Impact Analyst

About Slingshot Memphis
Slingshot Memphis is a poverty-fighting center of influence that's igniting a movement the way we fight poverty. We are disrupting traditional methods of alleviating poverty by introducing analytical, outcomes-driven approaches.

Unlike business, medicine, and many other sectors that have established, objective processes for measuring outcomes, the poverty-fighting ecosystem simply hasn't. This makes it nearly impossible to know which programs and services most effectively reduce the social and economic gaps in Memphis.

Slingshot has addressed this by developing a new, standardized methodology to measure poverty-fighting effectiveness. By providing previously unavailable insights about poverty-fighting outcomes, we empower decision makers to allocate financial and other resources toward solutions that produce effective outcomes for those experiencing poverty.

We believe that as our community embraces this new methodology—or “Poverty-Fighting Feedback Loop”—we can measurably reduce poverty and accelerate access to equitable opportunities for all Memphians.

About Slingshot's Work
Slingshot performs three primary functions to achieve its mission. First, we work alongside poverty-fighting organizations to study their effectiveness. We call this an impact study. Second, we identify opportunities to enhance the outcomes that poverty-fighting organizations produce. Third, we raise funds in the community and invest 100% of these funds directly in poverty-fighting organizations to amplify effective programs and services.

An impact study is a 2–5 month process where Slingshot gathers evidence and performs the analysis necessary to accurately determine an organization's poverty-fighting effectiveness. Over a series of meetings, Slingshot gathers evidence from an organization, conducts external research, performs quantitative and qualitative analysis, creates impact profiles to capture the evidence and insights, identifies the appropriate impact results, and prioritizes opportunities for greater impact. Each year, Slingshot updates the impact study to capture the changes in effectiveness. We strive to not only employ similar rigor as for-profit professional services organizations but also the heart necessary to meet people where they are and assist them from a place of humility and hope.

About the Impact Analyst role
Slingshot seeks an Impact Analyst to help support the impact study process. This role reports to the Impact Manager and will work with multiple Impact Associates to support several impact studies at a time. The Impact Analyst will also have responsibilities to help further enhance Slingshot's methodology, processes, and impact.
Responsibilities

- Support the impact study process for several poverty-fighting organizations
- Participate in impact study meetings with organizations
- Synthesize the evidence collected from organizations during meetings into an impact profile, which is a comprehensive repository of evidence that provides an accurate assessment of an organization’s poverty-fighting impact
- Develop program maps and impact trees that provide a visual diagram of the services within a poverty-fighting program and the outcomes it produces
- Support the secondary research of the social challenges addressed, practices used, and benefits created by organizations
- Ensure sufficient evidence exists to enable Slingshot to assign an impact result for each dimension
- Support the creation of deliverables that communicate the poverty-fighting impact of an organization and the associated research and evidence

Qualifications

- Personal interest in alleviating poverty, innovating new solutions, and building equity
- Strong self-awareness, coachability, and empathy
- Proactively seek constructive feedback and have a desire to continually improve
- Effective collaboration skills and the ability to work effectively with a team
- Experience conducting secondary research to make a decision or reach a conclusion and using quantitative analysis to inform decision-making
- Demonstrated rigor and quality of work, including excellent attention to detail
- Relevant undergraduate degree and/or 0-5 years of applicable work experience

Salary

Minimum salary of at least $40,000 with up to a 7.5% performance bonus along with healthcare benefits and a 401k match. Starting salary scales with experience and education.

Application

To apply, send your resume and a brief statement of interest to John Dunavant at careers@slingshotmemphis.org with Impact Analyst in the subject line. Your statement of interest should describe why you are interested in working with Slingshot and how your skills and experience fit with the responsibilities for the role, including: how you manage projects and work streams, how you identify and solve problems, and how you develop professional relationships. Slingshot will follow up with selected applicants to schedule an interview, at which time professional and personal references will be requested. Slingshot is an equal opportunity employer.