and around Lake Charles, bringing crucial supplies.

Teams from several churches in Texas and Louisiana served Moss Bluff (North of Lake Charles). Volunteers cooked lunch and dinner while others worked on debris removal and roof tarping at local homes. In Iowa and Bell City, Anglicans partnered with two Catholic churches to bring meals and distribute supplies.

All of this was aided by the support from two ACNA churches: St. Paul’s in Conway, South Carolina, and St. Francis in Sanford, North Carolina. They donated roofing supplies, which were in high demand, and prayer shawls.

“Your support has been critical to our recovery efforts. In the weeks following the storm, your church partners not only provided much-needed funds, but also sent heartwarming messages of support and solidarity. Your generous support has been a true gift during this difficult time.”
– Recipient from Srah Village

TEXAS
Ice Storms and Extreme Cold Weather
Partner: The Diocese of Fort Worth, The Austin Disaster Relief Network, Christmas in Action (Midland), Christ Church (Austin)
Amount of Funding: $74,000

Volunteers supported those affected by the extreme weather in Texas in several ways. For some, monetary support was given for house water damage, cracked windows due to the severe temperature change, and bill payments and late fines owed when work hours were reduced because of the storm.

In East Austin, an organization serving an impoverished community received money to fix burst pipes. In Midland, volunteers with Christmas in Action focused on home repairs for the low-income elderly and the disabled. In Fort Worth, the Diocese was able to support the repair efforts of churches and congregations hard hit by the weather.

In addition to these large-scale efforts, ARDF also provided funds to communities rebuilding after fires and tornados.

All of our domestic efforts are implemented by volunteers, who come as the hands and feet of Jesus to those in need. We are grateful for them, as they are the true heroes of our domestic disaster work.

ARDF is committed to careful stewardship and financial transparency. We consider every donation to be a sacred trust. We are happy to provide our supporters with the resources and data they need to be confident that their generosity is resulting in the highest possible return on investment in the form of permanently transformed lives and communities.
